DEMOCRATS MAP 10-POINT PLAN IN SENATE TO HALT RECESSION

Leaders Ready to Give It Early Start in Congress — WPA Program Is Last Resort Idea.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —Senate Democrats were drafting a 10-point economic recovery program today which party leaders plan to give an early start through Congress.

The program is being put together by individual committees under the guidance of the Democratic policy committee headed by Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. It will represent the party's answer to demands that Congress act before the business slump gets worse.

Johnson is understood to have told his colleagues that while he is opposed to a "gloom and doom" attitude, he thinks immediate steps must be taken to combat unemployment which now has reached 4,500,000.

In this connection, he has asked committees operating under Senators J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, John Sparkman of Alabama, Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, Lister Hill of Alabama, Robert Kerr of Oklahoma and Albert Gore of Tennessee, to come up with legislative proposals to cover a wide field of Government activity to bolster the economy.

10 Points Listed.

As Johnson views the program, it would shape up like this:

1. A comprehensive housing bill aimed at getting limping industry going full blast.

2. Legislation to permit federal reserve banks to make loans to small businesses which certify they cannot get credit in ordinary channels.

3. Passage of a Post Office construction bill.

4. Authorizations to put on extra shifts of workers on public works projects for which Congress has provided the money.

5. Construction of military housing in areas with soft spots of unemployment.

6. Action to start and speed up with extra shifts work on reclamation projects which have been authorized by Congress.

7. Repeal of the pay-as-you-go provision so the interstate highway program can be speeded up.

8. Authorization for additional hospitals to be built under the Hill-Burton act.

9. Action to authorize the planning of new projects aimed at providing more business for basic industries.

10. A Works Progress Administration program to be thrown into the breach if other efforts fail to stem the recession.

Johnson, who had experience with the National Youth Administration and the Works Progress Administration in the depression of the 1930s, has told his colleagues he wants no leaf-raking projects.

A Last Resort Measure.

For that reason the Democratic leader has contended that any WPA type of program ought to be held in reserve to be used only as a last resort.

Johnson has avoided public comment on President Eisenhower's expression of confidence yesterday that the economic downturn has about run its course and that March should see a start toward increased employment.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn said today Democratic leaders are going to start a

City's Legislators Supporting Blair's Earnings Tax Proposal

St. Louisans Point Out They Won't Be Under Pressure to Vote Directly for Higher Levy.

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 13 —Members of the Legislature from St. Louis expressed approval today of Gov. James T. Blair's plan to clear the way for an increase in the St. Louis earnings tax. They pointed out that Blair's proposal would end pressure on them by eliminating the need for them to vote directly for a higher levy.

The Governor announced yesterday he would ask the special session of the Legislature early next week to repeal a state statute which limits the St. Louis earnings tax to a top rate of one-half of 1 per cent of gross earnings of individuals and net income of corporations. The tax is now being levied under a city charter amendment.

Meanwhile, state and city officials were studying the situation to determine whether repeal of the state law would cast doubt on the city's authority to levy any earnings tax.

Gov. Blair expressed the view that repeal of the legislation would permit the St. Louis Board of Aldermen to submit to city voters a new charter amendment fixing the tax at a higher rate.

The Board of Aldermen had adopted a resolution urging the Governor to ask the Legislature to permit a higher tax. The plan, backed by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker's administration, was for the Legislature to authorize an increase to three-fourths of 1 per cent, thus boosting collections from

JET STREAM TRIPS UP WEATHERMAN IN 30-DAY OUTLOOK

WASHINGTON Feb. 13 (AP) —A Weather Bureau official said yesterday that while the bureau's 30-day outlook for February has so far been "almost wholly a failure," the month is not over yet and that trends forecast might still develop.

Jerome Namias, chief of the Extended Forecast Section, said it was true that events have so far proved "just the opposite" from a predicted temperatures averaging above seasonal normals over the Northeast quarter of the nation and also in the south Atlantic states. He also said that a prediction of below normal temperatures over the Southwest has been only partly borne out.

Namias said that he had expected the high-altitude jet stream, which has been far south of normal for the past six weeks, would move north, bringing a warming trend. It failed to do so, he said.

He said the "jet" still might swing northward before the month is over, and that this, with other factors, might still bring a warming trend for the Northeast quarter and the south Atlantic states — and probably also a cooling trend in the Southwest.

U.S. SATELLITE'S STRONGER RADIO STOPS SIGNALING

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — The United States satellite Explorer's more powerful radio voice apparently has gone off the air after 11 days of transmitting scientific information from space. The satellite's second but less powerful radio transmitter is continuing to operate.

The Army, which launched the Explorer the night of Jan. 31, said yesterday that the first indication the transmitter had ceased operating came from listening points in Europe. Then the Naval Research Laboratory reported no signals from the transmitter were heard in the Explorer's passes over its tracking system in North and South America.

The transmitter went off the air a few days earlier than the original estimate of a two-week life time for the batteries. The second transmitter, drawing less power from the batteries, is expected to continue operating until April The second transmitter relays most of the scientific information that was transmitted on the more powerful radio.

Francis H. Murphy Jr., 558 South Clay avenue, Kirkwood, an amateur radio operator, reported he had not heard the Explorer signal on the 108.03-megacycle band since 8 p.m. Tuesday, although the less powerful 108-megacycle signal still comes through regularly.

2 SCULLIN STEEL DIRECTORS QUIT OVER SALE PLAN

Objected to Some Terms of Transfer to Universal Marion Corp., One Says.

William H. Bixby and Joseph H. Grand, St. Louis "independent" directors of Scullin Steel Co., have resigned from Scullin's board in protest against a plan approved yesterday for the St. Louis concern to be bought by Universal Marion Corp. of Washington, D.C., the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Both Scullin and Universal Marion are controlled by the Louis E. Wolfson interests. Bixby and Grand were the only "independent" St. Louis members on the board. Bixby is a partner in G. H. Walker & Co. brokerage firm. Grand is an attorney.

Grand confirmed reports in financial circles today that he and Bixby had resigned from the Scullin board. The reason, he said, was that he and Bixby did not approve some of the terms under which Marion was to acquire Scullin. He declined to elaborate.

Price About $8,460,000.

Scullin's board of directors met in New York yesterday and approved for stockholders' consideration a purchase plan indicating a price of approximately $8,460,000.

Grand verified reports he informed the Scullin management Tuesday that he could not go along with the announced intention of other directors to approve the offer, and that he was quitting.

Bixby could not be reached immediately for comment. The Scullin announcement of the proposed sale did not mention that Bixby and Grand had resigned.

Wolfson, 46-year-old financier and son of an immigrant junk dealer, was born in St. Louis. He has figured in many business deals and gained wide notice in 1954 during his unsuccessful attempt to gain control of the Montgomery Ward & Co. mail order firm.

Under the proposal, Universal Marion, formerly the Capital Transit Co., would acquire the assets of Scullin Steel on the basis of one and three-fourths shares of Universal Marion common stock for each of the 338,424 shares of Scullin common stock now outstanding.

The offer amounts to about $25 a share for Scullin stock, which closed in yesterday's market at $23.12. Universal Marion closed at $14.25 a share.

Operations to Continue.

A spokesman for Scullin, which has general office and worke at 6700 Manchester avenue, said operation of the

Secret Shark Report Released, Contains Old News Articles

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (UP) —From the limbo of its World War II files the Defense Department today fished a 1944 shark report, removed its secret classification and let the world know about 69 cases in which sharks attacked human beings. Fifty-five of the assaults occurred between 1907 and 1940; the report contains newspaper clippings telling all about them.

There also are excerpts from an article called "The Shark Situation in the Waters about New York," printed in the Brooklyn Museum Quarterly in 1916.

Defense officials said what occasioned marking the document secret was the inclusion of some accounts which mentioned the sinking of German submarines and United States Navy engagements. One of these quoted a survivor of the cruiser U.S.S. Juneau, which went down in the Pacific in 1942, on the death of a shipmate:

"This shark took his whole right shoulder completely out. . . . The sharks were getting close in the water because of his blood. . . . He pushed himself off the life net and swam out above five or six feet and let the sharks have him rather than lay there . . . and jeopardize the lives of his shipmates."

A Pentagon spokesman said the report probably was compiled by Navy medical men in research for a shark repellent.

It was exhumed from the files and declassified at the request of the House Government information subcommittee which is fighting unnecessary secrecy.

A subcommittee spokesman said the shark report, like the recently disclosed secret study on bows and arrows, was an "example" of what could be done to pry loose material that could be made public.

GUERRILLA WAR IS THREATENED AGAINST FRENCH ARMY IN TUNISIA

Bourguiba Says He'd Lead Attacks to Get Troops Out—Willing to Deal, but Only After Evacuation.

TUNIS, Feb. 13 (AP)—President Habib Bourguiba said today that he would personally lead the Tunisian people in a guerrilla war if necessary to get French troops off Tunisian soil.

The Tunisian president, in a speech recorded for delivery later today, warned French authorities than any armed effort to break out of their blockaded bases in Tunisia would be met by force.

Bourguiba added, however, that he did not despair of seeing wisdom gain control of the French side. He said he still wanted to negotiate with France, but only after the evacuation of the 15,000 French troops on his soil.

(The United Press said in a Paris dispatch that France has offered to resume negotiations with Tunisia on the eventual withdrawal of French troops, according to NATO sources.

(The sources said France informed its allies of the move at a meeting of the permanent NATO council — the second NATO meeting in two days to discuss the French-Tunisian crisis. Count Etienne de Crouy-Chanel, the French delegate, told his allies France had delivered a new note to Tunisia offering to resume talks broken off after the French bombing of the Tunisian village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef last Saturday.)

Rise in Minor Incidents.

Bourguiba recorded his speech as tension mounted throughout his country and the French reported increasing minor incidents involving French troops, bases and civilians.

France warned the Tunisians through diplomatic channels that further grave incidents might arise as a result of Tunisian refusal to allow French forces to supply their garrisons.

The French warning was contained in a note delivered to Bourgiba's chief minister, Bahi Ladgham, as the president was recording his speech.

Bourguiba said he realized the big Bizerte naval base was important to NATO. He said he was ready to discuss with any NATO power except France the use of the base.

Bourguiba's speech did not make clear whether any such arrangement with NATO powers would bar French ships from using the base.

The Tunisian president set aside French arguments that the supplying of the blockaded garrisons with food should be allowed as a humanitarian move. He said the evacuation of these troops to France would solve the problem of feeding them.

Aid in Medical Cases.

Bourguiba said that in medical cases the Tunisian government would offer all facilities to remove the sick.

At the end of the recording session a newspaper man asked Bourguiba: "If France would accept the mediation of the United States to return harmony to the relations between France and Tunisia to put an end to this situation, would you agree to withdraw your complaint to the United Nations?"

Bourguiba replied, "Yes, I would withdraw our complaint to the United Nations."

(In Paris, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said there could be no reopening

YOUTH WHO FELL IN CANYON WAVES TO HIS RESCUERS

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Feb. 13 (AP)—A weak handwave from a boy lying helpless on a ledge in a snowy canyon spurred efforts today to reach him while he still is alive. Fourteen - year - old Donald Burns fell 300 feet into the 900-foot-deep canyon yesterday while on a hike. Last night there was fog, rain and snow.

This morning rescuers peering down from the lip of the canyon saw him wave feebly. This was the first sign of life they had seen since darkness set in when he cried and waved. There was a possibility he may have a broken leg.

A team of four mountaineers descended the canyon slopes on ropes, while another team, using alpine gear, worked its way up from the bottom.

The canyon is at the 5000-foot level on 11,485-foot Mt. San Gorgonio 35 miles east of San Bernardino.

Burns, of nearby Colton, was hiking with schoolmates yesterday when he slipped on an icy trail at the top of Big Falls. He fell with the cascading water about 100 feet to a ledge. The falling water pushed him from the ledge and he fell another 200 feet to the bottom of the canyon.

BRITISH WORKING ON ROCKET MORE ADVANCED THAN THOSE U.S. HAS

Medium Range Missile Would Be Fired From Under Ground — Russia Termed Vulnerable.

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP)— The British government announced today it is developing a medium range ballistic rocket more advanced than the ones Americans now possess and is designing it for launching from underground sites.

A white paper published by the Defense Ministry said this weapon "is being developed on the highest priority in close co-operation" with the United States.

The white paper said the agreement under which American intermediate range ballistic missiles will be located in Britain "will be completed shortly."

Denies Upset in Power Balance

Regarding the relative strength of the West and the Soviet Union, the document said:

"Russia's successful launching of artificial satellites is evidence of her remarkable progress in rocket development. But it should not be thought that this has upset the balance of military power."

The Government said balancing fears in East and West of mutual annihilation make a world war unlikely "for another generation or more."

The white paper said if the Soviet Union launched a major attack on the West, "even with conventional forces only," the Western powers "would have to hit back with strategic nuclear weapons."

The Soviet Union, for geographic reasons, is more vulnerable to rocket attack than are the Western powers, the Government said, explaining:

"The over-all superiority of the West is likely to increase rather than diminish as a consequence of the advent of medium range ballistic rockets. These weapons, against which there is at present no answer, could from sites in Europe and elsewhere dominate practically every target of importance in the Soviet Union.

No Strategic Advaptage.

"The possession by Russia of rockets of equal range will not, for reasons of geography, afford her any corresponding strategic advantage. It would be of no use to her to attack Western Europe unless she could simultaneously knock out the vital strategic air bases in the United States.

"She could at present have no reasonable hope of achieving this with manned bombers and it will take her several years to complete the development of an accurate intercontinental rocket and produce it in sufficient numbers."

The white paper expressed the hope that agreement will be reached by the world's powers on limiting arms. It said:

"Today no country can hope to gain anything by war, and all would derive incalculable benefit from the restoration of mutual confidence and real peace. There can, however, be no such confidence or peace so long as the arms race continues. Means must be found to halt and reverse this process."

The white paper said also the Government is co-operating closely with the Americans on development of a nuclear submarine for Britain.

Arming With H-Bombs.

The defense statement repeated an Air Ministry announcement two months ago that Britain's bomber command is being outfitted with hydrogen bombs. Britain exploded its first H-bomb last May.

In explaining defense aims for the fiscal year beginning April 1, the paper said British planes armed with H-bombs would "constitute a formidable deterrent" to possible Soviet aggression. This is so even though the British striking power would not be as large as that wielded by the United States Strategic Air Command, it added.

Development is under way, the paper said, on a propelled bomb "which can be released from considerable distance, making it unnecessary for aircraft to fly into the more heavily defended target area." The United States Air Force is working on a similar weapon as a missile to be launched from B-52 bombers.

The White paper said Britain intends to maintain a fleet" east of Suez with Singapore as its main base.

TESTIFIES FCC MAN WAS PAID BY LAWYER FOR FIRM HE BACKED

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13— Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack received $2650 from a Miami (Fla.) attorney representing a company whose application for a television channel was supported by Mack, Dr. Bernard Schwartz testified today.

Schwartz, fired chief counsel of the House subcommittee investigating federal regulatory agencies, said Mack told his investigators he had "no specific recollection" that he repaid any of the money and that some of the "loans" had been "forgiven."

Schwartz disclosed also that before he was removed as chief counsel he was preparing to hold hearings on alleged "White House influence" in decisions by supposedly-independent regulatory boards and commissions.

Two Letters Introduced.

Baron I. Shacklette, chief investigator for the subcommittee, placed in the record two letters he said had been written by Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams to Murray M. Chotiner of Beverly Hills, Calif.

A Murray Chotiner of California was campaign manager for Vice President Richard M. Nixon in his campaign for the Senate and for his first term as Vice President. He was discharged after a Senate investigation of his activities.

The two letters were obtained from the files of the Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Senator John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, Shacklette testified. Their contents were not read.

Schwartz said the letters were not connected with the television case involving Commissioner Mack. "We were preparing to hold hearings on White House influence after the Channel 10 (Mack) case, and these two letters were pertinent," he added.

The committee wound up today's session in midafternoon with Schwartz agreeing to return Monday for further questioning on information he claims to have about other FCC commissioners and presidential assistant Adams.

The hearing, which was marked by frequent clashes between Schwartz and members of the subcommittee, immeasurably strengthened the former chief counsel's position in his row with subcommittee members. He presented a detailed analysis of his investigation of the Mack case.

Schwartz said Mack received and cashed six checks totaling $2650 between the time he was appointed to the Federal Communications Commission in the summer of 1955 and shortly after the time the FCC issued a decision in February 1957, awarding channel 10 in Miami to a wholly-owned subsidiary of National Airlines, Inc.

Drawn By Attorney.

The checks, which Schwartz read into the record, were drawn by Thurman A. Whiteside, a Miami attorney who was retained to represent the National Airlines subsidiary in the application it had pending before the FCC for channel 10.

(At Miami, Whiteside commented, "Schwartz is a damned liar." When Schwartz's testimony was read to him, Whiteside said, "he is lying in his teeth; he is testifying contrary to the information in his possession." Whiteside denied being employed as an attorney in the Channel 10 case.)

Mack, a resident of Miami, is a Democrat who supported President Eisenhower. He was appointed to the FCC by Mr. Eisenhower.

The FCC decision awarded channel 10 to Public Service Television, Inc., of Miami, the National Airlines subsidiary. Mack was one of the four commissioners who made up the majority in the 4-to-2 vote.

TRUMAN GUEST; 'MISSOURI WALTZ' WON'T BE PLAYED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (UP) —Former President Truman, who is from Missouri but does not "give a damn" about the Missouri Waltz, will not have to listen to it at a Democratic fund-raising dinner here Feb. 22.

The Democratic National Committee decided to omit the waltz, usually played at party functions attended by Truman. He will be guest of honor at the $100-a-plate dinner.

Asked about the melody on a television program recently the former President said: "I don't give a damn about it. . . . It's as bad as 'The Star Spangled Banner' as far as music is concerned."

CAPITALISTIC TASTE IN HATS SHOWN BY NEW RED ENVOY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —Russia's new ambassador to the United States, Mikhail Menshikov, shares with Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev an interest in good clothing.

When Menshikov visited the State Department yesterday reporters noted that the gray hat he threw wtih nonchalance on a chair in the diplomatic reception room was not Russian made. It did not come from a people's democracy either.

MOONSHINERS HAMPER SEARCH FOR LOST FLYERS

BRISTOL, Va., Feb. 1 (AP) —An old-time mountain industry is hampering the search for a Navy plane missing over the Virginia-Tennessee area since Feb. 2.

Civil Air Patrol searchers reported yesterday that smoke often was sighted in the mountainous area, and investigations were made to see if the two Navy men aboard the missing plane were lighting signal fires or sending up flares.

In each instance, the searchers said, the smoke came from moonshiners' stills.

SHIMODA, Japan, Feb. 13 (UP)—Twenty men who married heiresses and adopted their wives' names gathered here to protest against society gossip that they were henpecked fortune hunters. The meeting was broken up by a flood of telephone calls from angry wives demanding that their husbands return home.

PRESIDENT FLIES TO GEORGIA FOR 10-DAY VACATION

Will Hunt Quail and Turkey at Humphrey Estate — Most of Snow Melted.

MOULTRIE, Ga., Feb. 13 (AP) — President Eisenhower arrived at Spence Air Force base at 2:10 p.m. An inch of snow which fell last night had melted for the most part. The thermometer stood at 34 when the presidential plane arrived.

The Presidential party left immediately for Thomasville where Mr. Eisenhower will vacation for about 10 days at "Milestone," the plantation of George M. Humphrey, former secretary of the treasury, and Mrs. Humphrey. Thomasville is 27 miles south of Moultrie and almost on the Florida border.

The flight from Washington

2 Hour, 46 Minute Flight.

The flight from Washington was made in two hours and 46 minutes. When the Columbine III left Washington the temperature was 25 but there was no snow.

Mr. Eisenhower, still having traces of a cold contracted in Augusta, Ga., Feb. 2, hoped to find warmer weather at Thomasville so he could hunt and play golf. He wore a blue and white muffler under his black overcoat against a chill wind as he boarded the plane in Washington.

The departure was held up 22 minutes to await the arrival by commercial plane from New York of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis D. Slater, personal friends of the Eisenhowers. The Slaters were given a ride on the Columbine III to visit friends in the Thomasville area.

Quail and Turkey Hunting.

Mr. Eisenhower is looking forward to hunting quail and wild turkey on the far-ranging Humphrey estate. In other years the President and his host have also hunted on neighboring estates.

Man Sets Up Bank Robbery By Phone, Then Botches Job

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP) — A man posing as a worried physician organized a bank robbery on the telephone yesterday by simply luring everyone away from the safes and vaults. But all he got away with was his freedom.

Detectives said the armed man first broke into the home of bank manager John Baker and tied up Baker's wife. Then he telephoned the bank in suburban Edgware and told Baker to hurry home because his wife was sick.

Baker did so and found himself looking down a pistol barrel. Then the robber phoned the bank again and told Baker's two assistants their boss had been overcome on seeing his stricken wife.

The assistants hurried to the house, one carrying the bank keys. They were trussed up also. Then the robber set off for the empty bank with the keys in his pocket.

One of the assistants, meanwhile, managed to free himself. He telephoned the police, who sent squad cars rushing to the bank. They found the doors unlocked, but nothing apparently stolen — and no sign of the robber.

CONGRESS G.O.P. CAMPAIGN UNITS WILLING TO TAKE TEXAS MONEY

They Are Not Bound by National Committee Rejection of $100,000 Because of Gas Bill Taint.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —The chairmen of the Senate and House Republican campaign committees say they will accept the $100,000 raised by a Houston (Tex.) party dinner and rejected by the Republican national committee after disclosure it had been linked with votes for the natural gas bill.

Interviewed by telephone, Senator Andrew F. Schoeppel of Kansas and Representative Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania said yesterday that chairman Meade Alcorn's statement that the national committee would not accept funds from the dinner does not apply to their committees.

Schoeppel and Simpson joined in condemning the action of H. J. Porter, Texas national committeeman, in appealing for contributions in "appreciation" of the support by Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr., House minority leader, of legislation in behalf of oil and gas interests.

Won't Spurn Money.

However, Schoeppel and Simpson made it clear their indignation was not so great as to cause them to turn their backs on $100,000 in campaign contributions, or any part thereof.

In Houston, Porter said the $100,000, less expenses, would be used by the state committee if the national committee did not want it. Porter is finance chairman of the Texas Republican committee.

Asked for comment on Washington reports that White House sources were trying to get Porter to step aside as the party's leader in Texas, Porter said he would not resign from the national committee.

The Houston Chronicle said yesterday some political observers interpreted White House action of rejecting the $100,000 raised at the Monday night dinner "as a renewed effort by the Sherman Adams faction of the G.O.P. to get rid of Porter as national committeeman."

"It is know that Adams, Eisenhower's chief of staff, is anti-Porter, and has wanted him out as the Texas party leader for come time," the Chronicle said.

Schoeppel Explains Position.

"I knew nothing about the Porter letter until I read portions of it in the papers," Schoeppel said when he was reached in Independence, Kan. "It was unfortunate and does not bespeak the attitude of the Republicans of Texas who contributed honestly to help elect Republican Senators and Congressmen.

"We are certainly not going to take the position, however, that any money forwarded to us by the Republican state finance committee of Texas will not be accepted."

Schoeppel said that while the proceeds of such $100-a-plate dinners often are cleared through the national committee, it is not unusual for a state finance group to send the money directly to the congressional committees. He said he assumed this would be done in this case.

Simpson said that thus far the House committee had received no offer of any of the money collected at the Houston dinner. But he said that, so far as he is concerned, if money is forwarded by the state finance committee to his group it will be accepted.

Simpson called Porter's letter "crude and inexcusable." He said it put Martin in an unfair light.

Defends Martin.

"Everybody knows that Joe Martin's influence is not for sale," Simpson said. "Some of this money was contributed by persons who wished to get a legislative decision on a matter that I believe the Supreme Court unfortunately decided the wrong way.

"I see no reason why the contributions should not be accepted by our committee."

The bill, basically the measure which President Eisenhower vetoed two years ago because of what he said were "arrogant" lobbying tactics by some oil and gas men, would exempt natural gas producers from direct Federal regulation.

At Albuquerque, N.M., where he addressed a Lincoln day dinner, Martin told reporters last night that passage of the bill would have been difficult at best. Porter's letter will increase the difficulty, he said.

He said the letter's statement that Martin would have to muster 65 per cent of the House Republicans to the bill's support for passage was "preposterous."

"If we got 50 per cent of the Republicans, we would be very fortunate indeed," Martin said. "It isn't a party matter. It is for individual members to determine."

Cullen Defends Dinner.

By the United Press.

Oil man Roy H. Cullen said today that oil officials who honored Martin did so because he was "fighting for free enterprise"—not to influence his support of the natural gas bill.

Cullen, of Houston, Tex., one of the nation's wealthiest men, wrote a letter to the Washington Post and Times Herald. He said neither he nor most of the oil men who attended the Martin dinner would gain much "moneywise by the outcome of the gas bill" in Congress.

It was one of a series of courtesy calls by the new envoy, Mikhail Menshikov, in what appeared to be taking the shape of a determined good will offensive.

By all accounts, he and the Vice President discussed nothing more serious than the wonders of India, where Menshikov was stationed before coming to Washington, and the beauties of California, Nixon's home state.

The possible significance of the incident was the apparent desire of the new Ambassador to ingratiate himself with United States officials and the American public.

Other Calls Planned.

He told reporters he planned to pay similar get-acquainted calls on Speaker Sam Rayburn of the House of Representatives, some Senators and members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet.

The gray-haired diplomat wore a well-fitting double-breasted gray suit, a gleaming white shirt and a blue tie with subdued figures. At 55, he is ruddy, broad-shouldered and erect. He and his wife made a good impression at Tuesday night's White House diplomatic reception, according to one society page account, "with their well-dressed good looks and easy friendliness."

Exchange Visits.

Menshikov said he and Nixon discussed in general terms the "desirability" of exchange visits by "statesmen" and "leading personalities" of the United States and the Soviet Union. He and the Vice President both said there was no specific discussion of a possible Nixon visit to Russia.

The ambassador reported that he had expressed a desire to see California and other places of interest in this country if travel restrictions would permit.

Part of California, including San Francisco and Nixon's home town of Whittier, is closed to Soviet visitors in retaliation against restrictions on Americans' travel in Russia. It is possible, however, to arrange a waiver.

"I am in favor of removing all kinds of restrictions," Menshikov told questioners.

The United States has repeatedly called for the mutual abolition of all travel restrictions but has received no response from the Soviet Union.

Holds Conference.

By the United Press.

Menshikov held a State Department conference today with Francis O. Wilcox, assistant secretary for international organizations, and C. Budke Elbrick, assisstant secretary for European affairs.

Asked by reporters afterward if Nixn omight be invited to visit the Soviet Union, the envoy said "there always is a possibility for anyone to go there and they will be welcome."

He said his visits to the State Department were courtesy calls.

RED PARTY HEADS ARE REPORTED TO HAVE LEFT SYRIA

CAIRO, Feb. 13 (AP)—Press reports here today said that leaders of the outlawed Syrian Communist party have left the country after refusing to discontinue party activities.

Although officially outlawed, the party has been permitted to engage in open political activity in recent months. One of the conditions of the union of Syria and Egypt in the United Arab Republic was that all parties would be merged into one.

The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar quoted Akram Hourani, speaker of the Syrian Parliament, as saying all Syrian political parties had agreed to disband with the exception of the Communists, who were "continuing activities."

Hourani said his own Baath Socialist party would cease all activity on Feb. 21, the day of the plebiscite on the union.

EX-HEAD OF CUBA INDICTED BY U.S. IN CONSPIRACY

Prio Socarras, Others Named in Plot to Take Part in Military Expedition.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Carlos Prio Socarras, exiled former president of Cuba, and eight others were indicted today by a federal grand jury for conspiring "to set on foot" and provide means and money with which to take part in military expeditions and enterprises from the United States against Cuba.

The former Cuban head, now in Miami, was charged with the others with conspiring to organize committees and groups to effectuate the organization of military units and also with recruiting persons to establish military training camps in the Dominican Republic, Mexico, Haiti and the United States.

The nine also are charged with causing the purchase of motor ships and causing the vessels to sail from the United States with arms, men, uniforms and implements of war.

The indictment was opened before Judge Edward Weinfeld, who issued warrants for the defendants at the request of William F. Tompkins, assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's internal security division.

All of the nine are in this country, Tompkins said.

Besides Prio Socarras, those indicted were: Daniel Vasquez y Coejo, also known as Daniel Vasquez; Guido Adolfo Gonzalez de Bustamante Luque, also known as Guido Bustamante; Enrique Cotubanama Henriquez Laranzon, also known as Enrique Henriquez; Juan Agustin de la Carida Orta y Cordova, also known as Juan Orta; Luis Alfonso Silva y Tablada, also known as Luis Silva and Al Fernandez; Jose Pablo Elio Iriarte y Diaz, also known as Jose Iriarte; Tulio Prieto; and Luis Chaviano.

The government charged that it was part of the scheme to recruit persons in the United States to participate in military expeditions and enterprises against Cuba and to dispatch men from the United States to Cuba "for the purpose of committing sabotage and assassinating officials of the Cuban government."

Specifically, the alleged conspirators are charged with violating the neutrality laws of the United States and, if convicted, each could be sentenced to five years imprisonment and fined $10,000 on the one-count indictment.

COMMONS VOTE BIG SETBACK FOR CONSERVATIVES

They Run Poor Third in Election to Fill Vacancy — Liberal Gain Is Heavy.

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP) — Conservatives were dismayed today by the size of their defeat in an election to fill a House of Commons vacancy.

The waning popularity of the government headed by Prime Minister Macmillan was pointed up in the North England textile city of Rochdale.

The Conservatives not only lost their grip on the district's House of Commons seat but ran a poor third to the opposition Labor party and the normally weak Liberals.

Final returns from the voting yesterday gave Laborite Jack McCann 22,133, Liberal Ludovic Kennedy 17,603 and Conservative John Parkinson 9827.

Conservative leaders had been reconciled in advance to loss of the election, but the magnitude of the defeat astonished them. In a straight Conservative-Labor fight in the 1955 general election the Conservative candidate — who died recently — beat McCann 26,518 to 24,928.

The outcome was no great plum in the Labor party's pudding, since it too lost ground. Those who previously voted Conservative obviously switched to Kennedy, the Liberal, a trend that has been growing in recent special parliamentary elections.

The Rochdale result, said the conservative Daily Mail, "shows that the intervention of Liberal candidates at the next election may rob them (the Conservatives) of many seats."

The Times, nominally independent but usually pro-conservative, said the outcome may force Macmillan to ask for a new general election before the statutory term of his government ends in 1960.

British prime ministers traditionally "go to the country" for a vote of confidence when it becomes doubtful that their policies command the support of a national majority. The Conservatives still have firm working control of commons—with 342 members against 280 Laborites and five Liberals—and the Tory strategy has been to hang on in hope of an improvement.

Although the Conservatives had suffered from diminishing popular support in most of the 31 other by-elections held since 1955, they previously had lost only one parliamentary seat, in the North London a year ago.

Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell said the vote showed the Conservatives have "completely lost the confidence of the people." The Daily Herald, official organ of the labor party, asserted: "the voice of the people . . . tells the Tories in unmistakable tones 'give up! Get out!' and the sooner the better."

The Rochdale election was the first in Britain in which a sizable part of the electioneering took place before television cameras. Kennedy, in private life is a television commentator. He also benefited from the assistance of his beautiful red-haired wife, ballerina Moira Shearer, who canvassed much of the district.

Russian Press Telling Lies About U.S., State Dept. Says

'Outrageous' Allegation That America Masterminded French Bombing of Tunisian Village Cited.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —The State Department accused Russia today of telling lies about the United States while "talking out of the other side of its mouth" about improving relations.

Press Officer Lincoln White made that response, denouncing Moscow for "outrageous allegations," when asked what he thought of a charge in the Communist party newspaper Pravda that the United States had masterminded the French bombing of the Tunisian village, Sakiet Sidi Youssef, last Saturday.

Two Democratic Senators, meanwhile, denounced the French attack on the village and French Ambassador Herve Alphand discussed the possibility of United States mediation.

Alphand said after a 50-minute talk with Under Secretary of State Christian Herter that "no formal offer" has been made for United States mediation between France and Tunis.

Called Act of Madness.

Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, assistant Senate Democratic leader, called the French bombing "an act of madness" and urged that the United Nations station patrols along Algeria's borders with Tunisia and Morocco.

Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, in a separate Senate speech, said President Eisenhower should demand that France return the United States-made military planes it used in the bombing incident Saturday. Alphand insisted all of the planes and bombs were owned by the French and were not supplied as NATO equipment.

State Department officials were studying a dispatch from the United States ambassador at Tunis, G. Lewis Jones, which reportedly confirms Tunisian claims of heavy civilian casualties in the bombing.

United States policy to date has been to bring pressure on both the Tunisian and French governments to get them to settle the incident quickly by direct agreement. Hope for the success of this approach is dimming in view of the stands taken in both Paris and Tunis.

If the argument over the bombing incident develops in the North Atlantic Council in Paris and in the United Nations, as authorities here fear it may, the United States may be compelled to take sides on the issue.

Split Within NATO.

Taking sides could mean a split with France within the NATO alliance or, alternatively, the loss of cordial relations with Tunisia and further anti-American hostilities in some sections of the Arab world.

Privately top officials believe the French made a bad blunder in bombing the village even though they claim it was a base for Algerian rebels operating across the nearby border.

The government at Tunis had put the number of dead at 68 with 84 persons wounded and 10 missing.

Immediately after news of the bombing became known, Secretary of State Dulles called in French Ambassador Alphand to inquire about the use of American-made aircraft in the strike and to express United States concern over the incident.

Whatever the legal situation, the employment of American-made aircraft in the raid had given Communist and other anti-American propagandists in North Africa and the Middle East a profitable new theme to work.

ARGONNE ATOM LABORATORY TO RUN SUMMER SCHOOL

CHICAGO (UP)—One of the nation's nuclear research centers will throw open its doors to high school teachers next summer.

Argonne National Laboratory at Lemont, Ill., will run summer sessions to narrow the gap between the training of many high school teachers and the current state of scientific development.

The teachers will review fundamentals of nuclear energy, hear lectures by Argonne scientists and perform experiments related to atomic energy.

PART OF NUCLEAR WEAPON FROM BOMBER HUNTED

Object Jettisoned Off Georgia After Crash —No Danger of Explosion.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 13 (AP)—Navy divers are searching off the Georgia coast for part of a nuclear weapon that was dropped into the Atlantic ocean from a B-47 bomber.

"There is no danger of explosion or radioactivity," the Air Force said yesterday.

A statement released by the Hunter Air Force Base at Savannah said the bomber jettisoned part of the weapon following a collision with another plane Feb. 5. The weapon was not capable of a nuclear explosion, the statement said. The Navy was requested to aid in recovery of the object.

The B-47 collided with an F-86 Saber jet at an altitude of 35,000 feet over the Savannah area. The pilot of the Saber jet parachuted to safety in South Carolina. The bomber was landed by its three-man crew at Hunter A.F.B.

Number of Crashes Involving Nuclear Arms a Secret.

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—There have been unconfirmed reports for many weeks that as many as seven United States aircraft carrying nuclear weapons have crashed or been forced to drop their payloads into the sea.

The Defense Department has been willing to confirm only that such accidents have occurred and that there have been "more than one."

At the same time Pentagon officials have emphasized that the nuclear weapons are carried in such a manner that they cannot be detonated accidentally.

The Pentagon has been sensitive about identifying the location of nuclear materials, but recently defense officials allowed it to become known that crashes have occurred.

The announcement in Savannah yesterday was unusual in that a location was mentioned. Earlier, the Defense Department would only confirm that nuclear-bearing aircraft had crashed.

$97,411 TAX CLAIM AGAINST WORTMAN AID THOMAS BERRY

Amount Is Owed on 1953 Profits of Four Gambling Operations, Revenue Service Records Show.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — Thomas J. Berry, former Belleville slot machine operator and gambler, owes $97,441 in back income taxes for 1953 on profits from four East Side gambling operations, the Internal Revenue Service claims in records on file here today.

Berry, in answer to a claim filed in United States Tax Court here, admitted being a partner in four enterprises—the Red Rooster on the outskirts of East St. Louis, the Eagle Sales Co. of Brooklyn, Ill., the Premier Club and the Flamingo Club. Frank (Buster) Wortman, gang leader, reportedly holds controlling interest in the concerns.

Listed by the Government as a partner with Berry in the Red Rooster are Bart Davit, a former convict who served 13 years in prison for the holdup killing of a Maplewood grocer in 1932. His salary from the club was listed as $1225.

Another was Felix McDonald, also a former convict who served 14 years of a 60-year sentence in the abduction of Dr. I. D. Kelley Jr., in 1935. His salary from the club was $3850, the Government said.

The Red Rooster's taxable income for 1953 was loisted as $492,456.

Partners Listed.

Partners in the Eagle Sales Co., described as a policy game operation, with Berry were listed as Claus E. Tietje, 10 Hilltop place, East St. Louis, and Thomas Brennan of Lemay. The Internal Revenue Service has also filed deficiency claims against them.

Eagle Sales' taxable income for 1953 was recorded here as $612,788.

In Berry's case, the Government claims he paid a tax of $15,272 on a reported income of $40,036 in 1953, but should have paid $112,613 on an income of $130,646.

This difference arose because the partners deducted business expenses which the Internal Revenue Service claims were not allowable.

In a statement filed in tax court here, the Government said:

"Expense deductions claimed in the partnership returns constitute expenditures incurred in the operation of an illegal gambling business and are contrary to a sharply defined public policy of the state of Illinois and hence are not deductible for income tax purposes within the meaning of the Interal Revenue code of 1939."

Eagle Sales in its tax return deducted a total of $499,220 in 1953 as business expenses incurred in the operation of the policy game. Of this amount $393,592 was listed as commissions to salesmen or policy operators.

Another $160,782 was deducted by Eagle sales for taxes paid in the state of Illinois and the county of St. Clair, the Government said. Among business expenses the company listed were postage, professional fees, automobile allowances and advertising.

Internal Revenue Service disallowed all these deductions, and in addition did not allow a $291,084 business expense listed by the Red Rooster; $92,204 expenses of the Premier Club and deductions for a $482 loss sustained by the Flamingo Club.

Basis of Claims.

The Government is basing its claims on a suit involving a bookmaker in Chicago who deducted $5000 in expenses from his income tax in 1955. The tax court here ruled the expenses of an illegal enterprise were not deductible. In April last year, however, the United States Court of Appeals in Chicago reversed the tax court ruling on the ground that the Internal Revenue Code does not distinguished between lawful, and unlawful, income.

The case was remanded to the ta xcourt, which has not yet acted upon it.

Berry, Tietje and Brennan have requested hearings on the Government's claims in St. Louis. A date for them has not yet been set. In Brennan's request for a hearing in St. Louis, he said evidence would be produced "consisting of several truck loads of records and documents."

Claim Against Tietje.

In its claim against Tietje, the Government said he listed his income as $12,879 for 1953 and paid a tax of $3020 when in fact his income was $55,724 and he still owes a total of $22,744. Tietje, in his answer to the claim, said records of the Eagle company were kept by W. J. Stailey & Co., an accounting firm of East St. Louis.

Internal Revenue Service claims Brennan owes $25,110 on his 1953 income taxes, plus a $4180 liability for failing to file a declaration of income or pay the estimated tax for that year.

He is a partner in Eagle Sales, the Government said. He paid $3898 in taxes on a reported income of $15,749, when his actual income was $60,688, the claim stated.

Ill Airman's Japanese Wife, Son Arrive After Flight From Tokyo

By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

AIRMAN 1/C JOHN D. VEALE greeting his Japanese wife and their 19-month-old son at Scott Air Force Base Hospital today, after mother and son arrived from Tokyo.

Husband at Scott Base Suffering From Leukemia — Expenses of Trip Paid by Air Force.

The Japanese wife and baby son of Airman 1-C John D. Veale joined him at Scott Air Force base today after a flight from Tokyo, a trip financed by the Air Force because Veale is suffering from leukemia.

Mrs. Veale, carrying 19-month-old Kenneth, arrived at Lambert-St. Louis Field at 8 a.m. and they were met by Red Cross representatives who drove them to the base hospital.

Mother and son were travel-weary, but the boy was alert as he took in his new surroundings, turning momentarily away from a teddy bear and a doll giraffe he had with him.

Mrs. Veale expressed amazement at the tallness of buildings and people here, at the concrete roads and the abundance of automobiles on them.

Veale had been in Japan 43 months when he became ill last month and was taken to Scott Base. His wife could not come with him then because she was under treatment for tuberculosis.

Another Japanese wife was among the first to welcome Mrs. Veale today. She is Mrs. John Holloway, whose husband is stationed at Scott Base. They found that they came from the same area of Japan.

Mrs. Veale is to use guest facilities of the Red Cross while visiting her husband, and also will visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Veale of Washington, Ind. Her tuberculosis has been arrested, but she is to have periodic checkups at a hospital at Vincennes, Ind.

PLAN TO CHANGE COUNTY CHARTER CALLED POLITICS

Abramson Says Move Is Designed to Cut Down on Democrats in Jobs.

A contention that proposed changes in the St. Louis county charter were politically inspired to reduce the number of elective county offices now held by Democrats was made last night by Councilman Maurice Abramson, Democrat, of the Third District.

Speaking at a meeting of the Hadley Township Democratic Club at 6714 Olive boulevard, University City, Abramson declared:

"Republicans in the county saw the handwriting on the wall and thought they were going to lose out."

Referring to suggested changes in the charter that would make three Democratic-held elective offices appointive, Abramson told the group, "You can draw your own conclusions. We Democrats have three votes on the council and the Republicans, four. The proposals were jammed down our throats."

Abramson indicated he favored waiting to make any changes in the charter until a study by a board of freeholders of co-ordination of St. Louis and St. Louis county is completed. He said certain functions of the city and county, including police, fire and road building, must be unified.

Councilman James H. J. McNary, Democrat, Second District, who also addressed the group, stressed the importance in the suggested charter revisions of a proposal to allow the council to extend the merit system in the county by ordinance, rather than by a referendum.

He did not indicate which method he favored, but called on all members of the council to take stands for or against all the proposals after the report of the citizens' advisory committee is completed.

Pointing out that membership on the advisory committee included only three Democrats, McNary said he felt sure both a majority and minority report would be made by the committee.

Both Abramson and McNary said they favored a proposed charter revision which would increase the salary of the county supervisor to $17,000 annually. McNary has filed for the Democratic nomination for the post.

Councilman Thomas Dunne, Democrat of the First District, who was to have addressed the meeting also, was unable to attend. About 30 persons were present.

CROSSING CRASH IN COUNTY FATAL TO TWO WOMEN

Missouri Pacific Train, Car Collide at Berry Road Crossing, Near Westborough Club.

Two St. Louis county women were killed today when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Missouri Pacific Colorado Eagle passenger train at the Berry road crossing near Westborough Country Club, in Oakland.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Earl G. Batz, 47 years old, 2 Villa Wood, Webster Groves, wife of an advertising company executive, and Mrs. Robert J. Puff, 50, 522 Angenette avenue, Kirkwood. Puff is assistant general freight agent of the Gulf Mobile & Ohio Roalroad.

Alfred E. Renisch, the engineer, told police that the Eagle, Eastbound from Kansas City, had left the Kirkwood station four minutes earlier and was traveling at about 60 miles an hour as it neared the crossing at 12:04 p.m. Renish told police he saw the machine approaching the crosing from the south, but was unable to stop the train in time to avoid the accident. The automobile was carried about 75 feet down the right-of-way. Both occupants were thrown out and apparently killed instantly. It is believed that Mrs. Puff was the driver.

The crossing is equipped with a flashing signal, which police reported was working. Engineer Renisch, who lives at 4994 Miami street, said the automobile struck the right side of the leading diesel engine.

In addition to her husband, who is a partner in the Batz-Hodgson-Neuwoehner Advertising Agency, 122 North Seventh street, Mrs. Batz is survived by two sons, one a student at the University of Missouri.

Sheriffs Object to Extending Search Power to State Patrol

Bombard Legislature With Protests — Charge Action Would Be Infringement on Their Authority.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 13 —Gov. James T. Blair's 14-point legislative program submitted to the special session of the General Assembly yesterday won general approval with two exceptions.

Shortly after Blair completed outlining his recommendations to a joint Senate-House assembly, telephones of legislators began ringing throughout the Capitol. Long distance calls came pouring in from all sections of the state in protest against his request that police authority of the State Highway Patrol be enlarged.

The complaints came from county sheriffs, who contended Blair's suggestion that highway patrolmen be given search and seizure power was an "infringement" of their authority as peace officers.

They charged that approval of the Governor's plan would permit the patrol to take over as the state's principal crime-fighting agency and relegate the sheriffs to "mere process-servers."

Delegation Planned.

One legislator reported his sheriff told him that every Senator and Representative was going to get a similar call from back home, and that a large delegation would come here to appear in opposition to the Governor's proposal.

The 1931 law creating the patrol granted its members full police authority, with the exception of the right of search and seizure. The Governor said this has hindered their work and sometimes placed the patrolmen's lives in danger.

At present, state troopers can not search automobiles or trucks stopped on highways in connection with lawful arrests. Instead, the officer must take the suspect to a sheriff to do that.

Another Blair proposal ran into trouble when Representative A. Clifford Jones of Clayton, Republican minority leader in the House, said he would fight the Governor's recommendation that he be permitted to remove top state penal officials without cause.

Jones said this proposal would destroy the state merit system, under which the officials are appointed. He said he doubted Blair's plan was constitutional, because all merit system employes are guaranteed the right to appeal their dismissal.

Bills Offered.

A series of 11 bills, one constitutional amendment and two resolutions, which would put Blair's recommendations into effect, were introduced immediately after he spoke. All but one was presented in the Senate, which is expected to begin committee hearings on the measures next week while the House works on the Governor's proposed $534,000,000 state budget.

One of the measures would set up a 15-member commission to study the state income tax, including a suggestion that a payroll withholding system be established to assure full collection of the tax. The commission, comprising five Senators, five House members and five persons appointed by the Governor, would report its findings and recommendations to the next Legislature.

A resolution was introduced in the House today to create a joint legislative committee to undertake a study of the complete tax structure of the state, including methods of enforcing and administering tax laws. The committee would consist of members from the Senate and four from the House and would be directed to report recommendations to the regular session of the Legislature next year.

Another 12-member commission to study state-supported universities and colleges and propose a plan for co-ordinated activities and elimination of duplication also was recommended.

BLAIR CALLED AS WITNESS IN LITZINGER CASE

Preliminary Hearing for Sheriff Tomorrow Over Claim for Guard's Expenses.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 13 —Gov. James T. Blair has been called as a witness at a preliminary hearing here tomorrow for Sheriff Orion J. Litzinger of St. Louis county. Litzinger is charged with stealing $261 from the state by filing an inaccurate expense account.

Magistrate Foster S. Wheatley will conduct the hearing. The charge was filed by Cole County Prosecuting Attorney James T. Riley last Jan. 22. It resulted from Sheriff Litzinger's claim for $261 for expenses of a guard when returning a prisoner from Los Angeles to Clayton for trial on a robbery charge.

Gov. Blair's appearance as a witness is in connection with the issuance of extradition papers for the return of Floyd O. Julian from California to St. Louis county for trail. Extradition papers bear the signature of the Governor.

At the conclusion of the trip, Litzinger collected $915 from Roy T. Graham, professional bondsman of Clayton, who had signed Julian's bond, and the $261 from the state. The sheriff listed F. V. Ellison, a friend, as the guard. The prisoner said he made the trip with Litzinger and a woman introduced as the wife of the sheriff, but there was no guard.

The Post-Dispatch disclosed last fall that Sheriff Litzinger was paid a total of $2366 by Graham for the return of eight prisoners who had jumped their bonds. At the same time the state was billed for a total of $540 in four of the trips.

CITES CULTURAL GAINS FROM MILL CREEK WORK

The Mill Creek Valley redevelopment project will benefit St. Louis both economically and culturally, Henry J. Schmandt, professor of government at St. Louis University, said last night at the dinner meeting of the Society of Residential Appraisers at Koverly's Prime Rib, 7800 Clayton road, Richmond Heights.

"The Mill Creek area, when rebuilt, will attract from the suburbs additional clientele for the businesses in the downtown area, and those who will be patrons of the arts," he said.

Schmandt said the city must insist on enforcement of housing and health ordinances if it is to escape becoming "a ghetto of lower-income groups." The county, he said, "must grow up and make decisions —it can't let matters like the inner belt highway and landfills slide indefinitely." Schmandt was associate research director of the recent Metropolitan St. Louis Survey.

THROAT SURGERY DONE IN HOME SO BABY CAN BREATHE

Sandra Lynn Olsen, 20-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Olsen of Crestwood, was in St. Louis Children's Hospital today after a physician, assisted by three policemen, performed an emergency operation on her in her home last night.

Olsen said he was playing with Sandra when suddenly she had difficulty breathing. A physician was called. He administered artificial respiration until Crestwood Patrolmen Al P. Steimel, Perry Lawson and William Fredericksen arrived with oxygen and an inhalator. The doctor said the child's windpipe was closed by mucus, which he could not remove. He began a tracheotomy inserting a plastic tube as a substitute for her windpipe.

When the oxygen supply ran low, Webster Groves firemen and St. Louis county police were called to bring more. Five bottles were used. After the emergency operation was completed successfully, the baby was taken to the hospital. She is suffering from a respiratory infection. The Olsens, who live at 901 Sanders drive, have one other child, Mark, 3.

KANSAS MAN GETS 20 DAYS, IS FINED IN DRIVING CASE

Ramon Groves of Kansas City, Kan., was sentenced today to 20 days in the workhouse for careless driving and fined $50 for resisting arrest after he was found guilty by Police Judge Morris Rosenthal.

Police testified that Groves, 28 years old, was told to drive around the corner and stop because his automobile was obstructing traffic at Natural Bridge and Newstead avenues yesterday. Groves said he did not have a driver's license and sped away when ordered to drive to the Tenth District police station, police told the court.

In the ensuing chase, Groves's machine struck a parked car and was stopped when it hit another automobile in the 4300 block of Ashland avenue, police said. Groves denied he tried to resist arrest. He said he stepped on the accelerator and it stuck. He said he was a stranger in town and did not know where he was going.

DRIVERS LINE UP TO BEAT DEADLINE ON AUTO LICENSES

With next Saturday the deadline for purchase of city automobile license stickers, lines of motorists formed today at License Collected Joseph T. Hayden's office in City Hall. Police will begin making arrests Monday for failure to display the stickers.

Sales so far this year have totaled 162,000, about 16,000 more than in a similar period last year. Long lines of license buyers jammed the first floor corridors of City Hall today, but on the whole the lines have been shorter this year, Hayden said.

This was attributed to a procedure, inaugurated this year, under which licenses can be obtained by mail. About 25,000 have been sold this way, thus cutting the number of persons going to City Hall.

FLUORIDATION OF KIRKWOOD WATER SUPPLY IS BEGUN

Installation of fluoridation equipment in the Marshall road pumping station at Kirkwood has been completed and the community's main water supply now has fluorine in it, City Engineer Clarence Temme said today.

The fluorine feeder at the plan cost $2000, excluding plumbing and electrical wiring, Temme said. Voters of Kirkwood approved a $10,000 bond issue last June for fluoridation equipment. That which was installed was approved by the State Division of Health.

Equipment to add fluorine to the water has not yet been placed at the Swan avenue pumping station which serves the north and northeast section of the community. This will be more expensive than that at the Marshall road plant, because Kirkwood buys water for this plant from the St. Louis County Water Co., and a different method of adding the chemical, which prevents tooth decay in children, will have to be employed, Temme said.

WATCHMAN IN SHOE PLANT BEATEN BY TWO INTRUDERS

Leslie Turner, nightwatchman at the Johnson-Stephens & Shinkle Shoe Co., 4242 Laclede avenue, was knocked down and beaten by two young men he encountered in the plant early today.

The watchman said he was walking toward a first floor stockroom when he met one man, and was struck from the rear by the second intruder. After beating him the men fled across a loading dock and escaped.

Turner, 58 years old, was treated at City Hospital for abrasions of the head and was taken to his home, 3403 Henrietta street.

Schwartz Heard

Investigators any of his financial records. The attorney then pointed out that Representative Oren Harris (Dem.), Arkansas, had refused to issue a subpena for the records, which Schwartz had requested.

Harris, who is chairman of the subcommittee and the parent House Interstate Commerce Committee, broke in at this point and said grimly:

"Mr. Mack will have an opportunity to provide the subcommittee with that information, and if he refuses, there will be ways to get it."

'Loans. . . But no Record.'

When subcommittee investigators interviewed Mack, he told them the money he got from Whiteside represented "loans," Schwartz related. The commissioner acknowledged, however, that he kept "no record of any loan balance owing to Whiteside," the witness went on.

Schwartz said Mack told the investigators a "portion of the loans had been forgiven by Mr. Whiteside." He added, according to Schwartz, that he repaid some of the money but "always in cash," never by check.

Mack said also he never received any receipts from Whiteside for the repayments he said he made, Schwartz testified. When the investigators pressed him, he admitted he had "no specific recollection of ever making such a cash payment," Schwartz added.

Secret Wire Recording.

Schwartz revealed the existence of a secret wire recording of the conversation with Mack. He said the recording had been turned over to Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon.

(Morse told a United Press reporter that he had sent the wire recording to Harris this morning. The Senator said it was not included in the documents he turned over yesterday because he did not know then it was in his apartment. He said Mrs. Schwartz had left it in a brown envelope with his maid while he was not at home.)

The first statement about the wire recorder was made to the subcommittee by Schwartz's attorney, Herbert M. Wachtell, after committee mebers questioned the reliability of memoranda prepared by investigators of conversations with Mack.

Wachtell said the recorder had been used without Mack's knowledge because Schwartz and other investigators feared Mack might attempt to retract some of his "key admissions" at a subsequent date.

The recorder was hidden in a briefcase held by Wachteli as he and Paul S. Berger, both of whom served as aids to Dr. Schwartz, questioned Mack, Wachtell said. Both Wachtell and Berger resigned their positions after Schwartz was fired by the subcommittee.

Wachtell said Mack did retract some of the most damaging admissions made by him in a later interview with staff investigators.

Representative John B. Bennett (Rep.), Michigan, a committee member, wanted to know why the subcommittee had not been informed about the recording of the Mack interview.

Explains Secretly.

"The basic purpose of the recording was not to use it in any subsequent proceedings," Wachtell said. "We didn't want to use it unless we were forced to do so. We didn't think it was necessary to tell anybody it existed unless a question was raised about the credibility of our memorandums."

Representative Bennett pursued a line of questioning to determine how the recording had been placed in the hands of Senator Morse, one of the Senate's leading independents.

Schwartz testified he had been served with a subpena at his apartment at 12:35 a.m. last Tuesday. It directed him to turn all subcommittee records over to the subcommittee later the same morning.

Bennett sought to show that Schwartz may have violated the subpena because Morse did not get the wire recorder until after the subpena was served. Other material was turned over to Morse before the serving of the subpena.

"I did not have custody of the wire recorder," Schwartz answered. "My wife had it."

"Was the recorder in your apartment when the subpena was served?" Bennett asked.

Dispute Over Recorder.

Bennett wanted to know if the recording was obtained in the course of subcommittee business. Schwartz replied that it was.

"By what authority did you turn it over to any one outside the committee?" Bennett demanded.

"I considered the recorder only as insurance, not as part of the investigation," Schwartz said.

"Insurance for you of the subcommittee?" Bennett wanted to know.

Schwartz said he considered is insurance for the subcommittee and also for the country. He said the recorder would insure that no one could later question the credibility of himself, his investigators or the subcommittee. It would guarantee that the public would get the entire story, he said.

Harris, seeking to learn more about the wire recorder, followed a line of questioning that led to an exchange with another subcommittee member, Representative John E. Moss (Dem.), California.

The chairman appeared determined to learn who supplied the recorder to the subcommittee investigators. Wachtell, saying it was lent to him on a personal basis, refused to identify the lender.

Several hundred persons were in the committee room as Schwartz began testifying in what was generally regarded as a "put up or shut up" session on his charges of alleged misconduct by some members of federal regulatory agencies.

The attorney has been feuding with some subcommittee members, including Harris, ever since the investigation began, and previous hearings were marked by interuptions and bickering. The subcommitee members and the large audience were silent today as Schwartz read off charges he held in his hand.

The first one was for $200 and was dated Jan. 17 or 27, 1956, about six months after Mack was appointed to the commission. It was drawn by Whiteside payable to R. A. Mack and indorsed; "R. A. Mack."

The second was for $350 and was dated Sept. 5, 1956, payable to Richard A. Mack and indorsed that way. It was signed on the front by Whiteside.

A third check, for $300, was dated Jan. 7, 1957, and signed by "T. A. Whiteside, trust account," payable to Mack and indorsed by him.

A fourth check, for $200, was dated March 1, 1957, and signed and indorsed the same way.

The fifth check was for $1000 and was dated April 1, 1957, signed by "Thurman A. Whiteside, attorney at law," payable to R. A. Mack and indorsed that way.

The last check was for $600 and was dated June 17, 1957. It was signed and indorsed the same way. Most of the checks were drawn on the Florida National Bank & Trust Co.

"Close As Brothers."

Schwartz said Mack had told the subcommittee investigators he and Whiteside had "an extremely intimate association." The commissioner used the phrase, "close as brothers," to describe the relationship, Schwartz said.

He told the subcommittee that the investigators had been informed that Whiteside had a reputation in Florida as "a fixer," that he had been subject to disbarment proceedings, "and I believe he still is."

He said Judge Robert H. Anderson of Dade county (Miami) told the investigators his former law firm, Anderson, Scott, McCarthy and Prescott, had been retained by Public Service Television Co., the National Airlines subsidiary.

Before he left the firm to become a judge, Anderson said, the firm retained Whiteside to assist Public Service Television in the presentation of its application for Channel 10, Schwartz testified.

He said Whiteside told Anderson he was willing to waive a fee but Anderson said he would be paid either by Public Service Television or National Airlines.

Schwartz said Whiteside had been retained to "handle the details of the application, with the status of special Washington counsel." He added that Mack "was aware that Whiteside had been brought into the case in some manner."

Schwartz went on to say that Mack voted for Public Service Television "despite the fact that he knew personally several of the officers of Public Service and knew they had shady backgrounds."

Admitting Knowing It.

"He knew this from his experience as a credit officer. He so stated (to subcommittee investigators) that that was his knowledge."

Schwartz said he was speaking colloquially. "Perhaps I should have said they perhaps did not all have the honor and integrity of Supreme Court justices," he added.

A southern Democratic member of the subcommittee, Representative John Bell Williams of Mississippi, interrupted.

"Let's not use that example," he said, amid laughter.

Schwartz then pointed out that the reputation and probity of applicants for television channels were factors that FCC members were supposed to take into account.

Before Schwartz began his testimony on the Channel 10 case, the evidence he had accumulated on that and some other cases was introduced into the record in the form of exhibits. Shacklette read off the titles on the file envelopes to identify them.

Exhibit 60 was entitled, Dominican Republic — Gordon Moore." A Col. George Gordon Moore is Mrs. Eisenhower's brother-in-law.

Schwartz has charged previously that his six-month investigation produced evidence indicating that Adams, Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Col. Moore and others were involved in decisions by the various regulatory agencies, which Congress set up as independent, quasi-judicial bodies.

3 of 4 Are Republicans.

Early in his testimony on the Mack case, Schwartz referred to the fact that three of the four FCC members who voted for Public Service Television were Republicans and that only one, Mack, was a Democrat.

"There is another important aspect of the case, which I will testify to later—namely, why the three Republicans voted as they did," Schwartz told the subcommittee.

The other commissioners who voted for Public Service Television were George C. McConnaughey, then chairman; John C. Doerfer, then a member and now chairman, and Robert E. Lee. McConnaughey is no longer on the commission.

Relating the chronolgy of the Channel 10 decision, Schwartz said four applicants filed for the channel, which he described as "a very lucrative one."

The applications were "mutually exclusive — only one could be chosen," he explained.

The first application was filed in 1948 by Frank Katzentine, a Miami civic leader who owns station WKAT in Miami Beach. North Dade Video, Inc., filed the second application, and the third was filed by L. B. Wilson, Inc., which operates a TV station in Cincinnati.

Public Service Television's application was the last one filed and was submitted just before the filing deadline, Schwartz said.

Examiner's Recommendation.

FCC examiner Herbert Sharfman conducted hearings in 1954 and in an initial decision in March, 1955, he recommended award of the channel to Katzentine.

Schwartz said Sharfman, whom he described as being "generally recognized as one of the most able and experienced examiners in the Federal Government," wrote a "very strong opinion" recommending award of the channel to Katzentine's station.

Sharfman, Schwartz added, found Public Service Television "the least qualified" of the four applicants. The commission later overruled its examiner, he pointed out.

"We have ascertained that in its preliminary instructions to the staff to write an opinion (for the commission to issue), only the three Republicans joined," Schwartz went on. "Four were needed to make a majority."

While the matter was still pending before the commission, after issuance of the examiner's decision, Katzentine received a telephone call from Senator George A. Smathers (Dem.), Florida, Schwartz related.

Advised by Senator.

He said Smathers advised Katzentine to "find out where Mack stands" on the application. Katzentine got in touch with Perrine Palmer, who was described by Schwartz as a "leading Miami political figure."

Mack "had had work from his (Palmer's) construction company," the witness added.

He said Palmer "volunteered to see Whiteside" for Katzentine and reported back to Katzentine that Mack was "pledged" to National Airlines.

Katzentine then asked Palmer and another of Mack's friends, Jerry W. Carter, a member of the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, to see Mack "and try to get him to do what was right and get a release from the pledge," Schwartz testified.

"Mack acknowledged to them that he was pledged to Mr. Whiteside for National Airlines," he continued. Carter and Palmer then tried to get Whiteside to release Mack from the promise, and Whiteside refused, Schwartz went on.

He said Mack subsequently voted for the airline subsidiary despite the strong opinion of the examiner and the fact that a decision for the airline "violated all of the commission's normal standards and criteria for deciding applications."

First Such Award To Airline.

Schwartz added that Channel 10 was the first and only TV channel the FCC had ever awarded to an airline. He pointed out that most airlines are receiving government subsidies.

Before reading the checks, Schwartz told the subcommittee that Mack had admitted receiving "several thousand dollars from Mr. Whiteside."

The former counsel indicated, in response to a question by Representative Williams, that there may have been payments by Whiteside to Mack prior to the latter's appointment to the FCC.

He read one of these, a check for $1000 from Whiteside to R. A. Mack, dated March 22, 1955, and indorsed by Mack.

The subcommittee investigators, Schwartz went on, heard reports that Mack was put on the commission solely to have his vote for National Airlines in the Channel 10 case, but these reports were not verified, Schwartz said.

G. T. Baker, president of National Airlines, denied yesterday that Mack helped the airline win the television channel. He also denied that Col. Moore had anything to do with the case.

In a letter to Chairman Harris, Baker called Schwartz's charges "pure fabrications" and "vicious lies" and said he was prepared to state under oath that neither Mack nor Moore was connected with National Airlines' successful application.

Schwartz is professor of law at New York University.

By the Associated Press.

Schwartz gave his testimony of the alleged receipt of the money by Mack when called on to justify charges Schwartz made after the committee fired him as its counsel last Tuesday.

One of Schwartz's charges was that the committee had fired him knowing he had evidence of the passing of money to a FCC member in a contested case.

Mack's Name Comes Up.

The name of Commissioner Mack first came into today's hearing in an exchange between Schwartz and Chairman Harris.

Schwartz said a majority of the committee had taken no action to obtain financial records of Mack so as to establish "essential facts" in the case. He said he had requested subpenas for four individuals and submitted a memorandum in justification of his request. It was "fair for me to assume" that Harris and other members knew all about it, he asserted.

It developed in the Harris-Schwartz exchange that Schwartz had told Harris of his belief money had been passed in the Miami case. He said he had assumed Harris would inform the other members of his committee.

(The United Press said Schwartz testified that when he outlined the case to Harris, "you said it looks like a bad case. We'll have to go into it.")

Harris said he considered it "the better part of judgment" not to pass on to the whole committee the information Schwartz had said he had until the subpenas issued in the case had been served. He told Schwartz that he had agreed to issue subpenas for the four individuals, but not commissioner Mack.

Those Named in Subpenas.

They were identified as:

Paul R. Scott, who was not otherwise identified for the time being.

(Later, Schwartz identified Anderson as a Dade county (Fla.) judge, who at the time

No Dog.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y. (UP) —A woman's frantic telephone call sent 25 firemen rushing to Lake Placid to save a floundering dog from the icy waters. At the scene the firemen found no dog, only a large muskrat paddling about the lake.

Schwartz Heard

the TV case was pending was a member of a law firm which handled the Channel 10 case for Public Service. Also a member of the firm was Scott, who Schwartz identified as "a director of Public Service Television, the National Airlines applicant." Schwartz said Anderson told committee investigators his law firm had hired Whiteside in the case.)

Harris said he and Representative Morgan M. Moulder (Dem.), Missouri, who was then committee chairman but later resigned, had agreed not to issue subpenas for all the FCC commissioners but to invite them first by letter to appear before the committee.

Schwartz agreed that was correct, but insisted these subpenas were not related directly to the Miami channel 10 case. He declared no subpena had been issued on Commissioner Mack to produce his financial records.

Under questioning as to what committee members he had told about his belief money was passed. Schwartz replied he had told Moulder he was of that opinion.

"Who else?" asked Harris.

"I did not directly tell any other member of the subcommittee," Schwartz said.

In Pearson's Column.

But, Schwartz argued, it was "common knowledge" that money was passed in the case —it appeared in newspapers and in the column of Drew Pearson.

"This was common knowledge I assumed the members were aware of, and I still so assume," he asserted.

Moulder said he did not tell other subcommittee members anything about "any allegation of bribery, or money having been passed" but only informed them generally of the channel 10 case and told them there would be a briefing by Schwartz. This was the briefing which had been set for Monday, but was not held when the issue of Schwartz' dismissal boiled up instead.

Schwartz said he had been barred by a resolution of the subcommittee from making confidential information available to individual members and that he had used proper channels in giving the information to Representatives Moulder and Harris.

In developments, meantime, outside the subcommittee hearing but related to it:

1. House Speaker Sam Rayburn (Dem.), Texas, told reporters the subcommittee was determined to make a real inquiry and that he has confidence in the leadership of Harris.

"I think Oren Harris is one of the ablest men we have around here and one of the finest (in) honesty and integrity," Rayburn said.

Rayburn specifically denied a report published by the Washington Post that the inquiry originally headed by Moulder had been granted House funds only after assurance from the leadership that Harris would not be chairman. "There is not a word of truth to it," Rayburn said.

2. Senator Morse introduced in the Senate a resolution for creation of a special Senate committee to investigate the FCC and other federal regulatory agencies. Morse told his colleagues he feels the Senate has "an independent obligation" to make such an investigation regardless of the House subcommittee's inquiry.

Schwartz, who looked worn and told friends as he went to the committee hearing he was catching a cold, sat at the witness table flanked by counsel and by his wife, who is an attorney.

Bobble in Oath.

Perhaps reflecting the tensions of the moment, there was a bit of a bobble in getting Schwartz sworn as a witness.

Harris, administering the oath, asked Schwartz whether he swore that "the truth you are about to give shall be the truth" and so on.

As laughter swept the chamber, Harris said he meant "evidence" instead of truth, and then decided he had better start over again and administer the oath afresh.

Harris told a reporter before the hearing that Schwartz may have violated a federal law by removing papers from the committee offices, and that the committee might ask the Justice Department to prosecute Schwartz.

After today's hearing, Harris thanked Schwartz for his testimony and said he regretted that he had been forced to subpena him. He said he could not permit a delay as Schwartz requested because he felt the investigation had to go forward immediately.

Schwartz was released from the subpena on his attorney's pledge that the New Yorker would return as a witness on Monday.

Harris told reports after the hearing that Mack would be given a full opportunity to testify, but he added that he did not know when Mack would be called.

Harris said not replacement for Schwartz as general counsel has been found. He added that "it's pretty hard to get the kind of man we want."

ANTI-COMMUNIST JOKE MAKING ROUNDS IN HUNGARY

BUDAPEST — The Hungarians tell a joke about Premier Kadar of Hungary supposedly asking Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai how many anti-Communists there are in Red China today.

"Only about nine million," replied Chou.

"What a coincidence," remarked Kadar. "We have about the same number here."

The total population of Hungary is about 9,000,000. Red China has about 600,000,000.

3 FOUND DEAD, SUFFOCATION IS APPARENT CAUSE

Jefferson A. Leach, unemployed stone mason, and two companions were found dead in the Leach home, 2415A Elliot avenue, yesterday. They apparently were suffocated by carbon monoxide fumes.

Police said the other victims were identified by relatives as Archie Kessler, 59 years old, whose last known address was in the 2600 block of St. Louis avenue, and Lloyd Bockman, 58, 2425 Elliot.

The bodies were found by Mrs. Leach, who returned home from work at 4:45 p.m. She told police the three-room flat was superheated and full of smoke from a pan of beans burning on the stove. There were empty wine bottles in the kitchen.

Her husband, 57 years old, was slumped in a chair at the kitchen table. Kessler and Bockman were lying fully clothed on couches in the front room. All were pronounced dead at City Hospital.

In addition to the fire in the kitchen stove, a gas room heater in the bedroom was burning, police said. Windows in the flat had been sealed to conserve heat.

Investigation by Laclede Gas Co. revealed that a vent from the heater was improperly connected with the flue, and the flue was clogged with soot. It is believed the men were asphyiated by fumes from the heater.

WATER WELLS STILL WIDELY IN USE IN SUBURBS

CHICAGO (UP)—One thing that has not faded from the American scene is the water well.

The well is still a part of everyday living in suburbia, but you'd never recognize it.

The old hole has been replaced by a steel casing that extends underground.

The well can be installed right in the basement until ity room of a home.

Mark has this advice for home-owners:

Avoid sinking one well to supply a number of homes.

Make sure the pump in your home has the capacity to fight a fire.

About 200,000 families buying new homes this year will have to rely on private well systems for basic household water needs, he said.

CONSOLIDATION OF DEBTS PRIME REASON FOR LOANS

CHICAGO (UP) — The Bureau of Federal Credit Unions says a survey shows that consolidation of debts is still the most frequent reason for borrowing by credit union members.

Automobile purchases are among the more important reasons for borrowing. Automobile loans also were the largest in amount on the average.

One conclusion reached by the survey was that the large loan is the exception rather than the rule. This was reflected by figures that showed most loans still range between $200 and $500. These small loans were considered "remedial" loans rather than loans for luxury items.

BOND ISSUE IS REJECTED AT CONWAY, OK'D AT BUTLER

CONWAY, Mo. (AP) — A $260,000 bond issue for a new high school in the Conway-Phillipsburg district of Laclede county was defeated in a special election Tuesday.

The vote was 661 for the measure and 463 against, which was 89 votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority.

BUTLER, Mo. (AP)—Butler voters gave approval by an overwhelming majority Tuesday to a $335,000 municipal bond proposal. The vote was 295 to 11. The money will be used to improve the municipal light and power system.

DICTATOR WHO COULD BE OUSTED IS URGED FOR U.S.

TULSA, Okla. (INS)—A Tulsa nuclear scientist told a church forum that the American form of government is doomed and should be replaced by a dictator who can be kicked out of office.

Robert E. Fearon, president of Electrochemical Laboratories in Tulsa and holder of more than 60 patents, did not say how removal of the dictator could be accomplished. Fearon denounced government by committee and said "Congress meets to talk about space problems, but Congress has no idea how to get anything into space."

MEXICAN FIRM TO PRODUCE LOW-COST AUTOMOBILE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico hopes to be making its own low-cost automobile by the end of 1958. It will be modeled after the Italian Fiat 1100—inexpensive and economical to operate.

Diesel Nacional said it has boosted its capital from $4,800,000 to $24,000,000. It said it has full government support.

At present United States made automobiles, particularly Chevrolet and Ford, dominate the Mexican market. But Volkswagen, Fiat, Porsche, Austin, MG and others are gaining.

Scullin Steel

plant would continue normally. The company has more than 850 employes. It produces bolsters, side frames and coupler yokes for railroad freight cars.

E. F. Judge, president of Scullin, said in a statement announcing the proposal that the board approved the purchase offer "on the basis of a long-term business appraisal indicating that shareholder interest would best be served by a greater diversification of operations."

Universal Marion, which was reincorporated and changed its name from Capital Transit Co. in 1956, has two operating divisions. They are Marion Power Shovel Co. of Marion, O., and Southern Pipe and Supply Co., Jacksonville, Fla.

Marion Power Shovel produces excavating equipment and mobile cranes. Southern Pipe is a national distributor of mill supplies, including flanges, weld fittings, irrigation pipe lines and plumbing equipment.

Judge said the unaudited 1957 net earnings of Scullin Steel totaled $1,334,380, compared with $636,000 the previous year. James Mullaney, president of Universal Marion, estimated his concern's 1957 earnings at $4,300,000, including $983,000 in non-recurring income resulting from inventory discount at date of purchase.

By the Foot.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UP) — Richard J. Ricci told Judge Ludgi DePasquale in district court that he had gone only 50 feet from his backyard when police stopped him for having no plates on the car. "Ten cents a foot," the court said, "for a total fine of $5."

CHANCELLOR OF AUSTRIA PLANS VISIT TO U.S. IN MAY

VIENNA, Feb. 13 (UP)—Austrian Chancellor Raab will pay an official state visit to the United States in May, it was announced here today.

Raab will be received by President Eisenhower in the White House on May 19, according to an official communique.

Raab's visit to the United States will precede a visit of the Chancellor to the Soviet Union in June.

ANNUAL SCHOOL COSTS CLIMB TO $364 PER PUPIL

The cost of educating a child in St. Louis public schools increased from $195 a year in the 1947-48 school year to $364 in the 1956-57 year, Thor W. Bruce, auditor for the Board of Education, said today in a report on trends in school costs.

Principal reason for the increase has been the gradually reduced purchasing power of the dollar, Bruce reported. Slightly more goods and services have been required each year, because of the steady increase in enrollments, but their cost has risen out of proportion to the amounts purchased, he said.

Ten years ago the Board of Education's budget was $15,000,000. Even then, the money had a purchasing power equivalent only to about $9,000,000, when compared with the value of the dollar in 1940, he reported.

Budget at $30,000,000.

In the ensuing 10 years, about $5,000,000 more in goods and services has been required to operate the school system, but it has taken an additional $15,000,000 to purchase them, or a budget for 1956-57 totaling $30,000,000, Bruce observed.

The major part of the school budget is supplied by the tax on real estate, which annually yields about 49 per cent of the school board's income, Bruce said. An additional 23 per cent comes from the personal property, merchants and manufacturers and public utilities taxes, as well as some other local sources.

The state provides 23 per cent of the income, with the remainder from miscellaneous items, such as tuition fees, rental on property owned by the board and investment of certain funds.

64 Pct. for Instruction.

Of the total revenue received, which would exceed $34,000,000 in the next fiscal year if the proposed tax rate of $1.51 is approved by voters in an election next month, 64 per cent goes to the instruction department, 19 per cent is used for operating and maintaining the 144 school buildings and the rest is used for administrative costs, fixed charges and small capital outlays.

Eighty-one per cent of the school budget is used to pay salaries of the 5937 employes, about 3100 of whom are teachers. The Board of Education is the second largest public agency in the city. Only the city government employs more persons and spends more money.

review "pretty soon" to see where a tax cut might do the most good—if there is a tax cutting.

Rayburn was asked at a press conference about possible congressional steps in view of the economic downswing and mounting unemployment.

Rayburn said the leaders plan to "review the situation and see where a tax cut, if there is one, will do the most good, and determine whether the budget will stand it."

Other Senators made it clear they are not so optimistic as the President. One of these, Senator George Aiken (Rep.), Vermont, said "the Administration has got to do more than issue statements."

Aiken said the building of confidence is needed to help get business on the upgrade and that to do this "it is essental to convince the public by deed as well as by word."

Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, said in a separate interview he hopes Mr. Eisenhower is correct in his forecast "but I have grave doubts that he is."

Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks has predicted unemployment will reach 5,000,000, and Mansfield added that "it well may reach 6,000,000 before the upturn."

"I hope I'm wrong, but it's hard to reconcile the President's appraisal with the conditions as they are now in the mining, auto, oil, textile and other fields," Mansfield said. "They are all in a slump."

Republican officials, in Lincoln day speeches around the nation, expressed confidence the economy is not in serious shape.

In Brooklyn last night, Weeks said the Democrats support a "gloom and doom" program to "sell America short."

Anderson Optimist.

In Philadelphia, Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson said there are favorable factors "which indicate that a general upturn may not be too long postponed." Residential housing construction has turned slightly upward, he said, and the level of personal income has held up well. The economy will be helped both by federal projects and by an increase he said is evident in state and local projects.

In New York City Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said that despite the current rise in unemployment, Republicans this year can campaign on an administration economic record "unmatched in our history."

"In March we can expect to see a pickup in jobs and a substantial increase in industrial activity by midsummer," Mitchell added.

Philip M. Talbott, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, also in New York, said he expects the country's economy to improve at least by June.

However, he told reporters he felt Mr. Eisenhower's prediction of an upswing next month possibly was "a little over-exuberant as to timing."

Talbott, who has just made a nine-week tour from coast to coast, said the country's economy currently is going through an adjustment period—"not at all a major depression."

"There is absolutely nothing wrong with the basic economy.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson devoted most of his talk in Salt Lake City to the farm program, but he likewise referred to the unemployment level as a "temporary problem."

Senator Olin D. Johnston (Dem.), South Carolina, proposed today that the Government embark on a three-billion-dollar Post Office construction program. Johnston, chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee, advanced this idea in an interview after calling the Administration's two-billion-dollar Post Office modernization program "entirely too small."

He spoke as the committee called additional witnesses to testify on a House-approved bill to increase postal rates.

In advance of the day's hearing, Johnston said he is opposed to increasing the postage on out-of-town letters to 5 cents to help finance Post Office construction and modernization. The current letter rate is 3 cents. He said "postal rates ought to be for running the Post Office, not for building them."

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield told the committee yesterday that the 5-cent rate on nonlocal letters would yield $175,000,000 annually and pay the Government's share of the Administration's Post Office modernization program. In the face of Democratic criticism that the program was inadequate to serve as an economic stimulant, Summerfield said it was "not designed to be a public works program as such."

He said it would give the economy "timely stimulus," but he emphasized that new buildings and equipment are necessary to increase the Post Office Department's efficiency and to reduce costs.

Representative Brent Spence (Dem.), Kentucky, said today the House Banking Committee is preparing to call public hearings on proposed federal aid to industry in depressed areas.

He said the Governors of states where labor surpluses exist and all other interested parties will be invited to present their views on legislation aimed at providing jobs.

Many bills touching on the problem are before both House and Senate committees. Chief among them is an Administration measure which would provide a revolving fund of $50,000,000 for loans to help establish new industries in depressed areas.

A Democratic - sponsored measure, pushed by Democratic Senators Paul Douglas of Illinois and Clark of Pennsylvania and Representative Daniel Flood (Dem.), Pennsylvania, would supply a $325,000,000 fund which would be used for loans to new industry, direct grants for attendant public works and aid to rural depressed areas.

ELECTRONIC HISTORY TEXT TO BE SHOWN AT BRUSSELS

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (UP)—The State Department and International Business Machines today showed what will be a major United States exhibit at the Brussels world's fair—an eltctronic outline of world history.

The history text is stored in an I.B.M. electronic brain. The firm says any part of the history can be found by the computer, called RAMAC, in less than a second and printed in any one of 10 languages.

At a demonstration, Dr. Cuthbert C. Hurd, I.B.M. director of automation research, invited reporters to call at random various years in history. When several years were called, the operator entered the years on the keyboard and an electric typewriter began printing a concise statement of the major events of the years in question.

MACHINES AND ELEPHANTS

RANGOON (AP)—Mechanization is coming up in Burma's teakwood industry, a big earner of foreign exchange. But elephants are staying on the job to handle the work in the rougher areas.

The state timber board announced two motor powered units—including graders, tractors and trucks—will move into the jungles by next September. Elephants will be assigned to each.

Tunisia

of talks with Tunisia as long as the Tunisians exerted "inadmissable" pressure on French troops, the U.P. said.

(Pineau told the National Assembly it would be "inconceivable" that France would not assure the provisioning and security of the French now in Tunisia.

(Pineau, substituting for Premier Gaillard, said that measures taken by the Tunisian government "risk provoking some grave incidents. It is up to the Tunisian government to take or not to take the responsibility.")

Foreign ambassadors in Tunisia who visited the village, however, reported to their governments that most of the casualties appeared to be civilians, as the Tunisian government claimed. The Tunisians said 68 men, women and children were killed, 84 were wounded and 10 were missing.

After the attack Bourguiba ordered French forces not to leave their posts in Tunisia and threatened to bottle up Bizerte harbor to prevent French vessels from using the naval base there.

Roadblocks in Place.

The secretariat of information reported the nation calm this morning. Roadblocks manned by the Tunisian National Guard were still in place at strategic points to prevent French forces from moving about.

The French note pointed out that problems of supply and evacuation of the sick from French posts would arise and could be the source of grave incidents.

Some of the smaller French posts in Tunisia have already been under some harassment but none has been attaceked.

Some telephone lines and water mains have been cut. Frenchwomen who tried to carry food to their husbands in a military depot just outside Tunis were driven off. Some garrisons were reported to be communicating by carrier pigeons.

French sources said Ladgham replied verbally to the French Charge d'Affaires, indicating his government would permit evacuation of some small, exposed French positions to main bases.

The French official also protested against the forced evacuation of French farmers and their families from the Algerian frontier region. The French embassy here said about 400 persons had been expelled so far and are being cared for by the embassy.

A Tunisian government official denied reports that a French naval patrol craft was fired on Tuesday night, forcing it to turn back to the French naval base at Bizerte.

The official said the Tunisian National Guard had not fired on anything or anyone.

The French naval base at Bizerte is on a lake reached by a channel from the main harbor. A handful of Tunisian soldiers with small arms guarded each side of the channel, forbidding passage of French vessels or troops.

French troops were closely confined to barrack areas at the base with orders to avoid any incidents. French naval authorities said 22 minesweepers and 10 coastal escort ships are anchored at the base.

At United Nations, N.Y., diplomatic sources predicted that the U.N. Security Council would meet Monday or Tuesday to take up the Tunisian situation.

They expected Tunisian Ambassador Mongi Slim to request that this month's council president, Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev, call an early meeting on the question.

Slim told Sobolev Tunisia definitely has decided to submit the matter to the 11-nation council.

Eisenhower

it is one of Mr. Eisenhower's favorites. It was there in February 1956 that he played his first round of golf after the heart attack he had suffered a few months earlier.

Humphrey took up golf for the first time last year while he was the President's guest at Augusta, Ga.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said yesterday Mr. Eisenhower's condition was improving daily but that he still had a somewhat husky voice and a slight sore throat.

Replying to questions, Hagerty said he had no information on when the President would have another physical examination to check on his convalescence since the minor stroke he suffered last Nov. 25.

U.S.-BORN SCOT FACING CHARGES OF 9 MURDERS

GLASGOW, Scotland, Feb. 13 (UP) — Police said today Peter Manuel, American-born carpenter suspected of mass murder, may be brought to trial as the killer of nine persons.

Manuel already has been charged with the murder of a 36-year-old taxi cab driver, a 17-year-old girl and a family of three. Investigation indicated that he may have killed four other persons.

The first charges against Manuel, who was born in New York City 31 years ago and brought to this country when he was 5, arose from crimes committed in December and January. Police now link his name with murders that occurred as much as two years ago.

STARKWEATHER GIRL CETS SCHOOL BOOKS TO STUDY

LINCOLN, Nebr., Feb. 13 (AP)—Caril Fugate, the 14-year-old eighth grader charged with first degree murder in connection with 11 killings, had her school books back in hand today.

Her father, William Fugate of Lincoln, said he took the books to Caril at the Lincoln State Hospital, where she is being held, so she could keep up on her school work. She is scheduled for a preliminary hearing March 8. Caril is being held at the state hospital because no other institution in Lincoln has suitable facilities for her. By law a juvenile female cannot be held in the county jail.

Caril's boy friend, Charles Starkweather, 19, has admitted killing 11 persons in Nebraska and Wyoming. He is scheduled for a preliminary hearing March 1.

Inventor of 'Whip' Ride Dies.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—William F. Mangels, German-born inventor of the "Whip," and other amusement park rides, died Tuesday at his Brooklyn home. He was 92 years old. He operated a carousel at Coney Island from 1902, and set up the American Museum of Public Recreation there.

DENIES INFLUENCE CHARGES IN TV CASE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—President G. T. Baker of National Airlines said yesterday his firm did not ask or get help from Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower's brother-in-law, George Gordon Moore, or Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack in winning a television license for a subsidiary.

Baker said "pure fabrication . . . vicious lies" had been circulated about the case in connection with the investigation of federal regulatory agencies by a Hous Commerce subcommittee.

Baker said newspaper stories attributed to Dr. Bernard Schwartz, former chief counsel of the subcommittee, the comment "that Col. George Gordon Moore helped swing the FCC award of a Miami TV channel to a subsidiary of National Airlines, Inc., and that there are serious charges against FCC Commissioner Mack, including one regarding the FCC award of the TV case to National Airlines' subsidiary.

Harris Takes Over.

Moore is married to a sister of Mrs. Eisenhower. Schwartz was fired by the investigating subcommittee, as its counsel, Monday night and its chairman, Representative Morgan M. Moulder (Dem.), Missouri, resigned in protest. Chairman Oren Harris (Dem.), Arkansas, of the House Commerce Committee, then took over the subcommittee chairmanship.

Baker made his denial in a letter to Harris and made it public.

He said allegations about National Airlines and its subsidiary, Public Service Television, Inc., are untrue. Public Service Television was awarded a TV channel in Miami by the FCC in a case in which there were other applicants.

"I will testify under oath," Baker wrote Harris, "and do now state that Col. George Gordon Moore is not now, nor has even been, a representative of National Airlines, Inc., or its subsidiary, Public Service Television, Inc., in any capacity. Nor has he ever been asked, nor has he ever interceded in any case in any forum for either company.

Denies Approaching Mack.

"To dispel any inference that there has been any extra-judicial activity between National Airlines, Inc., and Public Service Television, Inc., and FCC Commissioner Mack, I state unequivocally now, and will do so at any time before your committee under oath, that neither company nor any representative thereof, has ever communicated in any way with Commissioner Mack about the case which resulted in the award of Channel 10, Miami, to Public Service Television, Inc."

The FCC ruled in the Miami case a year ago. There was a four-way contest for the channel, dating back to 1953.

By a 4-to-2 vote the commission overruled its hearing examiner, Herbert Sharfman, and awarded the channel to Public Service Television. Mack was one of the four-man majority. Scharfman had recommended that the channel be given to WKAT, Inc., operating WKAT-AM-TV at Miami Beach.

PRINCETON HEAD REPLIES ON EATING CLUB QUESTION

PRINCETON, N.J., Feb. 13 (AP)—Allegations of religious discrimination in the refusal of Princeton student eating clubs to admit a few undergraduates are counter to the facts, Princeton University's president said yesterday.

Robert F. Goheen issued his statement after a meeting in his office with 22 sophomores who remain outside of 17 eating clubs. Goheen said the university is seeking to provide a "more adequate" alternative to the present virtual monopoly on upper class social class activities by the eating clubs.

15 SMALL PYRAMIDS FOUND

CAIRO, Feb. 13 (UP)—Italian archaeologists have discovered 15 small pyramids dating back 35 centuries near the Egyptian-Sudanese border town of Wadi Halfa, it was reported today.

The semi-official Middle East news agency said the pyramids were built 15 centuries before Christ. Wadi Halfa is on the Nile river 900 miles south of Cairo.

GAITSKELL SAYS TORIES SCHEME TO BOLSTER LORDS

© New York Times News Service

LONDON, Feb. 13—Hugh Gaitskell, opposition leader, said yesterday government was seeking to strengthen the House of Lords to use it "as a Tory machine to delay and obstruct Socialist legislation."

He made the allegation in debate in the House of Commons on a bill to enable the creation of non-hereditary peers, including women, with the right to sit and vote in the House of Lords.

Laborite critics of the bill were joined by Liberals and members of the Conservative majority itself. Most of the dissident Conservatives previously shown rebellious tendencies against the government's Suez and economic policies.

Although the government is confident of a comfortable majority when the reform measure is put to a vote tonight, Gaitskell and other Labor speakers indicated that they might not co-operate in the selection of life peers and that they would probably seek further limitations o nthe Lords' powers if they win office in the next election.

ALLIES SAID TO PROD U.S. TO EASE TRADE BARS

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—The United States is under increasing Allied pressure to relax restrictions on trade with Russia and the Communist bloc, reliable sources here said yesterday.

Commercial pressure is coming from Great Britain, France, West Germany, Italy and Japan, these sources said.

It is possible, they continued, that this pressure may result in a meeting this year of the Allied Consultative Group which shapes East-West trade policies for the 15 nations in that organization. The ACG comprises all the nations in NATO, excepting Iceland but including Japan.

The Consultative Group met last in Paris in 1954 and revised the lists of items under complete or part embargo for Russia and the Communist bloc. A reliable source here said "somewhere in the neighborhood of 200 items" still were embargoed completely.

Atom Materials Barred.

The United States maintains a total embargo on trade with Communist China. This country and the other nations in the ACG bar shipment to Communist countries of nuclear materials and weapons, plus other war potential items.

Increasing Allied pressure on this country to relax restrictions on trade with Communist nations coincides with a new Russian bid for more East-West commerce.

That bid was extended by Russian Ambassador Mikhail A. Menshikov, a few moments after he arrived in this country. Menshikov said he hoped that "in the near future" there would be increased "mutually advantageous trade" between Russia and the United States.

In reply, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told a press conference Tuesday that "mutually advantageous trade is almost automatically a good idea."

Adjustments Favored.

Dulles went on, "the question of what is mutually advantageous is a somewhat difficult problem." The Secretary added that "I do not exclude at all the idea of adjustments in those lists (of items embargoed or restricted for trade with the Communists) from time to time."

Restrictions on trade with the Communists have been relaxed considerably since the Korean war by this country, and trade procedures involving export licenses were eased early in 1956, after the Geneva summit conference of the previous July.

United States trade with eastern Europe in the first nine months of 1957 reached an eight-year high mark, largely because of increased commerce with Poland, Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks reported yesterday. Trade with eastern Europe still is only a small part of total United States foreign commerce.

Fighter Pilot is Killed.

CHARLESTON, S.C., Feb. 13 (AP)—An F-86 Sabre jet fighter crashed and burned shortly after takeoff yesterday at the Charleston Air Force Base. The pilot, First Lt. Joseph Owens Sweeney of Copley, O., was killed.

61,557 DEEDS OF TRUST FILED IN COUNTY LAST YEAR

A total of 61,557 deeds of trust was filed last year in St. Louis county, a decrease of 14 per cent from 1956, Recorder of Deeds Gerald J. Donworth reported today. Total value of deeds recorded last year amounted to $363,676,357, an increase of 82 per cent over the previous year.

Value of 14,330 deeds of trust released in 1957 was $211,000,835. In other transactions, the office reported, 60,596 chattel mortgages and 6727 automobile title certificates were filed, 2421 marriage licenses were issued, 35,143 principal notes were identified and 877 lost note affidavits and 580 certified copies were made.

Two hundred new subdivision were recorded. Receipts by the office totaled $306,380 while salaries amounted to $235,088. Donworth said the volume of business last month showed a slight decrease from January 1957.

U.S. PROPOSES BIG SPARE PARTS DEPOT FOR NATO

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — The United States has devised a plan for an international military spare parts shopping center for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

It would have an initial inventory of $50,000,000 in items ranging from nuts and bolts to jet motors.

The flow of United States military equipment to members of the western defense coalition has reached the point now where maintenance is as vital a consideration as new weapons.

A meeting has been set for next Monday in Paris where United States representatives will present the proposal to a NATO committee. The United States plan was prompted by the increasing inability of some small countries to cope with the administrative as well as financial burden of maintaining the combat readiness of their forces.

In the NATO concept, logistics and supplies are regarded as essentially national problems. However, some small countries are unable to maintain suitable inventories as parts of equipment, received as United States aid, wear out.

Many countries are unable to purchase economically the full range of spare parts they now require to maintain the new tanks, guns and planes they have been using.

Spare parts are said to account for about $200,000,000 a year, of which the United States provides under military aid about $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 worth. The remainder is sold commercially by either United States or European producers—chiefly in Britain and Germany.

Most of the warehouses probably would be established in France, possibly near the NATO headquarters outside Paris. The most important part of the proposed project would be the establishment of an international record-keeping agency.

It is anticipated that the NATO spare parts center could sell equipment not only to NATO forces but to other forces belonging to members of the alliance. In addition, the question may be raised whether non-members, such as Yugoslavia, could purchase spare parts from the NATO center.

Yugoslavia, which recently renounced United States militar yaid, is shopping for spare parts in this country for the equipment it received in the discontinued program.

MAYOR REVEALS PROJECT AIMED AT DELINQUENCY

The Metropolitan Youth Commission will undertake a special project to work with "hard-to-reach" groups of teen-agers in sections of the city that have high rates of juvenile delinquency, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker announced last night.

Purpose of the work, Tucker said at the annual dinner of the Skinker-Wydown churches at Grace Methodist Church, 6199 Waterman avenue, is to redirect the interests and activities of anti-social young people "into community-approved and sponsored behavior."

The Mayor said his administration hoped to make funds available for the special project, which will involve employing several social workers. The knowledge and experience gained will be applied on a wider scale, he added.

Steady Rise in Arrests.

Speaking before 200 men from five churches in the Skinker-Wydown area, Tucker noted that in St. Louis the number of juveniles under 17 years of age arrested had shown a steady increase each year in the last five years. He said the increase had averaged 4 per cent annually.

Not only that, he said, but the nature of delinquent acts committed by young people in St. Louis is becoming more serious. He said half the persons arrested for robbery here in 1955 were 16 years of age or younger.

"In comparison with the experiences of other metropolitan areas," the Mayor said, "St. Louis is fortunate in that there have been no serious gang activities among juveniles, and the problem of juvenile use of narcotics is practically nonexistent."

Tucker said the Metropolitan Youth Commission had recommended to authorities of St. Louis county, where teen-age crime also is increasing, that a central registry be established to provide all law enforcement agencies in the county with information on juvenile arrests.

Police Now Handicapped.

In the absence of a central registry, the Mayor said, municipal police in the county have no way of learning of previous arrests of young people taken into custody. The consequence, he said, is that teen-agers who often have got into trouble may be dismissed with no more than a warning, as if they were first offenders.

The Mayor told the church group that juvenile crime in St. Louis was concentrated in areas characterized by low income and transient, shifting population. He called for an enlightened, metropolitan approach to the problem of eliminating factors that breed crime.

"We do a disservice," he said, "if we lead people to believe we can absolve ourselves of personal responsibility by pointing an accusing finger at the delinquent, his parents, his schools or some other straw man.

"Contrary to the common misconception, community responsibility for delinquency is not a nebulous concept. It is only as we grasp this concept, and seek every opportunity to create the proper understanding of delinquency, that we can hope to move forward."

The annual dinner was attended by members of men's organizations at Grace Methodist, First Congregational, St. Michael and St. George's and Delmar Baptist churches, and United Hebrew Temple. Presiding was A. W. Elbing, president of the Grace Church men's group.

KNOWLAND HITS AT REUTHER, 'LABOR BOSSES'

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13—Senator William F. Knowland yesterday made "labor bosses" in general and Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers' union, in particular, the chief targets of his campaign for Governor of California.

He said at a Lincoln day luncheon of the Los Angeles County Republican organization: "I do not intend to complacently allow California to become a satellite of Walter Reuther's labor-political empire."

After noting that the national AFL-CIO leadership met recently in Miami to "mark me for political liquidation" he said: "I accept the challenge. I shall not evade the issue."

He was more emphatic than ever before in denouncing "compulsory unionism" and urging a right-to-work law which would prevent any worker from being compelled to belong to a union or lose his job.

VON BRAUN COULD LAUNCH MOON ROCKET, EX-AID SAYS

ROME, Feb. 13 (UP)—German missile expert Rolf Engel predicted today that if rocket scientist Wernher von Braun "is given a free hand" he will be the first to send a rocket to the moon.

Engel, once Von Braun's assistant in Nazy Germany's rocket program, is working on missile development in Italy.

Engel, who started working on rockets with Von Braun when both were still in their teens, said he himself, may have taken an indirect haid in the launching of Russia's first Sputnik. The German rocket expert said he published a paper in May 1949, on the theoretical launching of a satellite. Russia's Sputnik I followed his eight-year-old theories and calculations exactly, he claimed.

GAS SHORTAGE IS REPORTED IN WESTERN MISSOURI AREA

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—A serious gas shortage developed here Wednesday.

Service was halted to commercial and industrial users with standby equipment and a spokesman for the Gas Service Co. said pressure was "dangerously low" in an era encompassing approximately half of the Missouri section of the metropolitan area. He named specifically Independence, Raytown, Eastwood Hills, Ruskin Heights and Liberty.

The trouble was blamed on a combination of extremely cold weather and transmission difficulties. A low of 5 degrees above zero was recorded here early Wednesday.

QUICK ENGINE CHANGE POSSIBLE ON AIRLINER

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Engine changes on a new turbo-jet airliner will require only 30 minutes—about the same time required for a lubrication job and oil change for the family automobile.

Planes, official publication of the Aircraft Industries Association, said a simple procedure of opening latches and disconnecting a minimum number of bolts and plugs frees the engine. A specially designed handling cart wheels the new engine into place and the connections are made again.

first guided cough medicine THOREXIN
WITH D-METHORPHAN

speeds relief directly to the cough control center*

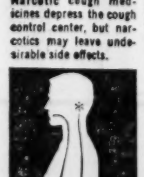
Narcotic cough medicines depress the cough control center, but narcotics may leave undesirable side effects.


Thorexin speeds relief through the blood stream directly to the cough center to relieve your cough without narcotics!
Thorexin—the first guided cough medicine—relieves coughing as easily as aspirin stops headaches—fast, sure, safe! Thorexin soothes your throat . . . then speeds safe relief through your blood stream—directly to the cough control center (the spot where coughing is controlled). That's because Thorexin contains medicine's first non-narcotic cough suppressor, d-methorphan.
Thorexin is so effective it brings prompt relief to all 5 major types of cough: (1) Common Cold (2) Bronchial (3) Flu (4) Irritation (5) Excessive Smoking.
Thorexin is so safe for the whole family . . . and children love its cherry-like flavor.

$68,964 DEFICIT IN 1957 FOR CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

St. Louis Children's Hospital, 500 South Kingshighway, incurred an operating deficit of $8,964 last year, it was reported yesterday at the annual meeting of the hospital corporation.

Income was listed at $1,344,630. The hospital's allocation from the United Fund fund-raising campaign was $74,216.

WORTMAN FIRM SEEKING PERMIT TO INCORPORATE

An application for incorporation of the W-R Cigarette Co. here was filed at Jefferson City today by the Rite-Way Cigarette Sales Co. Rite-Way is controlled by Frank (Buster) Wortman, East Side gang boss.

If approved by the State Corporation Division, the action will complete the transfer of the W-R Co. from Alderman A. Barney Mueller to the Wortman group. Plans for selling the business and its 700 vending machines to the East Side gang boss were reported by the Post-Dispatch last Dec. 6.

The application, prepared by Attorney Morris A. Shenker, states that the sole owner of the W-R firm is Rite-Way Cigarette Sales Co. James B. Hines of Caseyville, Ill., a Wortman business associate, is listed as secretary of the W-R Co., the only officer named. The address of both firms is given as 1916 Washington avenue.

Accompanying the application is a statement by Alderman Mueller, Twenty-first Ward Democrat, starting that the W-R assets have been conveyed to the Rite-Way Co. The statement, described by state officials as unusual in such transactions, added that Mueller has no further interest in the W- Rname, and no objection to registration of the name by Rite-Way. No value was placed on the W-R stock in the application.

Articles of incorporation filed last Dec. 11 at Jefferson City by Attorney Shenker for Rite-Way Cigarette Sales Co. named the chief stockholders as Edward (Ted) Wortman, brother of Buster; Hines, and the Plaza Amusement Co., 1912 Washington avenue. The Plaza Amusement Co. was incorporated in February, 1947, by Elmer (Dutch) Dowling, close associate of Wortman to "buy, sell and rent mechanical phonographs and coin-operated vending machines." Plaza Amusement Co. owns 75 of the 100 shares of Rite-Way stock, the corporate record shows.

The W-R Co. formerly was operated by Robert L. Brown, parliamentarian of the Board of Aldermen, who was shot and killed in gangland style two years ago. Alderman Mueller, reoprted to have been a silent partner before Brown's death, acquired the company from Brown's widow.

Gov. James T. Blair, in St. Louis today to address a Rotary Club luncheon at Hotel Statler Hilton, said he planned to confer with St. Louis police officials on the vending machine situation. The Governor indicated the conference would include a discussion of both state and city efforts to control the operation of vinding machines.

He added that he intended to request "city co-operation in matters relating to the effort to crack down on improper operation of the business."

CONFEREE AT APALACHIN ORDERED TO LEAVE U.S.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13 (AP)—Simon Scozzari, who police said attended a top-level crime conference at Apalachin, N.Y., last Nov. 14, was ordered deported yesterday.

Scozzari, manager of the Venetian Athletic Club in Los Angeles, was accused of entering the United States illegally from Sicily in 1923 and failing to register as an alien.

HOFFA REPORTED GETTING RID OF BUSINESS TIES

© New York Times News Service

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13—James R. Hoffa reported yesterday that he had started to liquidate the extensive business interests that helped to get him in trouble with Senate investigators and the AFL-CIO.

Hoffa, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, disclosed that he had ordered all of his aids to divest themselves of financial ties that might conflict with the conduct of their union duties.

The move to make certain that Teamster officials did not sit on both sides of the collective bargaining table was designed to comply with a mandate issued three weeks ago by United States District Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington. It was part of the price set by the judge for dissolving a temporary injunction that had kept Hoffa and his 15-member executive board from taking office.

Keeps Business Ties Quiet.

Hoffa declined to disclose the enterprises from which he had withdrawn. However, associates said he had acted to wind up the Hobren corporation of Detroit. This is a holding company that takes its name from the first syllables of Hoffa's own name and that of Owen Bert Brennan, a Teamster vice president.

The wives of the two union chiefs weer the sole owners of the corporation, which rented trucking equipment for hauling automobiles. The records of the Senate Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor anrd Management Field indicated that Mrs. Hoffa and Mrs. Brennan had drawn $125,000 in earnings from the company in a seven-year period.

The union's executive board decided that its former president, Dave Beck, should be called to Washington to get directly from Hoffa the news that he would have to get along on his lifetime pension of $50,000 a year. Beck had wanted to retain a long list of costly benefits, including free use of his union-owned home in Seattle.

Monitors to Meet Board.

The three monitors Judge Letts designated to safeguard the financial welfare and democratic rights of the union's 1,400,000 members, will have a "get acquainted" meeting with the union board this afternoon at Hoffa's invitation.

By the Associated Press.

Godfrey P. Schmidt, harshest Hoffa critic among the monitors, came gunning for trouble. He complained in advance that two witnesses he called for the New York teamsters rank and file plaintiffs in a suit against Hoffa had been subjected to reprisals.

The New York lawyer said locals at Fall River, Mass., and Providence, R. I., had instituted ouster proceedings against the plaintiff witnesses on the ground that their testimony had brought the union into disrepute.

Pointing out the court settlement of the suit had specifically prohibited any such reprisals, Schmidt said "some drastic action is necessary to make sure they don't continue." The settlement provided the union would pay all legal costs and would operate with union-paid monitors as overseers.

Schmidt confirmed a report that he is about to apply to the court for fees and expenses totaling about $300,000. When the union's own defense costs are adde, it was believed the case will have cost the union about $500,000.

Anti-Trust Inquiry Into Some Unions Disclosed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Assistant Attorney General Victor R. Hansen said yesterday his anti-trust division is looking into the activities of certain union locals for possible anti-trust law violations. He said the locals include four belonging to the Teamsters' Union.

He declined to elaborate, but the Justice Department's interest was reported to stem from complaints that the locals being studied have engaged in price-fixing conspiracies with management groups.

The investigation was understood to include, in addition to teamster groups, Hawaii locals of the International Longshoremen's Union and local units of the International Electrical Workers and the Milk Drivers Union.

CHURCH LEADERS OF SOUTH MEETING ON RACE ISSUE

MEMPHIS, Feb. 13 (AP)—About 25 religious leaders of the South are holding a two-day meeting to discuss what they can do to help ease racial tensions.

"This is a private meeting in which we are sitting around talking informally," said Dr. William M. Elliott Jr. of Dallas, moderator of the Presbyterian Church U.S. (Southern).

"We are trying to pool our ideas and experiences . . . I invited a few of my friends whose judgment I respected. We are not here as official representatives of our churches and we don't intend to adopt any resolutions."

Other leaders include Representative Brook Hayes (Dem.), Arkansas, president of the Southern Baptist Convention; Bishop Girault M. Jones of New Orleans, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Louisiana; Dr. Granville T. Walker of Fort Worth, Tex., president of the International Convention of the Christian Church; Bishop William C. Martin of Dallas, Methodist bishop of the Dallas-Fort Worth area; and Dr. Gerard D. Busch of Louisville, Ky., president of the Kentucky-Tennessee synod of the United Lutheran Church.

ALTON GROUP OPPOSING TAX RISE TO CALL ON STRATTON

A delegation will be formed on behalf of the Greater Alton Association of Commerce to seek an appointment with Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois to protest against an increased tax in Madison county, it was announced yesterday.

J. B. Johnson, Alton school superintendent, said a reduction in state aid would result from the increased multiplier in Madison county. He stated that as the assessed valuation is increased the amount of state aid is decreased by an applied formula.

George T. Wilkins, Madison county school superintendent, said that the county schools would lose $900,000 in a two-year period under the tax increase. He stated it would lower the amount of state aid avaiilable to schools, and schools systems would have to make up the loss through increased local taxation.

COAL MINER TRAPPED 6 HOURS IS RESCUED

LOGAN, W.Va., Feb. 13 (UP) — Rescuers early today pulled Glen Burchett from a coal mine where he had been trapped nearly six hours by a cave-in which killed five fellow workers.

Part of a tunnel roof in the Amherst Coal Co.'s Lundale mine collapsed at 6:30 p.m. yesterday, two and one-half miles inside the mine.

Burchett and five others were trapped beneath a pile of shattered slate.

Rescuers had little difficulty reaching the scene. One of them found Burchett and uncovered him sufficiently to give him coffee at 10 p.m.

At 12:15 a.m. workers carried him from the mine and took him to a hospital for treatment of a broken leg and shock.

Meanwhile, the body of another miner was found in the rubble, a company spokesman said. He said four other miners known to have been in the cave-in area were "presumed dead." Their names were not disclosed. A seventh man escaped the falling slate.

The spokesman said the seven men were huddled around a loading machine repairing a broken chain when the roof gave away. The fallen section was about 100 feet long, 20 feet wide and four feet thick.

The Lundale mine, one of several large operations of Amherst in this coal-producing southern West Virginia county, was opened last year and normally employes about 200 men on all shifts.

11 EX-POLICEMEN INDICTED

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 13 (AP)—A grand jury indicted former New Orleans Police Superintendent Joseph L. Scheuring, 10 other former high-ranking policemen and 18 gambling figures yesterday on charges of conspiracy to commit public bribery.

The other one-time police officials indicted include ex-Assistant Superintendent Milton Durel, former Chief of Detectives Harry Daniels, and eight former police captains.

ZINC PLANT AT MONSANTO SHUT 3 WEEKS FOR REPAIRS

American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co., has closed its electrolytic slab zinc plant at Monsanto, Ill., for three weeks to make repairs, Howard I. Young, president, announced today.

The 225 employes of the plant will take their paid vacations, ranging from two to three weeks, during the shutdown. Sufficient inventory has been accumulated to meet customers' requirements during the month, it was said. Production is expected to be resumed the first week of March.

Stalin Advocated Low-Level Talks Before Summit Meetings

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—In hitherto unpublished Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill correspondence, the late Soviet dictator is revealed to be the originator of the now controversial principle that meetings of chiefs of state must be thoroughly prepared at a lower level.

The newly published correspondence is Russia's own historical scoop because it comprises letters written between 1941 and 1945 that are still classified both in Washington and London. Published in English in Moscow, the volumes appear to be Russia's bid for "scientific historical accuracy." Historians with access to the originals say there has been no censorship or distortion.

Stalin's views on the summit are currently amusing Washington since they involve precisely the points of careful preparation which President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have been emphasizing as a precondition to a summit meeting—preconditions which today's post-Stalin Kremlin is contesting.

In a "personal and secret message to President Roosevelt," in August 1943, Stalin, speaking of the need for a Big Three meeting, emphasized:

"The meeting should not be restricted to the narrow bounds of investigation, but should concern itself with practical preparations so that after the conference our governments might take specific decisions and thus avoid delay. I must revert to my proposal for fixing beforehand the range of problems to be discussed by the representatives of the three states and drafting in detail the proposals they will have to discuss and submit to us for final decision."

N.A.A.C.P. LOSES ITS FRANCHISE IN ARKANSAS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 13 (AP)—Gov. Oral Faubus revoked the state franchise of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People yesterday.

Meanwhile, two new reports of racial incidents came out of integrated Central High School, and Superintendent Virgil Blossom recommended the expulsion of a Negro girl from the trouble-ridden school. He said she had violated an agreement not to fight back against white students' harrassment.

Faubus signed a proclamation taking the N.A.A.C.P. and about 300 other corporations off the roll of chartered organizations because they failed to pay 1957 franchise taxes by a Feb. 1 deadline. His action had the effect of dissolving the N.A.A.C.P. in Arkansas.

Under a 1953 state law, the N.A.A.C.P. could regain its franchise by paying delinquent taxes and applying for reinstatement.

Automatic Forfeiture.

Failure to comply, the law states, automatically forfeits all right to do business in Arkansas.

The N.A.A.C.P., which contends it is a non-profit organization in this state, has never paid farnchise taxes. Currently it is involved in five lawsuits filed by State Attorney General Bruce Bennett. The franchise tax issue is included in the litigation.

A state judge recently directed the N.A.A.C.P. to pay a total of about $400 in charter taxes and penalties for the past seven years. Bennett maintained that the N.A.A.C.P. operated in Arkansas for that length of time without a charter. The N.A.A.C.P. has put the money in court custody pending the outcome of the suit, which is being appealed to the state supreme court.

Records of the Arkansas Revenue Department show that the N.A.A.C.P. incorporated last April 29.

Case Up to Board.

The Little Rock School Board heard Blossom's recommendation for expulsion of 16-year-old Minnie Jean Brown in a closed session. Blossom also extended a three-day suspension that she got Friday to two weeks.

Only the board can expel a student but it usually follows a superintendent's recommendation.

Minnie Jean got the suspension—her second—for her part in a scuffle with a white girl student. The white girl quit school.

Last December Minnie Jean was suspended for throwing chili on two white boys in a cafeteria incident. She has been involved in several other racial clashes at Central High.

Minnie Jean is the only Negro who has been suspended since Negroes entered Central High Sept. 25 under the protection of Federal troops.

She said the expulsion recommendation resulted from her calling a white girl "white trash."

School officials sent a letter to the girls' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Brown, which said in part:

"Minnie Jean Brown was reinstated on probation Jan. 13 (from a previous suspension) with the agreement that she would not retaliate verbally or physically to any harassment, but would leave the matter to school authorities.

"After provocation of the (white) girl student she called the girl 'white trash' after which the girl threw her purse at Minnie Jean."

'Unbearable,' Girl Says.

For five months, Minnie Jean said, the situation for her has been almost unbearable.

"I don't think people realize what goes on at Central," she said. "They throw rocks, they spill ink on your clothes, they call you 'nigger,' they just keep bothering you every five minutes."

Minnie Jean said she and the eight other Negroes who still attend the 1900-pupil school were ordered to be humble to white pupils.

Minnie Jean has been the main target of segregationist students. Several white students have been suspended at different times for harassing her.

Florence Callaway, 15, told reporters that she had been kicked on the knee by the heel of a Negro girl's shoe as they climbed a stair. The white girl said Thelma Mothershed, 16-year-old Negro, laughed and continued on her way. The Negro girl later offered to apologize, the white girl said, but she refused to accept the apology.

Jefferson Thomas, 15, Negro, reported that an unidentified white boy seized him by the throat near the school gymnasium and threatened him. The Negro boy said the white student accused him of "bumping into me in the hall."

Principal Jess Matthews said last night that he had no details on either reported occurrence.

DRIVING COUNT DISMISSED

AIR FORCE HEAD HINTS JUPITER OUTPUT MAY END

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—The Air Force was disclosed last night to be considering dropping the Army's intermediate range ballistic missile Jupiter.

Two months ago, after more than a year of open rivalry, the Defense Department decided to produce both the Jupiter and the Air Force's Thor.

These are 1500-mile range missiles which have been earmarked for installation at European bases, beginning with sites in England by the end of this year. Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy said in December that both missiles would be put into production although neither of the two weapons have been pronounced completely satisfactory from a development point of view.

Earlier, when Charles E. Wilson was Secretary, a department panel had failed to choose one missile above the other, when assigned to eliminate duplication in this field.

Douglas Testimony.

Disclosure of the Air Force attitude came with the release of testimony by James H. Douglas, Secretary of the Air Force, before the House Armed Services Committee last Friday.

Douglas told the committee he was planning to recommend to Secretary McElroy within two weeks whether more of one missile or the other ought to be produced, or whether one might be dropped altogether. It appeared he planned to retain the Thor and was considering dropping the Jupiter.

Douglas's testimony disclosed also that the Air Force plans to use its Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile to launch a reconnaissance satellite. The Atlas, made to carry a nuclear warhead 5500 miles, has been tested twice successfully for shorter distances.

A memorandum by then Secretary Wilson in November 1956 assigned combat use of intermediate range ballistic missiles to the Air Force. Even the Jupiters that are produced will be turned over to the Air Force.

Overseas Use Planned.

Douglas said that the decision in favor of dual production was prompted by the desire to send I.R.B.M. squadrons overseas by the end of this year. However, he continued, more was known about the two weapons now.

"As we proceed with the development of both missiles and become better assured of having an operational Thor, the more my concern is increased that we not follow this program on a more expensive course than is necessary," said Douglas.

He indicated, however, that at least one and possibly a few more Jupiter missiles would be sent abroad, regardless of his decision to devote production efforts exclusively to one weapon of this type.

Secretary Douglas was urged by the committee members to delay his recommendation. Representative Carl Vinson (Dem.), Georgia, chairman of the committee asked him to wait "for at least a year or a little bit longer."

Intent of Scuttling?

Representative Porter Hardy Jr., Democrat of Virginia, asked whether the Air Force had taken over the Jupiter program "with the very definite intent of just scuttling" it. Douglas denied the allegation.

The tone of the questions recalled the tense rivalry of the Air Force and the Army in developing intermediate range ballistic missiles. After the Wilson memorandum Col. John C. Nickerson, an Army research official, disclosed classified documents in protest against the decision with the consequence that he was tried, punished and reassigned to Panama.

The Air Force long has contended that its Thor missile is superior to the Jupiter and easier to manufacture. However, the success of the Army in launching the satellite explorer with a Jupiter C rocket appeared to have strengthened its hand in this field.

Hopes for Redstone.

Army officials lately have said they were less interested in the Jupiter than in the new versions of the 200-mile Redstone. Their hopes are riding with plans for a Pershing missile which with a solid fuel is expected to make possible a range of 400 to 600 miles.

Secretary McElroy recently confirmed that the earlier restriction of 200 miles to Army weapons—in the same memorandum that transferred the Army-developed Jupiter to the Air Force — no longer is in force.

By the Associated Press.

Meanwhile President Eisenhower has signed an emergency bill providing $1,410,000,000 to speed up the missile and air-defense programs. The bill appropriates $1,260,000,000 in cash and authorizes the Defense Department to use $150,000,000 additional from previously appropriated money.

The cash includes $350,000,000 for the Navy and $910,000,000 for the Air Force. The Navy allotment contains funds to start work on three atomic powered submarines capable of firing the Polaris missile.

Related Bill Signed.

The President also signed a related bill authorizing the Defense Department to proceed with construction of a ballistic missile detection system and ballistic missile firing bases and to enable the Strategic Air Force to disperse its planes over more bases.

Senator Frank A. Barrett (Rep.), Wyoming, said Army missile experts hope to put in orbit before April 1 a satellite weighing several hundred pounds.

"It will be from 10 to 15 times larger than the Explorer," Barrett, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said in an interview. The Explorer, now circling the earth, weighs 30 pounds, 8 ounces.

Lt. Gen. Arthur C. Trudeau, the Army's new research and development chief, said in San Francisco yesterday that he wants authority to cut through red tape.

Gen. Trudeau, on his way from Korea to Washington to succeed Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, told reporters he wants to simplify administrative procedures "so I can get immediate yes and no answers to my questions."

"With so many echelons within the Army, by the time an idea gets going there seems to be undue delay," Trudeau said. "All I need is authority, and I will cut through the red tape."

Earnings Tax

about $9,000,000 to $14,000,000 a year.

But a majority of the St. Louis members of the Legislature were either cool or openly-hostile to the city's proposal that the Legislature impose the additional levy. The tax-shy city legislators did not relish the job, particularly with an election coming up this autumn.

'Home-Rule' on Tax.

St. Louis legislators cited several reasons why they like the Governor's proposal. They said it would give St. Louis "home rule" on the earnings tax, and forever eliminate the necessity of the city's going to the Legislature for authority to increase the levy.

Another practical reason given for support of the Governor's plan was that it is extremely doubtful the Legislature would be willing to give St. Louis authority to hike the tax.

The assembly, with only about six weeks left in its 60-day special session to handle the state budget and other matters, probably would be unwilling to devote the time to "battle through another St. Louis earnings tax." As one legislator put it: "St. Louis has worn out its welcome in the Legislature on the earnings tax."

Some question has been raised as to the legality of Blair's proposal, although most St. Louisans in the Assembly are willing to accept the Governor's assurances that his plan is constitutional and will not jeopardize continued collection of the city's present levy.

Use of Ordinance.

It was pointed out that St. Louis originally attempted to levy an earnings tax by ordinance, without specific charter authority. The Missouri Supreme Court knocked out that attempt, asserting the city would have to obtain permission of the Legislature because its charter did not permit it to impose a tax of that kind.

The Legislature granted the city the right to levy the tax on a temporary basis on several occasions. The last time, it provided that St. Louis could levy a permanent earnings tax if the people of the city adopted a charter amendment authorizing it. Such an amendment was submitted and adopted in 1954.

Since the St. Louis charter now authorizes the tax, Blair contends the state enabling act is no longer necessary. But he holds that retention of the state law has the effect of prohibiting St. Louis from increasing the tax above the existing rate of one-half of one per cent.

Repeal of the law, he said, will give St. Louis voters the right, by charter amendment, to fix the rate at any figure they want without going to the General Assembly for permissive legislation.

Pentland Opposed.

Only one St. Louis legislator, among those questioned, expressed opposition to Blair's proposal. He is State Senator Robert Pentland, political education director of Local 688, Teamsters Union, which has long opposed the earnings tax.

Pentland said the earnings tax is "grossly unfair" because it does not allow exemptions for dependents and because it is levied at the same rate whether a taxpayer earns $60 or $600 a week.

"The Governor's proposal would give the city a blank check, without any limitation," he said. "The tax should be increased to 2 or 3 per cent, or higher—whatever they wanted. The city should, instead, adopt a city income tax, with exemptions and rates based on ability to pay."

A number of city legislators said they would reserve their opinion until they meet Sunday with members of the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen. The city officials and aldermen are giving a breakfast for the St. Louis legislative delegation at Hotel Chase to discuss the earnings tax matter and other city problems.

COMMENT IN CITY ON STATE PLAN

If the state enabling act is repealed, the city "probably" will retain authority to levy the earnings tax, Acting City Counselor Charles J. Dolan said today.

A similar view was expressed by James S. McClellan, attorney and chairman of the Citizens Tax Committee, which last October recommended raising the earnings tax ceiling from one-half to three-quarters of 1 per cent as part of a program for alleviating the city's financial problems.

McClellan indorsed Gov. Blair's proposal as "a means of increasing home rule for the city."

Dolan was asked by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker to study possible effects of repealing the enabling legislation on the city's basic authority to levy the earnings tax.

"I am for anything that increases our home rule in St. Louis," Mayor Tucker said. "However, I feel we should be very careful in the method employed to increase home rule so that we do not jeopardize what we already have."

In outlining the legal situation that would prevail if the state law is repealed, Dolan expressed the view that the present earnings tax would be unaffected and added:

"The mere repeal of the statute would not give the city any additional authority. However, we probably would have authority as part of our inherent charter powers to increase the rate by amending the charter."

Dolan acknowledged that the validity of a charter amendment in the absence of state enabling legislation might be challenged by opponents of the earnings tax.

"We would feel safer with an enabling act authorizing us to seek a higher rate through a charter amendment," he said.

He explained that validity of the present enabling act has been upheld by the United States Supreme Court while the legality of proceeding by charter amendment alone has not been tested.

McClellan expressed confidence that such procedure would be legal. He pointed out that the need for enacting the present enabling legislation arose from the fact that at that time, the city charter did not include provision for levying an earnings tax.

That provision now exists as a result of adoption of a charter amendment by St. Louis voters in 1954 and "the need for state authorization no longer exists," he added. "All that needs to be done is to eliminate the limit set on the rate by the state legislation."

He dismissed the possibility that repeal of the enabling act could be construed as with drawal by the Legislature of authority it originally granted the city, thus terminating the city's right to levy any earnings tax.

"I don't think this issue could be raised successfully," he said. "Gov. Blair has made it clear that the whole purpose of repealing the statute is to allow the city to seek an increase in the tax rate by charter amendment. So it would be unsound to argue that the city's authority was withdrawn by the repeal action."

Although the Citizens Tax Committee recommended state legislation as part of the procedure for increasing the earnings tax, McClellan said he now favors Gov. Blair's proposal "because it permits the city to handle its own problems as far as possible. It recognizes the city's independence."

British Rocket

ean will be to co-operate with other Allied navies to counter the threat of Russia's growing submarine fleet.

Several projects have been undertaken to insure that British sea power derives full benefit from scientific advances. The White paper cited: (1) A new radar and aircraft control system for carriers, more advanced than any in the world, and (2) a low level bomber is being developed for navy use. Also, with American help a nuclear submarine is being developed.

Sweeping Pay Boosts.

By the United Press.

The white paper announced sweeping pay and allowance boosts to all ranks of the armed forces in an effort to spur recruiting which is lagging dangerously.

The white paper said that by the end of 1962 conscription will be ended and Britain will have an all-volunteer nuclear age armed force of 375,000 long service troops, including an army of 165,000. The paper admitted that volunteer recruiting must be stepped up with the aid of pay boosts and improved fringe benefits.

The increases will add about $90,000,000 a year to the British defense budget, currently hovering around the 4-billion-dollar mark.

The budget figures announced so far show a $60,000,000 reduction from last year's figures—provided West Germany agrees to pay $132,000,000 of the cost of maintaining British troops in that country. The Germans have so far refused to pay.

HENRY F. KOCH PLANS RACE

Henry F. Koch, city clerk of Florissant since 1950, announced yesterday he would file for Democratic nomination for St. Louis county clerk at the primary next August.

Koch, 36 years old, is a former professional baseball player. He lives at 1580 St. Malachy lane, Florissant.

Steel does the CAN CAN and kitchen work becomes easier to take

Would you ever guess that the average American family uses up more than 240 pounds of steel a year—just in tin cans? Tin cans are steel, you know—sheet steel with a tin coating.

The ladies are all for this kind of can-can. Cuts out more and more kitchen drudgery. Makes healthful, balanced diets easier to whip up.

Do you know why steel is tops for making the cans that bring you everything from soup to nuts, from beer to soft drinks?

Because the tin can—in addition to keeping your food fine and wholesome—won't break. It is stronger and less expensive than any other container. And it is so cheap you can discard it when you've used it.

BARUCH. My Own Story

Ten Rules or Guidelines For Speculating Wisely; Beware of Inside Tips

In Evaluating Company, Consider Its Real Assets, Product or Service and Character and Brains of Management.

By BERNARD M. BARUCH
CHAPTER XVI

I HAVE heard attributed to Sir Ernest Cassell, who was the private banker to King Edward VII, a remark that I wish I had thought of first.

"When as a young and unknown man I started to be successful I was referred to as a gambler," Sir Ernest said. "My operations increased in scope and volume. Then I was known as a speculator. The sphere of my activities continued to expand and presently I was known as a banker. Actually I had been doing the same thing all the time."

That observation is particularly worth pondering by those who may think that there is such a thing as a sure investment. The elder J. P. Morgan could gag at the word "gamble" when I used it, but the truth is there is no investment which doesn't involve some risk and is not something of a gamble.

We all have to take chances in life. And mankind would be vastly poorer today if it had not been for men who were willing to take risks against the longest odds.

The true speculator is one who observes the future and acts before it occurs. Like a surgeon he must be able to search through a mass of complex and contradictory details to the significant facts. Then, still like the surgeon, he must be able to operate coldly, clearly, and skillfully on the basis of the facts before him.

What makes this task of fact finding so difficult is that in the stock market the facts of any situation come to us through a curtain of human emotions. The constant problem of the speculator or analyst is how to disentangle the cold, hard economic facts from the rather warm feelings of the people dealing with these facts.

Few things are more difficult to do.

How to Speculate Wisely.

Being skeptical about the usefulness of advice, I have been reluctant to lay down any "rules" or guidelines on how to invest or speculate wisely. Still, there are a number of things I have learned from my own experience which might be worth listing for those who are able to muster the necessary self-discipline:

1. Don't speculate unless you can make it a full-time job.

2. Beware of barbers, beauticians, waiters—of anyone — bringing gifts of "inside" information or "tips."

3. Before you buy a security, find out everything you can about the company, its management and competitors, its earnings and possibilities for growth.

4. Don't try to buy at the bottom and sell at the top. This can't be done — except by liars.

5. Learn how to take your losses quickly and cleanly. Don't expect to be right all the time. If you have made a mistake, cut your losses as quickly as possible.

6. Don't buy too many different securities. Better have only a few investments which can be watched.

7. Make a periodic reappraisal of all your investments to see whether changing developments have altered their prospects.

8. Study your tax position to know when you can sell to greatest advantage.

9. Always keep a good part of your capital in a cash reserve. Never invest all your funds.

10. Don't try to be a jack of all investments. Stick to the field you know best.

These "rules" mainly reflect two lessons that experience has taught me—that getting the facts of a situation before acting is of crucial importance, and that getting these facts is a continuous job which requires eternal vigilance.

Evaluating Companies.

In evaluating individual companies three main factors should be examined.

First, the real assets of a company, the cash it has on hand over its indebtedness and what its physical properties are worth.

Second, the franchise to do business that a company holds, which is another way of saying whether or not it makes something or performs a service that people want or must have.

Third, and most important, the character and brains of management. I'd rather have good management and less money than poor managers with a lot of money. Poor managers can ruin even a good proposition. The quality of the management is particularly important in appraising the prospects of future growth.

These basic economic facts about various enterprises, to repeat, must be checked and rechecked constantly. Sometimes I have made mistakes and yet, by abandoning my position in time, still was able to emerge with a net profit.

Outside my old office in Wall Street there used to be an old beggar to whom I often gave gratuities. One day during the 1929 madness he stopped me and said: "I have a good tip for you."

When beggars and shoeshine boys, barbers and beauticians can tell you how to get rich it is time to remind yourself that there is no more dangerous illusion than the belief that one can get something for nothing.

Tips are most numerous, of course, when the market is booming. The tragic part of this is that in a rising market, for a time at least, anyone's tip will seem good. This only draws people deeper and deeper into the market.

Amazing Misinterpretation.

The things that people will misinterpret as tips are amazing. One winter when we were living at the St. Regis Hotel in New York, my wife and I had a number of friends and relatives in for dinner. I was called to the telephone. My part of the conversation sounded something like this:

"Consolidated Gas. Yes, yes. That's good. That's good. Yes, yes. Good."

A few weeks later I arrived at my plantation in South Carolina to find a guest of that evening at the St. Regis, a charming relative, in tears. She had lost much of her money.

"But you must have lost a great deal in Consolidated Gas, too," she sobbed.

"Lost a great deal in Consolidated Gas?" I repeated in amazement.

"Yes," she said. "I bought it on your recommendation. Oh, you didn't know you were recommending it to me. I'm afraid I have been guilty of eavesdropping. But when I heard you say over the telephone, 'Consolidated Gas, good, good,' I just could not keep from going in."

What had happened was this. Suspecting Consolidated Gas to be due for a fall, I had commissioned someone to get certain facts for me. His telephone call to the St. Regis was in the nature of a report which confirmed my beliefs. In saying, "Good, good," I was merely acknowledging the confirmation of what I had expected.

Consequently I had begun to sell the stock while my relative, thinking she had a tip, was buying.

Investment Counselor.

What of the man or woman with modest savings who is simply looking for a fair return on his or her savings and who cannot give full time to a study of investments? My advice to such persons is to seek out some trusted investment counselor. The emergence of this new profession of disinterested and careful investment analysts, who have no allegiance or alliances and whose only job is to judge a security on its merits, is one of the more constructive and healthy developments of the last half century.

There are several influences, though, which make it more difficult to judge the value of securities today than it was at the turn of the century. Two such forces are the ever-present threat of war and the continuing problem of inflation.

The effect of these two threats—war and inflation—are worth intensive study because they illustrate so well the clashing motivations that impel people to invest in stocks. Some people invest in hope and confidence in the future of an enterprise; others because of fear that the value of their capital will be lost through inflation. The main reason for the unusual and puzzling behavior of the stock market in the years since World War II has been that BOTH these motivations were so active simultaneously.

Many businesses have increased enormously in value. At the same time, we have felt the cumulative effects of the inflationary government policies which have held sway for so long. Nor, at least as of this writing, has this inflation been halted.

Move to Merge Iraq and Jordan Affects Future of Baghdad Pact

U.S. Debates Possible Dissolution to Help Union Become Separate Force for Leadership Among Arabs.

By RUSSELL BAKER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT is debating possible dissolution of the Baghdad Pact as one consequence of the Iraqi-Jordanian move toward a second Arab union.

Opinion in the department is divided as to whether the pact would be an asset or a detriment to the non-Communist world in the new Middle Eastern situation that would be created by a merger of Iraq and Jordan.

Some officials are arguing that the merger is foredoomed unless Iraq withdraws from the pact. The other members are Britain, Turkey, Iran and Pakistan. Without Iraq the group would even be without its name. Baghdad is Iraq's capital. Iran would be left the only country not already allied with the West in either the North Atlantic Treaty Organization or the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

At present, the Arab world looks to Egypt's President Nasser to fulfill its aspiration and he has taken a long step in this direction through Egyptian union with Syria. The merger of Jordan and Iraq—with Iraq out of the Baghdad Pact—could become a separate force for leadership among the Arabs, it is argued.

Vulnerable to Propaganda.

With Iraq remaining in the pact, the new union would be highly vulnerable to propaganda charges that it was merely a "front" for "Western imperialism" and its failure would be insured, some officials contend.

Saudi Arabia's position toward the proposed merger is highly uncertain, but King Saud has made it clear that he would not consider joining so long as Iraq retained its treaty tie with the pact.

Though the United States is not a full member of the pact, Washington's influence is considerable. The pact was originally an American idea. The United States is a member of three of its committees and contributes toward its financing.

Officials insist that the United States has not been a moving force behind the activity to merge Iraq and Jordan. The Arabs themselves have been encouraged to make the decisions without Western advice, officials say.

Nevertheless, officials here concede that the proposed merger offers some tantalizing opportunities for new approaches to old problems that have long seemed insoluble.

Firm Anchor for Jordan.

For one, it is argued, it would provide, in Iraq, a firm Arab anchor for Jordan, whose future as an independent has always seemed grim. At present Jordan exists largely with the aid of United States subsidies.

Second, it is argued, the merger might open the way finally for solution of the Palestine refugee problem, which has been one of the area's worst political nightmares.

At present some 500,000 of these refugees are bunched in Jordan, which is incapable of supporting them, of supplying them with work and, frequently, of controlling them. They have represented not only a constant threat to the Jordanian government but also a continuing symbol for inflaming the Arab-Israeli dispute.

In a merger with Iraq, whose economy is perhaps the soundest in the Middle East, the refugees could be put to constructive work and absorbed into the Iraqi economy, some officials believe.

ELECTRICAL MAP CAN GIVE PICTURE OF BATTLEFIELD

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 13 (AP)—An electrical map in the field commander's tent, changing by the minute, giving the position within feet of all planes, tanks and troops deployed over the battlefield, now is possible.

The Pacific division of the Bendix Aviation Corp. announced yesterday that a navigation system, originally built for control of air and marine traffic, had been adapted for battlefield use.

The low frequency system provides field commanders with an instant "fix" on all fighting units in their command. The system works beyond line of sight, and below the curvature of the earth to give the field command behind battle lines a continuous pictorial display on an electrical map of the battle scene.

The system requires sending stations that transmit wave patterns occupying precisely known and stable geographical positions. The waves are picked up by receivers and automatically computed and displayed on standard Army maps and charts.

New Tactics For Red Army In E. Germany

Maneuvers Start Early — Allies Think Some Units Have Missiles.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.

THE 22-division force of the Russian army in East Germany has started spring maneuvers several weeks earlier than usual and is trying out a variety of new tactics, formations and weapons, informed Allied sources said yesterday.

The move puzzled some of these sources because other Russian divisions in Poland, Hungary and Romania are not believed to have started their spring exercises yet.

The Russian force in East Germany, the best-manned, best-equipped and probably most combat-ready Red army unit outside the Soviet Union, has been in the field for several weeks, according to information here.

Under a new commander, Gen. Matvey V. Zakharov, the Russian forces are testing both conventional and nuclear warfare tactics, the latter stressing disperson and mobility. The Red army units reportedly are employing more tracked and motorized vehicles than formerly, to move both men and equipment.

Allied sources here say the 22 Russian divisions in East Germany have more and newer rockets and it is possible some units are equipped with tactical missiles.

The Russian land forces in East Germany, numbering between 350,000 and 400,000, are well equipped with armor, including the T-54, Josef Stalin III and possibly the new T-10 heavy tank, sources here say.

It is not known if the East German army is maneuvering jointly with the Russian forces, as it did last year.

ASSERTS NETHERLANDS WILL AGREE TO ROCKET BASES

THE HAGUE, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Netherlands government will agree to rocket bases on its territory to help keep NATO's defense strong, Defense Minister Cornelis Staf told Parliament yesterday.

The government, he added, intends to maintain the military draft and the present defense budget of about $35,000,000.

RESTON

Byrd's Departure Further Weakens Conservative Cause

Virginian and Others Exerted Considerable Influence — Successors Will Not Have Same Power.

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.

THE CONSERVATIVE OLD GUARD in the Senate is fading. Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia is the latest of an impressive list of influential conservatives of both parties who have announced their retirement, have died or have been defeated at the polls in the last three years. Among these are Walter F. George of Georgia, Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, William F. Knowland of California, Edward Martin of Pennsylvania, E. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin, Herman Welker of Idaho and William E. Jenner of Indiana.

Though these men differed on many things, almost all of them were generally regarded as opponents either of the collective security or welfare state policies of the New Dealers and modern Republicans.

Moreover, most of them, either through long service or committee, chairmanships, or both, exerted considerable influence in the upper chamber, and their departure, or impending departure, cannot but weaken the conservative cause.

It does not follow from this that the Senate will inevitably move to the left. Nobody knows yet who will replace all these men, but the new men will not have the committee seniority of the departed or departing veterans, nor will they, for many years, acquire the personal influence of the men listed above.

Other Senate Changes.

Death, family illness, the competition of younger men and political ambition here all played their parts in these potentially profound changes, and these changes are not the only ones affecting the Senate.

The industrialization of many parts of the South, the disaffection of many farmers in the Middle West, the demands for cheap credit and public power in the West and the liberalization of the Republican party are all having their effect.

The South, once the heart of internationalist and low-tariff sentiment, is moving toward protectionism and joining with conservatives from the Middle West in opposition to lower tariffs and foreign aid.

At the same time, Southern Senators, again under the influence of their new industrialism, are taking a more liberal attitude on public power, conservation, civil rights and even legislation affecting education.

Coincidentally, the Middle West, long the stronghold of Republicanism, is seriously questioning the more conservative agricultural policies of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, and, at least in some areas, showing greater interest in the cheap money, conservation and reclamation policies of the Democrats.

Though these trends have undoubtedly helped defeat or persuade some of the younger conservatives to retire, age is the major factor in the changing Senate. This factor is definitely working against the Republicans who are left.

At present, the average age of the 47 Republicans in the Senate is 59.8 while the average of the 49 Democrats is 57. The Democrats have the three oldest men in the upper chamber — Senator Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island, 90; James E. Murray of Montana, 81; and Carl Hayden of Arizona, 80, but they also have the youngest.

Eleven Democratic Senators are in their thirties or forties to six for the Republicans, and there are 18 Democrats in their fifties to 13 Republicans. Thus both age and the trend of politics seem to be running in the Senate with the Democrats, particularly in the coming election, when 20 Republican Senators have to stand for election against only 12 Democrats.

New Role for Bridges.

With Senator Byrd retiring, and Senators George and Millikin already gone, Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire will undoubtedly play an even more important role in leading the Republicans in the Senate.

Senator Andrew F. Schoeppel of Kansas is a powerful ally in conservative G.O.P. ranks. Senator Harry Goldwater of Arizona is emerging

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Missing in the County

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Seven years have passed since Dr. Leonard Scheele, then Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, announced the indorsement of fluoridation as a safe and effective means for controlling tooth decay.

During those years scientific facts in support of fluoridation have accumulated with ever-increasing momentum — evidence based upon the results of its practical application to large groups in our population. In all groups a careful study of possible harmful results has been made by health officials and other competent persons and in no instance have unfavorable results to any segments in the population been reported.

Fluoridation has been operating successfully in the City of St. Louis for more than two years yet it continues to be denied to the children of St. Louis county. The campaign for fluoridation in St. Louis was characterized by the type of leadership that seems to be missing in St. Louis county. Studies conducted by the St. Louis Dental Society and the St. Louis Medical Society provided conclusive evidence that was carried to Mayor Tucker and to the Board of Aldermen under the capable direction of the City Health Commissioner, Dr. J. Earl Smith, who conscientiously assumed his responsibility for the health of the community he serves and acted accordingly.

In the controversy over fluoridation in the County Council something is missing that should normally be present. The voices of the health officials, sworn to protect the health of the community, are conspicuous by their absence.

Perhaps their absence accounts for the lack of decision by Council members in the face of vociferous although unsound opposition of the few opponents of fluoridation.

Fluoridation eventually will come to St. Louis county and therein lies the tragedy—years during which dental health is neglected and the costs of dental care accumulate and are projected throughout the lives of thousands of children who must abide by the decisions of the community officials.

The services of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch will not be forgotten by those who treasure community health and the health of their neglected children.

Clayton D. W. Brock, D.D.S.

Obsolete Transit Policy

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I would like to congratulate you on your impressive editorial of recent date concerning the Senate Commerce subcommittee's railroad hearings in Washington. Yours was a sound and thoughtful discussion of the serious situation existing today.

The editorial is evidence that America is awakening to the weaknesses of our national transportation policy, and it will contribute to stopping the enormous waste forced upon the people of the country by a lopsided and obsolete concept of transportation regulation and subsidy.

Alfred E. Perlman, President
New York Central System

From the Lab

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

What if the Russians did put two sputniks in orbit? Our own scientists have not been idle. In addition to our satellite they have come up with instant coffee and cigarette filters.

Fred O'Flyng

Open to Everyone

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

St. Louis has come a long way along the road to real democracy in eliminating discrimination in its schools, churches and city-owned facilities. This I have witnessed since 1950.

A few privately owned facilities serving the public have voluntarily opened their doors to a policy whereby "Everybody Is Welcome."

Unfortunately a majority of proprietors are reluctant to follow even their own convictions as to what is right or wrong in refusing service to a person on the basis of color alone. Some of these same people are asking civic groups to support and to obtain legal backing wherein they would be "freed" to serve anyone seeking their services and facilities without losing business to competitors.

The present anti-discrimination bill before the Board of Aldermen could serve such a purpose both to St. Louis business men and to more than 200,000 minority St. Louisans as well as convention delegates from around the world.

The passage of such a bill would certainly give a boost to the St. Louis celebration of Brotherhood Week. Edgar Poindexter

For Official Use Only

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The request by the State Highway Patrol for funds to buy a helicopter should be granted provided the helicopter is used only for official business. However, if it is used to transport state officials and their political cronies on pleasure jaunts, which is common practice in the case of National Guard planes, the request should certainly be rejected by the Legislature.

As a taxpayer I'm galled at the brazen and open manner in which state-owned property is used to personal advantage by high officials. Mrs. Evelyn Rackers
Jefferson City

No Time to Gamble

The "home rule" principle under which Gov. Blair would permit St. Louis to submit a Charter amendment for a higher earnings tax is as sound and democratic as can be. If six St. Louisans out of every 10 are willing to approve an earnings tax rise—as would be necessary to carry a Charter amendment—there is no reason why the Legislature should stand in their way.

Unfortunately, however, the Governor's suggested method for implementing the home rule principle might lead to a legal challenge that would make it financially dangerous for the city. The difficulty is that the Governor proposes to give St. Louis more than it has asked—or needs.

St. Louis has asked only that the ½ of 1 per cent ceiling specified in the earnings tax enabling act be lifted—either by raising it to 1 per cent, say, or by abolishing the ceiling altogether. Gov. Blair proposes instead to abolish not merely the ceiling; he would do away with the entire state enabling act, and therein lies the danger. In the absence of any state enabling legislation, the city might not enjoy power to levy an earnings tax of any size.

The forerunner of the present city earnings tax, the "city income tax" of the Kaufmann Administration, was declared void in a unanimous Missouri Supreme Court decision in 1947. That was the Carter Carburetor case. The court held that there was no specific authority for the tax either in the City Charter or the statutes, and that no such levy had ever received authorization by the Legislature.

Some lawyers interpreted that opinion to mean that the city could adopt a tax of this nature by Charter action alone; that is, independently of action by the Legislature. The 1949-50 Board of Freeholders, headed by Mayor Tucker, included an earnings tax authorization in its Charter, but the instrument was defeated at the polls and the question accordingly never reached the court.

It is significant, however, that in 1954 no attempt was made to authorize the tax by Charter action alone. The city first obtained legislative authority to adopt the tax through the Charter amendment.

It may be, of course, that since the Charter now permits the levying of this tax on a permanent basis, state enabling legislation no longer is necessary. But what if the Legislature killed the enabling act on this theory and the Supreme Court then held that the tax was invalid? The tax at the ½ per cent rate yields in excess of $9,000,000 a year, and St. Louis cannot afford to gamble with that sum.

The Governor's supplemental message to the Legislature on this question is not expected to be submitted until next week, so he has time to consider his proposal. A simple recommendation that the tax ceiling only be eliminated—not the whole act—would serve the "home rule" principle and the needs of St. Louis.

Two-Man Club in the Senate

The United States Senate, often referred to as the world's most exclusive club, may be engendering an ultra exclusive club-within-a-club. Senator Green of Rhode Island, long the only member, has just been joined in this special club by Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois. But the door is wide open for at least 94 more Senators.

Any Senator who wants to join the select inner circle has only to follow the procedures of Senators Green and Douglas in regard to expense accounts for trips made abroad on Government funds. These two Senators make their expense accounts open for the public. There is no rule in Senate or House requiring this and as a result these expense accounts are kept restricted from the public gaze.

If the two Senators can increase the membership of their select little club it should result in progress in separating the junketeers who spend Government funds lavishly from the Congressmen who make legitimate trips and show some respect for the taxpayers.

The Rooming House Hearing

The aldermanic hearing on proposed changes in the rooming house ordinance produced an overwhelming case against making them, and to that extent the hearing served a most useful purpose. To a man, city officials responsible for public health, safety, sanitation or zoning ticked off the unhappy effects the proposals would have in their fields. More than 30 civic, improvement and other organizations from all sections of the city opposed the changes; in general they expressed a reasonable fear that the changes would make the city a less livable community, and they were right. To sum up: the experts said No and the neighborhood representatives of the people said No. The Aldermen ought to make it unanimous.

The World of Senator Byrd

Senator Byrd's announcement that he will retire from the United States Senate in January, when his present term ends, portends that soon he will have completed the record of his three decades as a national political figure.

In the nation's Capitol Senator Byrd has been for one thing — reduced expenditures — and against virtually everything else. No President has been able to please him. He denounced the Franklin D. Roosevelt Administration as the most wasteful in American history, said the "Truman Democratic party" was a worse menace to this country than Russia, branded the Eisenhower budget worse than any of Roosevelt's or Truman's.

He stood almost alone against the Social Security Act of 1935—against relief bills to help the hungry and homeless during the depression of the '30s—against the Wagner Act, against the Wage-Hour Act, against raising the minimum wage. In latter years he has stood against the Marshall Plan and NATO.

In Virginia, Mr. Byrd gained the Governor's office by standing against a bond issue for roads. As Governor he won acclaim for reorganizing the state government and enacting an anti-lynching law. In all his years as state machine boss, his influence on the state has been negative.

Thanks to his penny-pinching, Virginia's record in public education, mental hospitals and old-age pensions is a wretched one. His machine controls county officials, school boards, electoral boards and public welfare boards. To make control easier, the electorate is kept small and usually not more than 11 per cent of the voters select Virginia's Governors. "The mother of Presidents" has the smallest primary vote among all the states. There are white adult Virginians who have never voted in their lives.

At present "Boss" Byrd's rallying cry for his state is "massive resistance" to the United States Supreme Court's decision desegregating the public schools. Though he will step down from the Senate, "like all good citizens," the retiring Senator says, "I will never lose my interest in public affairs." Presumably this means that in Virginia the Byrd machine will still be boss. It is a formidable record on which the Senior Senator from Virginia—and third ranking Democrat in seniority in the Senate—can look back at the age of 71. History will say whether there has been in his long political career any achievement as affirmative as his role in private life as world's largest independent apple grower.

An Appeal for Confidence

President Eisenhower is clinging to his view that economic conditions are bound to improve shortly, but this opinion appears to have been amended somewhat in recent weeks.

Three weeks ago, in his economic report, Mr. Eisenhower stressed optimism. His new statement on the economy, issued in place of his press conference, mixes optimism with caution. If federal efforts are needed to stop the slump, he says, "They will be proposed—and in time."

The President also has issued a "fact paper" on major federal spending projects. This shows what is being done to improve an economy which the Administration still contends will improve largely by itself in a month or two.

Such indications of corrective action are most reassuring. We assume the President is speaking of possible tax cuts or increased public works, for that is what Congress is speaking about now. And the latest unemployment figures suggest that the Government may have to employ more of the economic tools at its command. From December to January, unemployment rose more than in any one month since the depression of the '30s. The present figure is 4,500,000 jobless; Secretary of Commerce Weeks predicts 5,000,000 by March.

March is the month which Mr. Eisenhower selects as the likely time for "the start of a pick-up in job opportunities." His economic advisers must agree with him but many other economists do not. There is still a great deal of disagreement—and guesswork—about where the economy is heading. If that were not so, the President would not be appealing for confidence and warning against being "fainthearted." There is almost an echo here of the Roosevelt statement that "we have nothing to fear but fear itself."

Most Americans, we think, are not fainthearted. There is not much lack of confidence in the national economy for the long run. But there would be more confidence in the immediate economic future if the Administration stated frankly what it has in mind to do about a continued slump.

Bonn's Sad Offer to London

The West German government hardly can have pleased Great Britain by offering what amounts to a $280,000,000 down-payment on future purchases of arms and munitions in lieu of the $140,000,000 contribution to the support of British troops in Germany.

Allowing the British to use the money for the time being without interest amounts to a "keep the change" gesture. Undoubtedly it would be of some slight help in maintaining Britain's payments balance, but it could be accepted only at a considerable sacrifice of British dignity. And it would not meet the equitable claim of London, or of Paris and Washington that Germany should contribute to her defense by NATO troops at least so long as her own NATO obligations remain unmet.

The statement that this is the sole offer Bonn has been able to work out and that it still lacks parliamentary approval hardly makes it more attractive. Some German politicians, of course, favor the "demilitarization" of the country; but that is far from the official policy of the Adenauer regime. It may be that governments always must serve national interest exclusively. If so, the Bonn ministers must realize that the presence of Allied troops in Germany is in the interest of Germany as well as that of the other NATO nations.

A dog bit an airplane. And if that's not news, there won't be much anyone can do about it.

Representatives of Pan-American Airways charge that the Dewey firm received $150,000 for "non-legal" work in a case in which Eastern Airlines won a new route from the Civil Aeronautics Board. Gov. Dewey denies that, but is reported to have refused to give the House group records of his firm.

This is one sample of the blind alleys into which this important investigation has run. The other alleys involve the outgoing blast by Dr. Bernard Schwartz, ousted committee counsel of the former Moulder subcommittee. The New York University law professor said:

I intended the investigation to strike at the very roots of the system of improper control of the regulatory agencies, which are so vital to the everyday life of the American people.

I planned to expose the manner in which votes have been bought and sold in the granting of multi-million dollar licenses and franchises.

I planned to expose the octopus-like hold of big business upon the supposedly independent boards and commissions.

I planned to bring to light the machinations of the White House clique in controlling the decisions of these agencies: Sherman Adams, Gerald Morgan, Sinclair Weeks, Col. Gordon Moore, Thomas E. Dewey—the parts played by all of these were to be exposed in public hearings.

The evidence brought out last week of dereliction on the part of the Federal Communications Commission—shocking though it was—was but a precursor of that which was to come.

The flimsy and fictitious pretext used to fire me will deceive no one of the subcommittee's true intent. Their sole and only aim is to turn this important investigation into a whitewash.

These are resounding charges but they also are grave ones. They involve many aspects of Government. Dr. Schwartz may be wide of the mark, and may have said things he cannot fully support. But the only way for the public to learn the truth is for Congress to search it out, and to hold accuser and accused accountable.

Dr. Schwartz accepts that, and says he is willing to stand on his findings. To make sure that these findings would not be hidden in the investigation, he showed his records to Senators Williams of Delaware, a Republican, and Morse of Oregon, a Democrat. The latter gave the records to the full House committee which is questioning Dr. Schwartz.

So the inquiry must go on. Both Congress and the Executive Branch have roles to play in determining the facts about the way in which Eisenhower appointees are running the important regulatory agencies. No charge should be left in limbo.

Remember away back yonder when "shoot the moon" was a slang and card game term and not a Government project?

WELL, HE DID IT AGAIN

Next, a Cabinet Post for Science?

Three Newspapers Take Differing Views of New Proposal

The Kansas City Times

The American people have been notified that science is no longer merely a gadget to while away the time of a few strange individuals in ivy-covered laboratories. In the same package, science is the key to a more fruitful life for mankind and to the survival of civilization. For that reason, the proposal to create a department of science at the Cabinet level is, we believe, important.

Clearly there are emergency steps to be taken to bring our scientific effort back into focus. The proper level of research spending (particularly basic research) is still to be established. The appointment of Dr. James R. Killian as special science assistant to the President may bring about some co-ordination of effort.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

But there is also a long-range course of science as a factor in the modern world.

An example of the role that a department of science might play was suggested recently by the testimony of Dr. Lloyd V. Berkner at a House committee hearing. The president of Associated Universities, Inc., called attention to our failure to use the scientific knowledge of others, chiefly through a lack of translation and dissemination facilities. It strikes us that a department of science would be the logical agency to carry on this increasingly important function of translating foreign technical publications.

Furthermore, such a department would be able to co-ordinate the entire scientific effort, and a secretary of science would be able to advise the President and other Cabinet officers of the ways in which the new technology might affect other aspects of Government life. Indeed, we might speculate that had such an office existed, Washington might not have underestimated the psychological impact that the Sputniks had on the world.

The Hartford Courant

Establishment of a new department headed by a secretary of science is now sought by Democratic Senators Humphrey of Minnesota and McClellan of Arkansas. It would be wrong to turn thumbs down on such a proposal without investigating it fully. But it would be equally foolish to believe that our problems can be resolved by the creation of a new department.

Several things are not yet clear. Are we inferior to the Soviet Union scientifically? There is a great deal more evidence to indicate that we are still way ahead of the Soviet in those areas of scientific research that are now going on without the hampering hand of Government, and the secrecy that is implicit in that relation.

Are we looking to our real weaknesses in thus seeking a political solution? Many educators and scientists believe that our fundamental softness exists on a simple, almost primitive level of education—in our grammar schools and in our high schools—that our courses are not tough enough, and that our teachers are not trained well enough or provided in sufficient numbers.

Many people believe that the National Science Foundation, headed by Dr. Alan T. Waterman, is doing a pretty good job now of allocating Government support to scientific research under private auspices. Is there any indication that this can be done better by a political secretary of science?

Quite likely, most scientists engaged in pure research will blanch at the prospect of further Government impingement in this field.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal

Lack of co-ordination is probably one of the country's greatest defense weaknesses. Until this is overcome our defenses cannot be geared to the space age and its highly scientific weapons.

It is with that realization that Senator John L. McClellan, Democrat, Arkansas, has introduced a bill to create a separate Department of Science and Technology in the Federal Government. Co-signer of the bill is Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota.

Senator Humphrey

The new department as authorized by the McClellan bill would be headed by a secretary appointed by the President and it would have the specific responsibility of centralizing and co-ordinating civilian scientific functions of the Federal Government.

Legislation for the proposed scientific department would be handled by new Senate and House committees on science and technology to be set up by the Congress.

Members of Congress do not take readily to suggestions that they relinquish committee posts or even committee functions and it is this requirement of the realistic McClellan bill which may meet greatest opposition.

Be that as it may, the idea of a separate Department of Science and Technology has a great deal of merit. The present willy-nilly approach, the obsession for secrecy and the Federal Government's seeming inability or unwillingness to let its left know what the right hand is doing in scientific areas, and particularly those related to defense, is getting us nowhere.

Taxes Without Tears

An Editorial in Fortune

There is a bit of news from Mexico that we commend to the attention of the Internal Revenue Service. A few weeks ago the Mexican Government announced that on a trial basis it will let artists pay taxes in kind as well as in money. An artist could pay his tax entirely in works of art, providing their value was not less than the amount of the taxes. It was the late Diego Rivera, as a matter of fact, who first proposed the scheme; last year he paid his tax bill (amounting to about $20,000) with three paintings. The paintings were worth far more than the bill, and the Government was disposed to consider favorably Rivera's suggestion that it put the plan on a permanent basis for all artists. President Cortines had a special committee consider the proposition, and when they reported it would work, the measure was put into effect. In time, the system might be extended to dancers, composers, and, possibly, even bullfighters.

All of which suggests some intriguing possibilities for the United States. Why not apply such a plan to the executive? For a long time government people have been lamenting how few executives spare time from their jobs to work for the Government; for their part, executives have been lamenting the way high taxes keep them on such a treadmill they haven't time to spare. Suppose, however, that the executive could pay part of his taxes by working a month or so for the Government. The Government wouldn't lose much revenue and it would be freshened with new blood; companies would have their executives broadened free of charge and the executive himself, given a sort of paid sabbatical, would probably have a good time.

The idea, of course, is outlandish. But so are the taxes.

Between Book Ends Magnificent and Repulsive

SILK HATS AND NO BREAKFAST, by Honor Tracy. (Random House, 207 pgs., $3.50.)

It is difficult to imagine any modern visitor to Spain limiting his travelogue to scenic description. Not only have historical events aroused great feeling, but for Northerners—British particularly—the passionate and disorganized Spanish character seems to exert an overpowering fascination.

In this account of a summer's struggle through the Spanish provinces, subtitled "Notes on a Spanish Journey," Irish author Honor Tracy ostensibly sets out to see the sights. But the book's value lies in its perceptive construction of public Spanish character through the well-written account of casual meetings and incidents.

A special blend of objectivity and sensitiveness is required to note, as Miss Tracy does here of the Spanish: "No people should be so magnificent and so repulsive at once." When the author enters southern Spain at Algeciras she joyfully leaves behind "order, efficiency, cleanliness, peace and fair play."

Bouncing over perilous country roads in derelict busses, sleeping in dirty provincial hotels with inedible meals, she observes a country where tragedy is so common it has produced both nobility and callousness.

There is bite in Miss Tracy's accounts of constant Spanish misinformation, hardened beggar children and daily exhibits of indifference and cruelty. She has the good humor to realize, however, that much of her shock lies in a clash of standards.

Repeatedly she meets difficulties because she is that unthinkable phenomenon, a single woman traveling alone.

Miss Tracy's annoyance at unpunctuality and prevarication is amusing to a people who see nothing worth hurry or embarrassment. And her harassed distaste for constant Spanish noise and late-hour bedlam is very British. Miss Tracy likes the Spanish, with their grace, honesty and "the nobility which is the core and essence," and she tries to indicate that much apparent cruelty may be due to the sheer weight of suffering and despair. Here is a country where many ordinary people still live in caves while the government offers a few "silk hats before breakfast," in the form of show projects for visitors and privileged party members.

The tragedy of poverty and repression do not weight the book unduly. Miss Tracy is at her best in describing southern Spain where passions match the burning countryside and enthusiasms make a Northerner feel "limp, rainwashed and colorless." She may be excused, therefore, if later sections on cool Galicia seem less interesting. One senses that the strain of foreign isolation and physical discomfort finally produced exhaustion.

FINAL PAIR OF 'POP' CONCERTS AT HOTEL

Symphony to Wind Up Current Series — Arthur Fiedler to Conduct.

The final pair of the current series of informal "pop" concerts by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Arthur Fiedler, will be tomorrow and Saturday evening in the Khorassan Room of the Chase Hotel.

Soloist for the concerts will be Ozan Marsh, professor of piano at Lindenwood College, who performs frequently as soloist with the Boston Pops Orchestra. Fiedler is the regular conductor of the Boston Pops.

The two final concerts of the series will start at 8:30 p.m., and will have the same program. It includes the Rakoczy March, the overture to Oberon, a concert arrangement of music from "Porgy and Bess," selections from the musical score of the motion picture "Around the World in Eighty Days," Duke Ellington's "Caravan" and a number based on the radio commercial, "Look Sharp —Be Sharp."

Marsh will be soloist for Liszt's Concerto No. 1 in E Flat Major.

Tomorrow night has been designated as "College and Valentine Night," in honor of college students in the area.

Seating for the concerts, as well as the general atmosphere, is informal. The audience sits at tables and may order food and drink served during the program. Admission tickets, which are $3.50, may be obtained at the Aeolian box office, 1004 Olive street; at the Symphony box office at Kiel Auditorium, or at the Khorassan Room on the night of each concert.

WILLIAM M'GEE FUNERAL

Funeral services for William M. McGee, a special policeman for the Missouri Pacific Lines, will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Hoppe undertaking establishment, 4911 Washington boulevard. Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Mr. McGee, who was 65 years old and lived at 3500 Victor street, died of a heart ailment Tuesday at Missouri Pacific Hospital. He had worked for the railroad 10 years. Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Ethelda Hamilton McGee, and a son, Warren McGee.

The Rev. Albert H. Wilson Dies.

TABLE-SETTING CONTEST WINNERS TO BE NAMED

Winners of the "Taste Setter" table-setting contest, in which 12 Girl Scout troops are participating, will be announced at a tea at 3:30 p.m. Saturday in the Missouri room of the downtown store of Stix, Baer & Fuller. The store and Seventeen Magazine, which is sponsoring the contest nationally, will contribute prizes.

Members of the participating troops have built table settings around one of five basic themes specified by the magazine. The girls also have made centerpieces for the tables and selected menus.

The first place winner locally will enter the national contest.

MRS. EMMA WHITTEMORE FUNERAL TO BE SATURDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Haarstick Whittemore, widow of Clinton L. Whittemore, who was president of the Levering Investment Co. when he died in August 1949, will be Saturday at 3:30 p.m. at her home, 6420 Forsyth boulevard, Clayton. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mrs. Whittemore died yesterday at Sarasota, Fla., where she had been spending the winter. She was 83 years old. Surviving are two sons, Clinton L. Whittemore Jr., and Henry H. Whittemore, both of St. Louis, and a daughter, Mrs. Elise W. Case, of Sheridan, Wyo.

RISE IN INTEREST IN LATIN, GREEK AT MISSOURI U.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 13—In an era in which science education is being encouraged, an increasing number of students at the University of Missouri are enrolling in what heretofore has been an almost neglected branch of studies, classical languages and archeology.

Prof. Saul S. Weinberg noted an enrollment of 230 for the fall semester, a 13 per cent increase over the previous year, compared with an increase of 3.8 per cent for the university as a whole.

Dr. Weinberg reported an even heavier gain in Latin, which had a 57 per cent increase.

Dr. Weinberg said that students told him they were enrolling for the help Latin provided in medicine and law, but a significant group elected Latin as a subject for a better understanding of English grammer. In high schools, Latin is being dropped because of a teacher shortage in the field, and that may help account for a greater demand at the university level.

SISTERS TO OPEN MISSION

The Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet will open their first mission, a senior high school for girls in Tsu, Japan, in April 1959, Mother Eucharista Galvin, superior general of the order, told a student assembly at Fontbonne College yesterday.

Six St. Joseph nuns now are in Japan studying the language and customs of the country. They will be joined by two other nuns before the school is opened, Mother Eucharista said.

WILLIAM RIORDAN FUNERAL

Funeral services for William J. Riordan, a former employe of the Illinois Terminal Railroad Co. here, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Buchholz undertaking establishment, 5967 West Florissant avenue, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Riordan died Tuesday at St. Francis Hospital in Peoria, Ill. For the past 22 years he was assistant general freight agent for the railroad at East Peoria. Survivors include his wife and a sister and two brothers of St. Louis.

30,000 HEAR BILLY GRAHAM AT GUATEMALA CITY RALLY

GUATEMALA CITY, Feb. 13 (AP)—Some 30,000 to 40,000 Guatemalans listened closely to Billy Graham at the United States evangelist's first meeting in Guatemala last night.

Reporters estimated that 30 or 40 persons responded when he called for "decisions for Christ" at the end of a 45-minute address.

Graham spoke in a football stadium which seats 60,000. He flew here yesterday from San Jose, Costa Rica, pausing briefly in Nicaragua, Honduras and El Salvador to address crowds at the airports.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. NELLIE SHIELDS

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Bond Shields, whose late husband, Walter Shields, was a real estate dealer and property manager, were held today at Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard, University City. Burial was in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mrs. Shields, 77 years old, died Tuesday at her home, 5536 Pershing avenue. Her husband died in 1928. A sister, Mrs. Fletcher Harris of Memphis, survives.

MICHAEL WILDING MARRIED

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 13 (AP)—Actor Michael Wilding and Mrs. Susan Nelt, a London divorcee and interior decorator, eloped here from Los Angeles and were married in a wedding chapel last night.

The British film player, former husband of actress Elizabeth Taylor, and Mrs. Nelt, were married at the Little Wedding Chapel Around the Corner, where the Rev. James Herndon performed the single-ring ceremony. Wilding is 45 years old, his wife is 42.

GRACE HALVELAND ELECTED

Miss Grace D. Halveland, a supervisor in the savings and new accounts department of the Bank of St. Louis, was elected president of the Savings Association of St. Louis Banks at the organization's annual dinner meeting last night at Hotel Melbourne. She is the first woman to hold the post.

The association is composed of savings department personnel of banks of St. Louis and St. Louis county.

U.S.-SOVIET TV SWAP DUE IN TWO MONTHS

Head of American Group Hopes Pact May Improve Coverage of Russia.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Special Ambassador William S. B. Lacy predicted yesterday that the first swap of United States and Soviet "political" broadcasts would take place within the next two months.

Lacy headed the United States delegation which negotiated a two-year agreement with the Soviet Union on exchanging radio-TV broadcasts, film, scientists and other experts over the next two years.

Lacy told the National Press Club luncheon neither side in the three-month negotiation "got all it wanted" but said it was a beginning toward possibly closer United States-Soviet relations.

One thing the United States side failed to get was its No. 1 proposal. This was to swap periodic and uncensored radio-TV commentaries on world events. Instead, the agreement called for spasmodic censored radio-TV programs discussing agreed-upon "international political problems."

Lot of Work Ahead.

Lacy said this was a "sensitive point to both sides." He said "a lot of work" still was necessary to decide on specific dates for these broadcasts. But he said the first one would be "in the near future—within the next two months or thereabouts."

In replying to other questions, Lacy said he hopes the agreement will lead to freer coverage of the Soviet Union by United States reporters. He said this question would be discussed further with the new Soviet Ambassador to Washington, Mikhail A. Menshikov.

Lacy told his audience he believes the peoples of eastern Europe, including Hungary, will look hopefully to the new United States-Soviet agreement. He said this is so because it promises some understanding between the United States and Russia.

Chance to Get Foot in Door.

By the United Press.

Lacy said the agreement "is something less than a Magna Carta of East-West dealings." He called it a chance for "getting our foot in the door to the approach to a more peaceful world, but we are not there yet."

Lacy said the Government is now consulting with Harold Fellows, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, on ways to carry out the exchange of radio and television broadcasts.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

Among the TV and radio broadcasts considered for dispatch to the Russians, it was learned, are projected interviews of top level Americans, including possibly President Eisenhower, by a small group of American newsmen. Preliminary soundings at the White House have indicated that the President would be willing to participate in the TV interview plan if the right format were found.

'Pop' Conductor Fiedler Is Made An Honorary Fireman Here

He Is So Enrolled for 76th Time — Has to Give Back 'Symbolic' Helmet, Coat.

Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra, was made an honorary fireman for the seventy-sixth time yesterday when he was "enrolled" in the ranks of the St. Louis fire department.

Director of Public Safety Joseph P. Sestric and Deputy Chief James Sauerwein presented the conductor with a certificate in a brief ceremony at Engine House No. 2 at 314 South Twelfth boulevard. He was also given an authentic fireman's white helmet and rubber coat, but they were taken back after photographs had been made. The helmet and coat were only symbolic, it was explained.

Fiedler has been made an honorary firefighter in virtually every community he has visited, but he gets a chance to pursue his avocation actively only in Boston and San Francisco, the two cities in which he spends most of his time. He is here to direct the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in a series of "pop" concerts at the Chase Hotel.

He exhibited his Boston fireman's badge to Chief Sauerwein and explained that he has a siren, police radio and fire department license plates on his Volkswagen so he can keep up with the latest blazes and get to them in a hurry. The Boston fire department also pays him the courtesy of calling him at all hours of the night to tell him of fires.

"People always ask me why I like to go to fires," Fiedler volunteered before a reporter could ask him. "I like speed. I enjoy watching the fire chief make those quick decisions that are always needed. He's got to size up the situation immediately to get that fire under control. Firefighters have to work fast and efficiently."

The conductor's interest in fires and firemen dates back to his boyhood days, when he hung around fire houses, a pastime enjoyed by many American youngsters. In keeping with the fireman's tradition, he is the owner of a Dalmatian dog, which is named Sparky.

MRS. JOHN C. HOSTETTER FUNERAL HELD IN FLORIDA

Her husband was president of Mississippi Glass from 1943 to 1949. A son, John R. Hostetter of Winter Park, also survives.

CHECKER TITLE TOURNEY

The 1958 championship checker tournament for Greater St. Louis will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Railroad Y.M.C.A., 201 South Twentieth street, and will be held each Sunday afternoon until completed, it was announced today.

Persons who have lived in St. Louis, St. Louis county or the East Side for one year are eligible. A preliminary round of play will separate players into two groups, in which they will play until winners are determined.

MISS ELLA JURGENS DIES, TEACHER HERE 40 YEARS

Funeral services for Miss Ella Margarette Jurgens, a school teacher in St. Louis for more than 40 years, will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Alexander & Sons undertaking establishment, 6175 Delmar boulevard. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Miss Jurgens, 79 years old, died last night of infirmities at her home, 5895 Cates avenue. In her career, she taught at Lincoln, Gratiot, Field and Kennard schools. She was a member of Pilgrim Congregational Church.

MARYVILLE COLLEGE TALKS

Chester Stovall, executive director of the St. Louis Council on Human Relations, addressed students at Maryville College today in connection with the college's observance of Brotherhood Week.

Other speakers were Melvin Newmark, an attorney, and William Bates, sociology teacher at St. Louis University. The meeting was sponsored by the campus chapters of the National Federation of Catholic College Students.

GEORGES ROUAULT, FRENCH ARTIST, DIES

Leading Painter of Religious Subjects Was One of Last of Les Fauves.

PARIS, Feb. 13 (AP)—Georges Rouault, the Twentieth Century's most famous painter of religious subjects, died today at his home of uremia. He was 86 years old.

He and Georges Braque were among the last of "L'Ecole de Paris" (School of Paris) and "Les Fauves" (the wild beasts) who revolted against impressionism in 1906 and turned French painting in a new direction.

Mr. Rouault won his fame as a religious artist with his "Miserere," a collection of 58 engravings completed in 1927. The collection was an attempt to depict the tragedy of life in a stern but serene way.

Born in a cellar during the shelling of Paris in the 1871 insurrection of the Commune, he started work at the age of 14 in a stained-glass factory where he developed his sense of art and color. He spent his lunch money to visit museums and attend night lectures on art.

His first teacher was Gustave Moreau, who died in 1898. His leaning to religions art began developing after he met the French Catholic writer, Leon Bloy, early in the 1900s.

His early paintings attracted little attention. He sold practically nothing until he was past 40. A French art dealer, Ambroise Vollard, finally began promoting his work and his reputation spread rapidly.

Mr. Rouault was involved in an unusual court ruling on artistic property in 1947 when Vollard's heirs refused to hand over pictures that Mr. Rouault wanted returned for modification. The heirs refused, contending the works were their property and could not be changed. The court ruled, however, that an artist keeps a spiritual right in his works and ordered the paintings returned to Mr. Rouault.

The artist burned 315 of the 1000 paintings returned by the heirs because he said they were not representative of his art. The paintings were valued at about $1,000,000.

Nineteen Rouault prints of the "Miserere" series, owned by Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Levin of University City, were exhibited at the Art Museum in St. Louis in September 1955. Twenty-eight Rouault prints and paintings were shown in 1951 at the Safron gallery in Clayton.

A Rouault painting on wood, "The Holy Face," was displayed in St. Michael's Catholic Church in Bement, Ill., in 1956. Rouault worked on the tableau for more than five years. The painting was brought to Illinois by Carleton Smith, director of the National Arts Foundation and a native of Bement.

IRAQ AND JORDAN READY TO SIGN UNITY DOCUMENT

AMMAN, Feb. 13 (AP)—Preparations continued today for signing the proclamation federating the kingdoms of Iraq and Jordan. A government spokesman said the ceremony may take place late today or tomorrow after Iraq's Crown Prince Abdul Ilah arrives.

Ilah, who was regent of Iraq until Ging Faisal became 17 years old, wields considerable power. The delay in his arrival was believed to be one of the things delaying the signing of the proclamation.

King Hussein of Jordan and Faisal, 22-year-old Hashemite cousins, will sign the proclamation. Hussein, who wields large authority in Jordan, and Faisal, who has much less in Iraq, will continue to be kings.

Saud Gives Indorsement.

The new federation, regarded as a balance to the new United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria, received a message from pro-Western King Saud of Saudi Arabia expressing his indorsement.

Official sources have said Saud might join the federation if Iraq pulls out of the American-sponsored Baghdad pact.

The United Press quoted an informed source in Amman as saying that Faisal has agreed that Iraq will withdraw from the Baghdad Pact next year if the federation with Jordan is working smoothly by then.

Jordanian officials are trying to avoid giving the impression that the new federation is a challenge and an answer to the U.A.R. The official Jordanian line outlines the benefits to both countries and especially to Jordan's finances.

Iraq can be expected to provide the money in the new partnership out of its oil revenues. Hussein's kingdom, carved out of the desert by the British after World War I as a reward for Hashemite support in the fighting, has difficult access to the sea and few resources.

'Key to Palestine Problem.'

Al Jihad, a leading Jordanian newspaper, went beyond the official view by describing the federation as "the key to the right solution of the Palestine problem." Jordan shares a long frontier with Israel and recently has increased its hostility to the Jews as a demonstration of solidarity with other Arab nations.

Even before the new federation came into exitsence, a threat to it was reported in Lebanon. Beirut newspapers reported that Hajj el Husseini, the former Mufti of Palestine, had invited other Palestine Arab refugees to Cairo to proclaim a union of the non-Israeli sections of Palestine with the U.A.R.

Those sections are the Egyptian-governed Gaza strip and the western bank of the Jordan. King Hussein's grandfather annexed the Jordan area in 1949, but this has never been recognized by the Mufti.

Last night Syria's President Shukri Kuwatly sent a present to King Hussein. It is a collection of Kuwatly's speeches on Arab unity.

CASTLE ADDS HIS BACKING TO DRIVE ON SLOT MACHINES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 13 (UP) — Attorney General Latham Castle said yesterday he has sent a letter to each of the 102 Illinois state's attorneys calling their attention to Gov. Stratton's crackdown on slot machines.

"In his press conference . . . Gov. Stratton made abundantly clear the determination of his administration to rid Illinois of the last vestige of slot machine operations or other forms of gambling, whether in private clubs and similar organizations, or otherwise," the attorney general's letter said.

"I therefore suggest," the letter concluded, "you investigate the situation in your county and if violations are occurring within your jurisdiction you give the matter your immediate attention."

Stratton announced Monday that there were indications that gambling interests were taking over operation of slot machines in private clubs, and hence an all-out drive would be made to eliminate the machines.

DATES FOR PROFESSIONAL EXAMS SET IN ILLINOIS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Final filing dates for March examinations in three professions have been announced by Vera M. Binks, director of the Illinois Department of Registration and Education. They are:

Professional nurse, final filing date Feb. 27; examination Chicago, March 20-21. Real estate broker and salesman, final filing date March 3 for examination in Springfield March 17 and for examination in Chicago March 18-19-20.

Funeral director and registered embalmer, final filing date March 8; examination Chicago, March 24-25-26-27. Application for examinations must be made to the department office in Springfield.

CAR TAG DEADLINE SUNDAY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier says there will be no extension of the deadline Sunday for displaying 1958 Illinois automobile licenses.

Motor vehicle registrations through last Saturday totaled 2,471,000, about 15,000 above the figure for this time a year ago. For all of 1957, registrations reached 3,600,000.

LONG SUPERSONIC FLIGHT CLAIMED FOR B-58 BOMBER

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 13 (AP)—A B-58 Hustler jet bomber recently flew at supersonic speed for more than an hour and a half during a test, Convair officials said today.

It probably was the longest sustained faster-than-sound flight ever made by an airplane, said spokesmen at the Fort Worth plant where the Hustler is built and tested.

The same plane has made several non-stop, round-trip test flights from here to the West Coast in the last two weeks. That series included 10 consecutive days on which the B-58 was flown through its entire normal operating range.

On one of those flights, the Hustler flew for nearly six hours at speeds beyond the fastest attainable by "any other known bomber," said August C. Esenwein, Convair vice president and general manager of the Fort Worth plant.

The top speed of the B-58 never has been announced. However, the Air Force has said the Hustler has been flown at more than twice the speed of a .45-caliber pistol bullet. That means more than 1130 miles an hour.

ZEALOUS REDS SPEND OWN $675 TO WIN $23 PRIZE

BERLIN, Feb. 13 (UP)—An East Berlin sales clerk and his wife took Communist competition so seriously they invested $675 of their own money to win a government prizes of $23, the East Berlin newspaper National Zeitung reported today.

The couple, identified only as Frieda and Erich P., were proud of their record of always meeting their quarterly sales quota in the government-run East Berlin shop in which they worked, the newspaper said.

Last September they discovered they were 2700 marks ($675) short of their quota and might miss the prize given for the best sales record. They drew the money from their own account and put it in the till hoping to get it back during the Christmas rush.

But Communist authorities discovered the ruse. The newspaper did not disclose whether the couple recovered their money.

as one of the most articulate of the younger Republican conservatives, and, of course, on domestic issues there are still many Southern Democrats who shared Senator Byrds conservative financial policies, though few of them enjoy his authority.

Nevertheless Byrd's announcement yesterday cast a shadow over the conservatives of both parties, and brought many expressions of regret from men who have differed with him for a generation. For his sincerity and courtesy were widely admired, even by those who opposed him.

COLD WEATHER CAUSES RUSH ON COATS AND FUEL

The longest February cold spell here in more than 20 years has stimulated demand for heavy clothing, caused a sudden rush to buy fuel supplies and slowed both river and land traffic.

Stores reported sub-freezing weather has revived sales of heavier topcoats for men although sales of overcoats remain rare. A rush to obtain supplies of liquefied gas and fuel oil was reported, particularly in neighborhoods where furnaces using natural gas switch to a standby fuel when temperatures drop.

Many motorists found their automobiles stalled. The Automobile Club of Missouri reported 916 calls for emergency service yesterday instead of the normal of about 700 at this season.

Yesterday was the seventh consecutive day the temperature stayed below 32 degrees. Lowest temperature reported at Lambert-St. Louis Field this morning was 11 degrees, compared with yesterday's minimum of 6.

TIMBER DEMAND TO TOP SUPPLY, STUDY INDICATES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 13 — A forecast by the United States Department of Agriculture on demands for timber in the future indicate more than ever the need for good forestry practices, State Forester George O. White says.

The forecast indicates that the demand for timber for use in the wood and paper industries may increase by 25 to 40 per cent by 1975. It was noted that the estimate may prove conservative if the population increases at a greater rate than has been anticipated.

At any rate, it's expected that demand will more than match the supply, particularly in soft-wood species and high-quality timber.

"If this forecast proves true, there will be a steadily-rising market for timber in future years and it should indicate to timberland owners the need for sound forestry practices even on a strict dollar basis," White said.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE FUND BENEFITS 103 STUDENTS

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (UP)—Williams College has an unusual scholarship fund which has distributed $380,000 among 103 students in 15 years.

Recipients of the Tyng Foundation awards have received four years study at Williams, and the majority has been given additional grants for one to three years at graduate schools.

The awards are made by the Stephen H. Tyng and Stephen H. Tyng Jr. Foundation. This was established in 1942 under a bequest by the late Juliet Augusta Tyng in memory of her husband (Williams '86) and her son, Stephen Jr., who was killed in World War I.

MANY GAINS CLIPPED BY PROFIT-TAKING

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (UP)—A slow stock market recovery snagged late in the session today by a return of selling which lopped off gains and left the market irregular.

Railroad issues, helped by a selective freight rate increase, fared a bit better than other sections. Some tobaccos, drugs and several issues did better than the average. A few oils also maintained a firm tone although a few such as Gulf Oil fell to net losses. Chemicals had a swift turnabout from a rise in the first part of the session steels slipped off as did motors.

Standard & Poor's index of 500 stock was 40.94 up .01 of a point at the end of the session the 425 industrials 43.66 unchanged; the 25 rails 22.78 up .10 and the 50 utilities 33.96 up .08.

Metals turned irregular. Even some of the recently strong drugs lost a bit on the day after several set new highs. American Telephone lost a point of a 1¼ point rise. Kansas City Southern was a mainstay of the rails while DuPont, off nearly 3 from its high, was the soft spot in the industrials.

The early advance reflected the usual technical hesitation in a dip and came after six sessions of decline had brought wide recessions in the industrial and railroad sections.

Tax cut talk helped the recovery for a time and it also was assisted by the Eisenhower economic message, the big postoffice program, favorable reports on department store sales, a rise in electricity output, and predictions of a four per cent rise in 1958 in overall construction.

On the adverse side, low volume appeared the main deterrent to a continuing upturn. The weekly carloadings report showed a 20 per cent drop from a year ago in the twenty-sixth consecutive year-to-year setback, a drop of 28.5 per cent from a year ago in auto output, and a cut in a gasoline prices by Esso.

The oil shares reversed yesterday's trend and for a time the group showed substantial gains which were whittled down later. Chemicals turned down after a rise.

The consistent strong spots again featured the Tobaccos and Drugs.

CHRYSLER NETS $13.75 A SHARE AGAINST $2.29

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Chrysler Corp., which hit the comeback trail last year, reported its earnings surged to $119,952,406 in 1957 from $19,953,000 in 1956.

Sales climbed to $3,564,982,510 in 1957, a record, from $2,676,334,000 in 1956.

Earnings were etqual to $13.75 per common share compared with $2.29 in 1956.

Directors declared the usual 75 cents dividend on the common stock. Last year Chrysler paid 75 cents each quarter plus an extra of $1 in the fourth quarter.

COTTON UP 80C, OFF 30C

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP) — Cotton futures were quiet and irregular today.

The market was steady at the start as trade and commission house buying met only light offerings. There was no follow up to the demand and the market later developed easing tendencies.

WALL STREET, MAIN STREET PONDERING

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP).

WALL STREET AND MAIN STREET have two things to ponder today: Reassuring words from Washington that the slump is being watched and won't be allowed to get out of hand if the Government can help it. A flood of disturbing earnings reports from many industries and in its wake a number of cuts in dividend payments and many omissions.

Profits are the life blood of American business. Without them business firms not only can't grow, in time they must fold. And a distressing number of small businesses have been doing just that.

Sam Dawson

Fortunately, with the great majority profits have not turned to losses. It is a matter of shrinking profits—a trend that business men and stock market traders can't watch without qualms.

ADDING TO THE CONFUSION is the unusually mixed character of the current earnings statements. Amidst the flood of bad reports, record earnings for 1957 pop up almost daily. And often they are reported by individual companies in industries which as a whole are reporting declines. Steel is an example. The two biggest companies made record profits last year. So high was their take that they outweighed the rest of the industry where more than half reported declines and most of the others only slight advances.

IN SOME OTHER INDUSTRIES the down trend in profits is more nearly uniform. Textile firms go on with their own recession — one that started ahead of the general one. Mining and metal working companies are almost unanimous in reporting declining earnings. In some cases the drop has been very sharp. As a whole the machinery makers and the machine tool industry are off from 1956, reflecting the slowdown in the business expansion program. This also shows up in the earnings of building material suppliers, off about 15 per cent from the previous year. For most makers of farm equipment the trend is downward. All meat packers reporting so far have shown drops, in some cases steep ones. More than half of the chemical companies reporting have felt the profit margin squeeze. All but two companies in the paper and paper products industry have welcome news for their stockholders this time. Most oil companies report declines, reflecting a drop in expected demand, and consequent oversupply and price weakness. The railroads' sad earnings song has been heard extensively in and out of Washington. All airlines reporting to date show sharply shrinking profits. And so do some aircraft makers.

BUT A NUMBER OF INDUSTRIES buoy up Wall Street's spirits. Retail companies reporting so far are in the main on the upgrade. For the group as a whole a 12 per cent gain is noted. The old standbys, the utilities, are a comfort as usual. Only 13 out of the first 90 to report show any drop from a year ago. While many are beginning to feel a shrinking in power sales to industrial centers, these regulated companies are as a whole showing a 6 per cent gain in profits over their 1956 returns. And two industries are thought by some observers to be even profiting a little by the worries of other business men. Tobacco companies show nice profit gains over the previous year. Makers of drugs without exception so far report gains. For the group as a whole they're up 14 per cent. As some wag says, in worrisome times people smoke more and turn to tranquilizers.

NEHRU ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF FINANCE CHIEF

NEW DELHI, Feb. 13 (AP) —Prime Minister Nehru today accepted the resignation of Finance Minister T. T. Krishnamachari after an inquiry held him "ultimately" responsible for a "highly improper" government stock purchase.

Krishnamachari's resignation climaxed India's biggest political scandal since it won independence in 1947. It may touch off a major reshuffle in Nehru's cabinet. Meanwhile, Nehru himself took over the finance ministry.

Acceptance of the resignation was announced after Parliament received a report criticizing the investment of $3,276,000 of the nationalized life insurance corporation's funds in the industrial empire of Haridas Mundhra, wealthy Calcutta business man.

'Dubious Methods' Used.

The investments were made though the Finance Ministry knew Mundhra was a "flamboyant personality and financial adventurer," who used "dubious methods," the report by Bombay Chief Justice H. C. Chagla said. Chagla made a one-man inquiry into the transaction.

The reports said the insurance funds were invested in some of Mundhra's enterprises to help him out of financial difficulties. Feroze Gandhi, Nehru's son-in-law, has charged, in Parliament that the stocks were bought at artificially high prices and that soon after the investments were made, the stocks dropped more than 25 per cent.

Mundhra's associates claimed reverses for him might have affected the Calcutta cotton market, where he is a leading trader.

Krishnamachari is widely known in the United States and Europe, where he has been instrumental in getting needed financial assistance for this hard-pressed country.

He said he took no direct part in the investments, which were largely carried out by his deputies, but he acknowledged that he was ultimately responsible for his deputies. He said in a letter to Nehru the inquiry undoubtedly damaged his value as a minister—and that in these times India's finances must be in the hands of a man whose moral and political prestige are high both at home and abroad.

Nehru accepted the resignation with an expression of deep regret. He praised Krishnamachari for outstanding service and said he was convinced he did not know much of what was going on in the matter of the insurance investments.

Krishnamachari, 59 years old, had been Finance Minister for two years and in Nehru's Cabinet six years. He is hated by the Communists, and his high taxes and rigid economic controls were disliked by many business men. But even his enemies admitted he would be hard to replace.

Chagla's report named Krishnamachari's chief deputy, H. M. Patel, as primarily concerned with the transaction. But the report also indicated belief that the minister knew about the deal and said he was equivocal in answering questions on the matter in Parliament.

HOLADAY HERE, CITES ROCKET FUEL NEEDS

The United States guided missile program has great need for development of heat-resistant materials that will permit fuels of greater power to be contained in rockets, William M. Holaday, director of guided missiles for the Defense Department, said here last night.

Holaday told the American Society for Testing Materials at Hotel Statler Hilton that certain known fuels cannot be used now to obtain greater thrust and efficiency because of tremendous temperatures and other factors that make their containment a problem.

Earlier, in an interview, Holaday said Russian scientists have not developed anything new in the way of rocket propellants. He was unable to say whether the Russians have an operational intercontinental ballistic missile.

Unprecedented Conditions.

Holaday, former director of research for Socony Mobil Oil Co., said that certain fuels of great potential value for rockets generate such intense heat that nozzles introducing them to the combustion chamber will melt, if made of conventional materials.

He emphasized that the problems of sending missiles to high altitudes at great speeds, and of re-entering the denser atmosphere near the earth, have created a need for a host of new materials capable of standing up under unprecedented conditions.

"Materials required by guided missiles have never before been subjected to such terrific environmental conditions," Holaday told an audience of 300 persons. "The shock of launching, accelerations, vibrations and heat problems are on an order of magnitude greater than any previously encountered. And yet the reliability of our missiles must be high, because without it we have nothing."

Holaday, who was named to the Defense Department missiles post last May, said the $5,800,000,000 projected expenditure for guided missiles in fiscal 1959 was 100 times greater than the sum spent 10 years ago.

Operational Missiles.

While the United States still does not have operational intercontinental and intermediate range ballistic missiles, he said, the program has placed missiles systems of "all types" in the hands of the armed services and these are operational.

"We should be justly proud of these achievements," Holaday said, "and I do not feel that the over-all status of the Russian missile development is a bit better than our own at the present time."

Holaday said he had found the reaction of many American people to Russia's Sputnik success "difficult to understand." He said he thought the recent launching of America's Explorer satellite would do much to restore faith in the nation's missile and space development efforts.

Toastmaster at last night's dinner was A. Carl Weber, director of research engineering for Laclede Steel Co. and chairman of arrangements for the meeting here.

INVENTION ONCE SCORNED SAVES U.S. $70,000,000

By RICHARD DUDMAN
Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — The story of "the mad Greek" and how American scientists once tossed aside his invention, which now is saving the United States $70,000,000, was told in a congressional hearing today.

The incident, which made it necessary for American scientists to make the invention all over agan—and left them redfaced when they found they had duplicated someone else's work — was recalled by Dr. George Green a physicist at Brookhaven National Laboratory.

Dr. Nicholas Christofilos, born in Boston and taken to Greece as a small child, had obtained an engineering degree there and was working as an engineer for an elevator firm, Dr. Green related.

Spare Time Work.

In his spare time, he worked alone on a problem that was beginning to trouble top scientific teams in the United States —how to step up the energy rating of nuclear particle accelerator machines without requiring magnets so large that they would need prohibitive amounts of iron to bulid them and electric current to drive them.

He had an idea in 1950 for a new design of a magnet—employing alternating tappered jaws instead of parallel jaws—and wrote a letter about it to the radiation laboratory of the University of California, at Berkeley.

But the scientists at Berkely, finding the letter full of scientific mistakes, concluded that their Athens correspondent was a crank, one of the many who kept writing to them with wild ideas for inventions.

Someone answered his letter, nonetheless, and analyzed the errors in detail.

When a second letter came in 1951, Dr. Green said, the Berkeley physicists dismissed it as some more nonsense from "that crazy Greek" and filed it without reading it.

Same Solution Found.

In the summer of 1952, a team at Brookhaven, working on the same problem, came up with the same solution—a new design for magnets to squaaze a stream of speeding protons so that smaller magnetic fields from smaller magnets could impart the push that otherwise would require much larger magnets. Their work was published in the Physical Review.

"Soon afterward," recalled Dr. Green, "Nick came to Brookhaven, asking about the article in the Physical Review. He said, 'I invented this a year ago.' He told about the letter to Berkeley."

"He could barely speak English. I thought he was a phony," Dr. Green said.

An assistant telephoned Berkeley to make sure, and someone found the letter. The upshot was that Dr. Green hired Dr. Chrjstofilos at Brookhaven, where he worked for two years.

"We called him 'the mad Greek.'" Dr. Green said. "He threw himself into every thing with tremendous enthusiasm. He had never driven a car before, but he bought a second-hand Buick, took a few driving lessons, got a driver's license and drove to Boston and back, at 70 miles an hour along the Merritt parkway, to visit the Greek colony there—all within four or five days."

Dr. Green, in charge of design and construcion of the new 30-billion electron volt synchrotron being built at Brookhaven, told reporters the project would have been practically impossible except for the invention.

$29,000,000 Machine.

The novel design of magnets makes it possible to build the machine for $29,000,000, using 4000 tons of steel for the magnets and 10,000 kilowatts of power to run them.

He estimated that, without the invention, the machine would have required more than 300,000 tons of steel and "probably would have cost $100,000,000—if we could have moved it alongside Boulder dam to get the power supply of about 1,000,000 kilowatts that we would have needed."

He speculated that disregarding Christofilos's letter probably caused a delay of no more than a few months, however, because the American teams were not yet ready to build a larger machine in 1951.

Dr. Christofilos eventually became interested in thermonuclear power — harnessing the force of the hydrogen bomb—and was dissatisfied with the pace of that work at Brookhaven, Dr. Green said. He reported that the scientist now is working in that field at the Atomic Energy Commission's Livermore (Calif.) laboratory.

The AEC made a cash settlement with Dr. Christofflos for patent rights to the invention.

FNMA RATE CHANGES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —The Federal National Mortgage Association inched up its offering price for residential mortgages.

The Federal Agency, which provides a secondary market for residential mortgages, said the action resulted from a continued easing of interest rates.

The effect is to increase by 1½ per cent the amount FNMA pays for 4½ per cent mortgages and by ½ of 1 per cent its offering prices for 5 and 5½ per cent mortgages.

LONDON INDEX OFF

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP) — The Financial Times daily index of London stocks today was 158.1—new 1957-58 low, off 0.7.

U.S. GOVERNMENT BONDS STRONG IN QUIET TRADE

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)— United States Government bonds showed strength, particularly in long range issues, late today in quiet trading.

Corporates advanced, with industrials and utilities leading the way on modest demand. Investment quality issues and rails were higher on average.

Over the counter dealers quoted intermediate Government bonds up 2-32 while long range issues advanced 6-32 to 10-32.

Belgium 5½s were up ⅞ at 104 in a dull foreign section.

In new financing, Union Electric Co., St. Louis, seeks SEC registration for $35,000,000 of first mortgage bonds to be offered for public sale at competitive bidding.

Utah Power & Light Co. has asked the Securities & Exchange Commission for authority to make bank borrowings up to $15,000,000 in the 20 months, beginning March 5.

ACF-WRIGLEY STORES, INC., 3, 6 MONTHS INCOME GAINS

ACF-Wrigley Stores, Inc., sales and earnings for both quarter and six months ended Dec. 28, 1957, were greater than for corresponding period a year earlier.

Sales for the six months, first half of the 1958 fiscal year, were $166,684,585, compared with $158,027,683 for corresponding period of previous year. Profit before taxes were $5,326,758, against $5,038,992. Net income, after taxes, was $2,688,044, equal to 73c a share on the 3,706,494 shares of common stock then outstanding, compared with $2,481,231, or 67c a share for the like period of the previous year on the same basis.

Sales for the three months ended Dec. 28, 1957, second quarter of the 1958 fiscal year, were $86,025,205, compared with $82,523,769. Profit before taxes were $2,737,997, against $2,616,163. Net income, after taxes, was $1,367,283, or 37c a share on the common stock then outstanding, compared with $1,281,716, or 35c a share on like number of shares.

Lift Breakfast Out of Doldrums

If Menu Monotony Detracts From the First Meal of Day, Try These Suggestions.

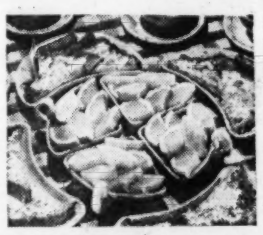
By DOROTHY BRAINERD
Post-Dispatch Food Editor.

DO YOU CARRY ON a running battle with your family in an effort to persuade them to eat breakfast? And is it a losing battle that you are fighting? Well, lady, maybe you need to change your technique, since lecturing them is getting you nowhere. If you can fight 'em—don't join 'em, but tempt 'em.

Chances are that they are just plain bored with the monotony of breakfast menus. Oh, they may plead a dozen other excuses, but boredom probably is the real reason. Try a change of pace (without fanfare or pleading) and see what happens.

It's really not difficult. This page is filled with ideas for out-of-the-ordinary breakfast fare. But simply changing the manner in which a familiar food is served may work wonders.

Do you serve orange juice morning after morning? For variety, why not serve orange bites? Just allow one golden



California orange for each serving, cut into chunks for easy eating. Each piece is a bite which may be eaten as finger food, dipped in powdered sugar if desired. (Mighty nice served right before steaming French toast and little link sausages.)

Or why not try one of those new blends of frozen concentrated fruit juices mentioned last week—remember, orange with pineapple or grapefruit with pineapple?

Another thought is to make use of those bargain-priced apples now in local markets and substitute a baked apple for the morning juice.

(Put it on to bake while you do the dinner dishes and refrigerate over night, if you prefer.)

Other eye-openers: a dish of stewed rhubarb (Michigan rhubarb is moderately priced now); bananas and cream, or fresh pineapple cubes.

We hope that these suggestions have started your imagination to working so that you can take it from here and devise similar ways in which to vary the other customary breakfast foods.

Now let's analyze the results of this week's survey of local food supplies. It is still a little early to say with certainty just how severely the Florida citrus has been damaged by the recent freeze down there.

Present indications are that the grapefruit has not been hurt as badly as the oranges. The damage to the oranges goes back to the freeze in early December, and there seems to be little doubt that they are severely hurt. This shortage may affect the prices on California and Arizona fruit because of heavier demands, so chances are that fresh oranges may be high, as will tangerines and Temple oranges.

Lemons are still a good buy, and although limes are slightly more expensive they aren't out of reason.

Florida avocados may have been hurt but this shouldn't be too big a problem since they were near the end of their season anyway, with California taking over on that mellow fruit.

Although reports are not definite at the time this is being written as to damage on Florida fruits, there is little question that the tender vegetables have been severely affected.

There is just no point in being unrealistic about this; you might as well be prepared to pay more money this week for many fresh vegetables. And this might be a wise time to weigh carefully the relative prices of canned and frozen vegetables versus fresh. (Don't forget that push on canned peas that we have been telling you about since the first of the month.)

Forget about squash unless you are willing to pay premium prices; it will be ridiculously high. Peppers are commanding such fancy figures that it is absurd; string beans are virtually non-existent. This also is true of eggplant, and the little that is coming through is of inferior quality. The same applies to corn.

Other vegetables which are luxury-priced this week include cucumbers, oysterplant, peas, celery, and California asparagus.

So what vegetables fall within the moderate price category? Well, let's see. Beets, broccoli,

UPSIDE DOWN BREAKFAST combines the fruit, meat and bread of the meal in one dish. Pork sausage links and apricot halves form a colorful pattern atop squares of hot cornbread. Nothing monotonous about this dish which adapts the upside-down technique usually reserved for cakes.

IF BREAKFAST AT YOUR HOUSE consists of coffee and a sweet roll, try this suggestion to lift it out of the doldrums. Upside Down Breakfast combines meat, fruit and cornbread in one tempting treat.

In the bottom of a cake pan, arange pan-fried pork sausage links and apricot halves, making an interesting pattern. Pour the corn bread batter made of enriched corn meal over the meat and fruit and bake exactly like an upside down cake. These three favorites, corn bread, pork sausage and apricots, are a natural for good flavor combination.

To serve this unusual Upside Down Breakfast, turn the corn bread cake out on a platter. The pattern of the sausage links and apricot halves makes this meal truly "picture pretty." Let your family cut generous squares of Upside Down Breakfast and eat it swimming in golden sirup.

Complete the meal with a combination of orange and pineapple juice plus your favorite beverage. This is a one-dish breakfast on which your family will ask for repeat performances.

Upside Down Breakfast.
Topping:
One package precooked pork sausage links.
12 cooked apricot halves.
Corn Bread:
One cup enriched corn meal.
One cup sifted enriched flour.
One-fourth cup sugar (optional).
One-half teaspoon salt.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One egg.
One cup milk.
One-fourth cup shortening, soft.

Heat oven to hot (425 degrees). Sift together corn meal, flour, sugar, salt and baking powder. Add egg, milk and shortening.

Bake in preheated oven (425 degrees) about 20 minutes. Invert on platter; serve warm with sirup.

Yield: Six servings.

French Toast May Be Varied in Many Ways

COME FEBURARY OR MARCH, many a New Year's resolution to serve the family a good breakfast, daily, begins to waver. Like as not, the difficulty is due to a lack of menu variety. Perhaps the family insists that breakfast isn't breakfast without toast and eggs, and, how does one vary this order?

The French have had the answer for ages—it's French toast—a thrifty, tasty dish, now with myriad versions. Some culinary legends attribute its creation to the skill of German or Spanish cooks, while others have called it Nun's Toast.

Whatever the name, it is basically a dish made by dipping bread into an egg and milk mixture, then frying the slices until they are golden brown. From enriched bread to whole wheat or English muffins, the entire gamut of breads are ideal for this breakfast dish.

For a change, try some of these variations:

Fluffy French Toast.
One and one-third cups milk.
Two eggs, beaten.
One-half cup enriched flour.
One-half teapsoon salt.
One-half teaspoon double-acting baking powder.
One-half cup shortening.
Six slices enriched bread.

Place one cup milk into a shallow dish. Combine beaten eggs, flour, salt and baking powder in another shallow dish; add one-third cup milk and blend.

Melt shortening in a skillet. Dip bread, one slice at a time, into milk, and then into egg mixture. Turn to coat both sides of bread.

Place bread in skillet, cover, and cook over low heat until golden brown on one side. Turn, cover, and cook until bread is golden brown on second side. Serve immediately with sirup.

Cheese French Toast.
Two eggs, beaten slightly.
Two-thirds cup milk.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Eight slices enriched bread.
One-fourth cup shortening.
One cup grated sharp cheese.

Combine beaten eggs, milk and salt in a shallow bowl. Melt shortening in a skillet. Dip bread slices into egg mixture, turning them to coat both sides.

Brown bread on one side. Turn bread and spinkle cheese on top. Remove when cheese is melted and underside is browned. Serve immediately.

Caramel-Pecan Skillet French Toast.
Three tablespoons butter or margarine.
One-third cup brown sugar.
Three tablespoons chopped pecans.
One egg, beaten.
One-third cup milk.
Four slices enriched bread.

Preheat electric skillet to 300 degrees. Melt butter in skillet. Add sugar and pecans and blend.

Combine beaten egg and milk in a shallow bowl. Dip bread into egg-milk mixture, turning to coat both sides of bread. Place bread over sugar mixture in skillet and cover. Increase temperature to 350 degrees and bake mixture for 10 minutes.

Remove cover and continue baking for an additional three minutes. Invert pan to remove bread so that caramel-pecan side is up. Serve immediately.

Cinnamon-Nut Waffled French Toast.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
Three tablespoons sugar.
One-half cup chopped pecans.
Two slightly beaten eggs.
Two-thirds cup milk.
Eight slices enriched bread.

Combine cinnamon, sugar and pecans. Combine eggs and milk. Dip each bread slice in egg mixture, turning them to coat both sides.

Place dipped bread in a preheated waffle baker. Sprinkle mixture over each slice of bread. Close waffle baker and brown. Serve hot with honey, marmalade or maple sirup.

French-Toasted English Muffins.
Two eggs, beaten.
Two-thirds cup milk.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One tablespoon sugar.
Six large English muffins.
One-fourth shortening.

Combine beaten eggs, milk, salt and sugar in a shallow dish. Split or slice muffins.

Dip muffin halves into egg mixture, turning them to coat both sides. Brown muffins, first on cut side and then on other side, in a small amount of hot shortening in a skillet.

Serve with honey, preserves or sirup.

BREAKFAST CAKE FROM ROLL MIX

THIS TIME THE ENGLISH have a word for it—Sally Lunn—a delicious and beautiful coffeecake that turns even an everyday breakfast into a festive occasion.

Yes, there really was a Sally Lunn. Cooking legend has it that over a hundred years ago she baked her cakes in the town of Bath, and peddled them on the streets and highways from a neatly covered wicker basket. Her singsong way of calling out her wares attracted so much attention that eventually she was "discovered" by a musician-baker. He liked the cake so well that he bought her recipe—and also wrote a song about Sally. Soon, through all England, Sally Lunn and her cakes were famous, and the baker was rich.

Perhaps he deserved his riches, when you consider that the original Sally Lunn recipe measured ingredients by tumblersful, pinches and double pinches; specified new milk, "fresh from the cow," and homemade yeast.

For you it's much easier. With hot roll mix, you can make a replica of this famous and beautiful coffeecake that has all of the characteristics of the original—the ring shape, fine texture and delicious flavor. You don't have to worry about those double pinches or the homemade yeast. All you do is mix, let rise, spread the dough into a ring mold or tube pan, sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar—let rise again and bake. No punching, kneading, rolling out, or frosting—and the result is the prettiest and

Cheese Corn Bread Breakfast Treat

What's new for breakfast? Some morning soon, try "Cheese Corn Bread"—a delicious new hot bread flavored with American cheese, pimiento and instant minced onion.

Cheese Corn Bread.
One cup corn meal.
One cup sifted all-purpose flour.
One tablespoon sugar.
Three teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon salt.
One cup grated American cheese.
One egg.
One cup milk.
One-fourth cup melted shortening.
One chopped pimiento.
One tablespoon instant minced onion.

or

One-fourth cup finely chopped raw onion.

Measure corn meal into mixing bowl. Sift flour with sugar, baking powder and salt into same bowl.

Beat egg lightly, and combine with milk, shortening, pimiento and onion. Stir into dry mixture, blending well. Turn into greased nine-inch square pan. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) about 20 to 25 minutes.

Sprinkle remaining cheese over top of corn bread, and heat a minute longer, to melt cheese. Serve hot with butter, or top with creamed chipped beef.

HINTS ON MAKING EXCELLENT COFFEE

DOES YOUR HUSBAND GRUMBLE about the coffee that you make? Then check the following hints, and perhaps you can find a clue that will help improve it.

Surely it is true that if you serve feeble coffee the most carefully prepared dinner will be a failure, no matter how good the roast may have been.

Start with a thoroughly clean coffee-maker. Rinse coffee-maker with hot water before using. Wash thoroughly after each use. Rinse with hot water and dry.

Fresh coffee is best. Buy coffee in the size of can or package which will be used within a week after opening. Be sure to select the best grind for your coffee-maker: Drip Grind for the drip method, Regular Grind for the percolator and Fine Grind or Drip Grind for vacuum method.

For best results, use the full capacity of your coffee-maker. For lesser quantities, use a smaller coffee-maker. Never, in any case, brew less than three-quarters of the coffee-maker's capacity.

Consistent timing is important. After you find the exact timing to obtain the results desired with your coffee-maker, stick to it in order to get uniform results.

For a percolator, brew gently no more than eight minutes; vacuum, stir, then hold in upper bowl no more than three minutes; drip,—boiling water should go through coffee in brussels sprouts, cauliflower and green onions.

Sweet potatoes haven't advanced, but they were high enough to start with. But there are good supplies of other potatoes, with a wide selection of varieties, and although prices may be just slightly higher the good old spud still will be one of the best buys.

One other vegetable to check on your market list — mushrooms. They offer a good value for the nutritious qualities which they offer.

We blush as we write this, since we got on our soap box in the first paragraphs of this column to rail against monotony and here we are writing those too-familiar words, "No marked changes in the meat situation; fryers are an outstanding value, pork and beef remain about steady."

We can only plead that we are the victim of circumstances beyond our control, and rest our case.

New in Local Markets: That most important member of your household, His Majesty the Baby, has come in for a great deal of attention recently. Now his beverage bar can be stocked with a wide selection of flavors to please his taste. One baby food manufacturer recently has introduced a new line of five strained fruit juices. The tiny tyke can now enjoy, in addition to strained orange juice, apple, apple-grape, apple-prune, apple with pineapple and apple with apricots. All are enriched with vitamin C to help him build strong teeth and sturdy bones.

And since small tots go for the flavor of chicken in a big way, another food processor has added three new chicken varieties to its line of strained meats for babies. Chicken a la king, chicken with sweet potatoes, and chicken with rice will add variety to baby's meals.

Pampered, isn't he? And that's just exactly the way it should be.

Good Coffee

four to six minutes, then stir thoroughly.

Coffee should never be boiled. When coffee is boiled, an undesirable flavor change takes place.

Serve coffee as soon as possible after brewing. Freshly brewed coffee tastes best. If necessary to keep coffee hot, hold at serving temperature over a very low heat.

SAUSAGE CLASSIFICATION

Among some of the cooked sausage specialties which are available at your local market are minced ham, deviled ham, veal loaf, liver loaf, Braunschweiger, liver sausage and meat loaf.

Flavorful Figs.

Steam dried figs a few minutes and chop fine to stir into cooky dough. Soft, cake-like cookies taste better than ever with chewy morsels of flavorful figs.

Raisin Sesame Muffins

Rich and tender, these muffins make a delicious tea-time treat. Sesame seeds, sugar and ginger springled on before baking make pretty tops for the muffins, which contain sweet raisins and just a bit of ginger.

Muffins are the easiest quick bread of all. There's no kneading, shaping or rising, and the best muffins are the ones given the least mixing.

Here's a very special recipe for "Raisin Sesame Muffins." Sweet raisins, chopped lightly to insure good flavor in every bite, and a bit of ginger make them exceptionally good. Sesame seeds, sugar and ginger sprinkled on before baking make pretty tops. They're tender and cake-like—delicious as a teatime snack. Good, too for a breakfast sweet bread, or with a fruit salad for luncheon.

Raisin Sesame Muffins.

Three-fourths cup light or dark raisins.
Two cups sifted all-purpose flour.
One-third cup sugar.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon powdered ginger.
One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon.
One egg.
One cup milk.
One-third cup melted shortening.

Topping:

One tablespoon sesame seeds.
One tablespoon sugar.
Generous dash ginger.

Rinse and drain raisins; chop coarsely. Sift flour with sugar, baking powder, salt and spices. Add raisins.

Beat egg lightly, add milk and shortening and add to dry ingredients. Stir only until all of flour is moistened.

Spoon into greased muffin pans, and sprinkle with Topping. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) about 20 minutes, until browned. Let stand about five minutes, then remove from pans, and serve at once.

Topping: Combine all ingredients.

Yield: One dozen large muffins.

BANANA MUFFINS

It's easy to make banana muffins, with a real banana flavor, using the packaged commercial mixes for plain muffins.

When the mixing directions on the usual 14-ounce package specify the addition of one and one-fourth cups water, simply add two cups mashed ripe bananas instead of the water.

Lemony Pound Cake.

Bring sunshine yellow to winter tables with a bright new dessert treat. Toast medium-thick slices of packaged all-butter pound cake and spread with lemon sauce.

Garnish or Mold.

An aspic is made by jelling a liquid (usually broth or vegetable juice) with unflavored gelatine. It may be served as a garnish for meat or fish, or it can be made as a mold with meat or fish included.

Sally Lunn

Sally Lunn

One package Hot Roll Mix.
One-fourth cup warm (not hot) water.
Three-fourths cup lukewarm scalded milk.
One egg, slightly beaten.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One-half cup sugar.
One teaspoon cinnamon.

Sprinkle yeast over warm water in mixing bowl; stir to dissolve. Add lukewarm milk, egg, and two tablespoons sugar. Blend. Stir in Hot Roll Mix. Beat well.

Let rise in warm place (85 to 90 degrees) until light and double in size, 30 to 45 minutes.

Spread half of dough in well-greased nine-inch ring mold or 10-inch tube pan. Sprinkle with half of sugar-cinnamon mixture. Cover with remaining dough and sugar - cinnamon mixture.

Let rise in warm place until light and double in size, 30 to 60 minutes.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes.

USE LOW TEMPERATURE

Beef, cured pork, veal, and lamb are roasted in a slow oven (300 degrees) while fresh pork cuts are roasted in a moderate oven (350 degrees).

Roasts cooked at a low temperatures show less shrinkage than roasts cooked at a high temperature. They are also more tender and juicy.

Breakfast Cookies

Bread, butter and maple-blended sirup combine to make something really "new-n-different" in a cookie. Decorations may be anything that suits the fancy.

Here's a new type of cookie that is fine for coffee breaks or youngsters parties. The ingredients are almost always on hand—just bread, butter or margarine, and maple-blended sirup. Cut the cookies into animal shapes to delight the children, or into any special shape that matches a special occasion.

Breakfast Cookies.

One-half cup maple-blended sirup.

One-quarter cup butter or margarine.

Six to eight slices bread.

Heat maple-blended sirup and butter in a large skillet over medium heat. Meanwhile, remoae crusts from bread and cut bread into squares, rectangles, or strips, or use cooky cutters.

Place in skillet. Cook about 2 minutes. Turn. Cook for 5 minutes, or until golden brown. Turn again and brown. Remove from skillet.

Place cookies on waxed paper to cool. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

Yield: About 24 cookies.

NOTE: If desired, sprinkle cookies with small decorettes or flaked coconut as soon as they are removed from skillet.

LIKE SWEET ROLLS? THEN TRY THESE

Call them "gooey rolls" or "sticky buns"—by any name they are popular. It's that nice, shiny glaze that does it. For these Almond Lemon Rolls, it's made with corn sirup, lemon juice, butter and sugar.

The dough is rolled like a jelly roll with a filling of butter, sugar and crunchy almonds, then it's sliced and fitted into muffin cups with the glaze in the bottom.

Almond Lemon Rolls.

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour.

One teaspoon salt.

Four teaspoons baking powder.

One-fourth cup shortening.

Three-fourths cup milk.

Three tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

One-half cup sugar.

One and one-half teaspoons grated lemon rind.

One-third cup roasted unblanched almonds.

One-fourth cup light corn sirup.

One tablespoon lemon juice.

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Cut in shortening. Add milk and mix well. Knead lightly on floured board. Roll into oblong about one-fourth-inch thick.

Spread surface with one tablespoon melted butter. Sprinkle with one-fourth cup sugar, one teaspoon rind and almonds. Roll as for jelly roll. Cut in three-fourth-inch slices.

Blend together corn sirup and lemon juice with remaining butter, sugar and rind, and divide among 12 muffin cups. Place rolls, cut side down, in sirup mixture. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) about 30 minutes.

Invert pan to remove rolls. Serve hot.

WINTER SALADS

Winter fruit salads take on design with unflavored gelatine. Follow the basic salad recipe given on an envelope of unflavored gelatine.

Then chill the gelatine mixture until it is slightly thickened before adding up to two cups of diced fruit . . . for example, grapefruit, orange, and avocado sections.

HERE'S A 'DIFFERENT' WAY TO SERVE AVOCADO

Avocado's a fruit which may be dressed up many ways. Here's a recipe that blends the tang of lime with the mellowness of avocado.

Avocado With Lime.

Ripe avocado.

Lettuce.

Four tablespoons bottled lime juice.

One tablespoon olive oil.

One teaspoon finely minced chives.

One tablespoon light rum or rum flavoring.

Salt.

Freshly ground pepper.

Cut a chilled ripe avocado in two and after removing the seed and the inner dark skin, nest the halves on a bed of lettuce.

Blend together the bottled lime juice, olive oil, chives, rum or flavoring and salt and pepper to taste. Chill dressing, pour into the avocado hollows and serve.

Double Treat.

Raisins are good for children and so is applesauce. So why not combine the two good things—a handful of raisins tossed into dishes of canned applesauce, with a pour of light cream added. When to serve? Any time from breakfast to bedtime.

SAUSAGE-APPLES HELP CHASE THOSE 'BREAKFAST BLUES'

The immediate "get-up and go" feeling and the lack of mid-morning lag substantiates the fact that a hearty, nutritious breakfast plays an important role.

In this case, country-style sausage links and fried apples give breakfast the medal of distinction, and rightfully so.

Add a serving of corn bread and what energetic father or youngster won't be ready to ask for seconds?

Sausage and Fried Apples.

Two pounds country-style sausage.

Two tablespoons water.

Six red apples.

One-third cup sugar.

Cut country-style sausage into four-inch pieces. Place in cold frying-pan. Add water, cover and simmer until water evaporates, about five minutes.

Remove cover, brown sausage on all sides. Remove to warm platter and pour off all but four tablespoons of the drippings.

TIP ON BEER

One of the arts of serving beer correctly is to rinse the glass with cold water before filling it with beer.

In addition to insuring a good, long-lasting head on the beer, it serves the practical purpose of removing any odors which may cling to the glass.

HEARTY BREAKFASTS

CANNED meats suggest variety for breakfast menus. There are many types of canned sausages and also corned beef hash for the hearty breakfaster.

Deviled ham might be added to scrambled eggs, or used as a spread on toast.

Topping for Spuds.

Perk up the taste of baked potatoes by mashing pimento cream cheese with a little evaporated milk. Roll into walnut-sized balls, and pop them into the jackets of the finished bakers.

FLOOD IN GERMANY FORCES CHANGE IN U.S. MANEUVERS

WITH UNITED STATES SEVENTH ARMY IN GERMANY, Feb. 13 (UP)—Flood waters today forced cancellation of a United States Army amphibious crossing of the Main river in maneuvers.

Lt. Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, commander of the 125,000-man maneuver, called off the crossing by M-59 personnel carriers at the last minute, after the river had risen a foot an hour for the past day.

Clarke emphasized that the M-59s were able to negotiate the crossing despite the floods, but he said it was called off for the sake of safety. Five bridge-building exercises designed to speed advancing "red" troops into defending "blue" territory were to go on as scheduled. The bridges, which can support heavy tanks, were to be built with the aid of helicopters.

HEAD OF LEGION URGES U.S. KEEP LINCOLN IDEALS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 13 (AP)—Americans were called upon yesterday to adhere to the principles of Abraham Lincoln in the global battle for human freedom.

Ceremonies in this city of Lincoln traditions on the Emancipator's 149th birthday anniversary focused at the tomb in Oak Ridge Cemetery, scene of pilgrimages by the American Legion and other groups.

Speaking at the tomb, National Legion Commander John S. Gleason Jr. of Chicago said in the 95 years since Gettysburg the United States has graduated from the plight of a divided nation to that of a united nation in a divided world.

"The durability of our form of government remains the unsettled central issue," Gleason said. "It is, as it was in Lincoln's day, the issue of human freedom."

Towering Figure of Liberty.

The Legion Commander said that Lincoln "remains today as the most towering figure of liberty on earth because he touched with a sure hand what is deepest and most sacred in the human heart everywhere."

"Our struggle today is the same as Lincoln's, only on a vaster scale," Gleason said. "The present 'cold war' with Communism is being fought on the psychological, political, diplomatic and economic fronts.

"Growing communist military might threatens to turn it into a 'hot war.'"

Gov. William G. Stratton participated in the ceremonies which also included a Legion pilgrimage to New Salem State Park, the recreated village where Lincoln lived as a young man.

Lawyer's Trek.

Sangamon county lawyers made their annual trek to the tomb from the courthouse where Lincoln practiced law and served in the Illinois Legislature. They followed the path of the Lincoln funeral procession.

A daylong program of memorial services started early yesterday morning with a breakfast for American Legion and auxiliary members.

Others on Program.

Others taking part in the Legion program were Mrs. J. Pat Kelly, Atlanta, Ga., national president of the Legion auxiliary; William F. Armstrong, Little Rock Ark., of the Legion's 40 and 8 Group, and Mrs. Mayro Cox of Denver, Colo., of the women's 40 and 8.

Schools, city offices and many downtown businesses here closed for the day as the city observed the birthday of its most famous son.

Lincoln was born in Hardin county, Kentucky, but Illinois and Springfield have long since claimed him for their own, even adopting the "Land of Lincoln" as the state's slogan.

NEWSPAPER CONFERENCE FEB. 21-22 AT M'MURRAY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill.—MacMurray College will hold its fifth annual Newspaper Conference here Feb. 21 and 22, and more than 200 student journalists from Midwest high schools and colleges are expected to attend.

Two Illinois press organizations will meet in conjunction with the conference. They are the United Press Illinois newspaper editors and the state chapter of the National Press Photographers Association.

The "Miss Press Photographer" beauty contest, more than 30 workshops in all phases of journalism, and panel discussions will be highlights. Newspapermen from throughout the area will appear as speakers.

22 ILLINOIS AUTO DEATHS IN WEEK, 17 UNDER YEAR AGO

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—The state Traffic Safety Division has reported that there were 22 traffic deaths in Illinois last week, compared with 39 deaths in the corresponding week of 1957.

The deaths for the week of Feb. 4-10 included six persons who died of injuries suffered in earlier accidents.

The six deaths included three in Cook county, and one each in Coles, Hancock and Shelby counties. The 16 other fatalities last week included 10 in Cook county, two in Saline county, and one each in Lake, Sangamon, Warren and Mad-

AGREEMENT REACHED, BUS STRIKE ENDS AT DECATUR

DECATUR, Ill. (UP)—Bus drivers and the Decatur City Lines, Inc., reached agreement Wednesday on a new two-year contract to end a two-week strike. The busses will start operating again Thursday.

The contract provides for an 8-cent-an-hour pay boost effective immediately and another 2-cent increase in the second year of the agreement.

The drivers had asked for a 40-cent-an-hour increase, and their union president, Elmer Walker, said the vote to end the strike and accept the new contract was a close 16-13.

Scottish Unemployment Up.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Feb. 13 (AP)—Unemployment in Scotland last month rose to 73,400, an increase of over 10,000 since December, the general council of the Scottish Trades Union Congress reported yesterday.

ILLINOISAN ASKS COST OF SOIL BANK WHOLE FARM PLAN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 13—The state president of the Illinois Farmers Union called yesterday for a statement of the cost of the Department of Agriculture's canceled program to put whole farms in the soil bank on a bid basis.

His request was in a wire sent to Representative Harold C. Cooley (Dem.), North Carolina, chairman of the House Agriculture Comittee. The wire said:

"Suggest your committee inquire from Ezra Taft Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, the total cost of his now-defunct soil bank program fiasco, which involved putting entire farms into the program on a five to 10 year basis.

"Illinois farmers feel they have been 'duped and dumped' and wish to know how much public money was used for this kind of treatment."

FARM ADVISORY COUNCIL TO MEET AT MISSOURI U.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo.—About 100 members of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture Advisory Council are expected to meet here Friday and Saturday. Francis Moritz, administrative assistant is in charge of the program.

John H. Longwell, dean of the College of Agriculture, and Don K. Spalding, St. Joseph, Advisory Council president, will address the group. A panel discussion that will consider proposals for the improvement of College of Agriculture programs, Andy Anderson, Springfield, is to be moderator and panelists include Cordell Tindall, Fayette; E. M. Poirot, Golden City, and Thomas Staley, Kansas City.

A. Basey Vanlandingham, Boone county Representative from Columbia, will review the current legislative situation in Missouri, and committee reports will be given.

RUSSIAN MARSHAL ADMITS STALIN PURGES HURT ARMY

MOSCOW, Feb. 13 (UP)—One of the Soviet Union's top soldiers admitted today that the purges of the Stalin era weakened the Red Army and inflicted "considerable damage" on its officer corps.

Marshal Ivan Bagramyan said in an article in the magazine Kommunist that the "criminal band" of former police chiefs was responsible for denuding the ranks of the Soviet armed forces of senior officers.

Bagramyan referred to the trial of Marshal Mikhail Tukhachevsky, executed in 1937 for "crimes against the state." As a result of this and the many other trials which took place at the same time, he said, many positions in the army and navy were held by inexperienced officers.

ADENAUER AND CHURCHILL TO MEET IN SOCIAL CALL

ROQUEBRUNE, CAPE MARTIN, France, Feb. 13 (UP)—Sir Winston Churchill and West German Chancellor Adenauer, the two "grand old men" of West Europe, were to meet here today.

Adenauer, 82 years old, and Churchill, 83, are vacationing on the French Riviera, but this will be their first meeting here. It was described as strictly a social call.

Adenauer told reporters he would call on the former British Prime Minister for tea this afternoon. He said it would be a private conversation and no "communique" would be issued. He said Churchill may pay him a return visit in a few days.

Operation Strongback.

MANILA, Feb. 13 (AP) — United States marines, the Seventh Fleet and Philippine soldiers and airmen will join next week in defending Luzon island against mock invaders. The exercise is called "operation strongback."

South Shivers as Cold Wave Covers It With Ice and Snow

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 13 (AP) Snow and sub-freezing temperatures chilled the deep south today.

In Florida, three inches of snow fell at Tallahassee, two inches at Panama City on the Gulf of Mexico, and an inch less than that at nearby Pensacola. Miami shivered in temperatures expected to fall almost to freezing.

The fall at Tallahassee was possibly the heaviest in the capitol's history.

At New Orleans, Mardi Gras throngs tossed snowballs, a rare sport that far south. The one-inch fall yesterday in New Orleans was the city's heaviest in 59 years. At Moisant airport, 12 miles from New Orleans, two inches fell. Western Louisiana reported a heavier blanket.

Along the Gulf coast in Mississippi, snow fell on white sand beaches at Biloxi and Gulfport.

Mobile, on Alabama's coast, had more than an inch of snow. Fort Morgan at the mouth of Mobile bay said Wednesday's deposit amounted to four inches.

Throughout the Gulf coast area, azaleas and camellias drooped and sagged. Palm fronds wilted.

Snow covered the ground at Thomasville, Ga., vacation spot for President and Mrs. Eisenhower. Snow fell for four hours at Thomasville last night. There was enough for snowballs, but no official measurement was available.

At usually balmy Savannah, Ga., one inch of snow fell—the heaviest in 68 years. Children made snow men and had snowball fights. Some one resurrected a sled and a bevy of girls rode it. A one-inch snow also fell at Augusta, Ga., a favorite vacation spot of President Eisenhower.

At Jacksonville, Fla., rain turned to sleet last night and the sleet changed to snow early today.

The tourist trade and crops suffered in many Dixie areas. Most schools closed at noon yesterday at Baton Rouge and throughout central Louisiana. Both public and parochial schools began classes as usual in New Orleans, but attendance suffered and some dismissed classes shortly after noon.

Students left classrooms and dormitories at Florida State University and engaged in snowball fights. Townspeople built snowmen on their front lawns.

Farther south in Florida, Robert Lodmell, editor of the Daily Highlander at Lake Wales, started a drive to send food and clothing to Seminole Indians hit hard by the inclement weather.

Lodwell said the Seminoles were as bad off as the migratory workers in the winter vegetable sections, but were too proud to ask for aid. Private sources throughout Florida are helping the migratory workers.

TWO ST. LOUISANS HELD IN ILLINOIS, HEROIN IN CAR

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Feb. 13—Benjamin Hemphill and Larry C. Ware of St. Louis were held here today for federal authorities after 2000 capsules of heroin were found in their automobile when they were stopped for a minor traffic violation yesterday.

State Patrolman Robert Clifford said he stopped the men south of here on U. S. Highway 66 for failing to yield the right of way. He found the drug capsules in the car. Narcotics agents said the capsules would bring about $20,000 in the illegal drug market.

Police here learned that Ware is at liberty on bond awaiting sentence in United States District Court in St. Louis for violating the narcotics laws by possession and sale of heroin.

MAN HIT, KILLED BY AUTO; DRIVER FOUND ON HUNCH

John Belavich, 3518 Indiana avenue, was killed today when he was struck on South Broadway by a speeding automobile that did not stop. A hunch by Police Capt. Otto Selle resulted in an arrest four hours later.

Leroy Reynolds, a 62-year-old molder arrested at his place of employment after his damaged machine was found on a parking lot, admitted his car had struck a man at Broadway and Mott street about 6:30 a.m., police said. Reynolds, booked suspected of manslaughter, did not say why he had failed to stop.

Selle, commander of the Carondelet district station who will retire tomorrow, told his police in the 7 a.m. roll call that "I would like to retire with the knowledge we had cleared up this case."

Search of Plant Areas.

He speculated the driver possibly had been en route to work in one of the plants in the area and urged the policemen to seek the car, described by a witness as being old and dark-painted, in industrial areas.

Police Cpl. Samuel Cheatham, operating a one-man cruiser, began canvassing streets, alleys and parking lots, and discovered an old sedan with a damaged hood and fender on the parking lot of the Semi-Steel Casting Co., 109 East Quincy street. A check on the license number led to Reynolds' arrest. Reynolds gave an address in the 3800 block of Maffitt avenue.

Belavich, 70, was on his way to work at St. Louis Steel Casting Co., 100 Mott, when he was struck by the southbound machine. Nick Reiser, 106 Horn avenue, provided police with the description of the car.

Edwardsville Man Killed.

Wilbur Schaefer, 55 years old, of Edwardsville, was killed and four other men were injured in a collision of a passenger automobile and a truck on Bypass U.S. Highway 66, five miles southwest of Edwardsville, late yesterday.

Injured are James Berner, 50, 1816 Highland street, Edwardsville, in St. Elizabeth Hospital, Granite City, with severe cuts and bruises; Frank H. Hufstedler, 65, 605 Home avenue, Edwardsville, cuts of the head and leg, and Walter L. Creek, 25, 1737 Delmar boulevard, Granite City, back injury and abrasions, both in Wood River Township Hospital, and Walter Bratten, 36, 621 North Kansas street, Edwardsville, treated for abrasions and released.

Police reported that an automoble driven by Berner collided with a truck operated by Creek at the foot of Sunset Hill. Berner was driving Schaefer, Bratten and Hufstedler home from the Granite City Engineers Depot, where all worked. Schaefer lived at 617 North Kansas street.

Oliver Gabler, 30 years old, died today in St. Francis Hospital, Washington, Mo., of injuries suffered last night when a tractor-trailer he was driving on U.S. Highway 66 struck the rear of a second tractor-trailer, one mile west of Pacific, in Franklin county. He lived at Stoneyhill, in Franklin county.

Police reported that Gabler's truck struck one being driven slowly, due to engine trouble, by Everett C. Kendrick, of Springdale, Ark. Kendrick was not injured. Gabler died about three hours after the crash.

John Deane, 69 years old, was pronounced dead at Homer G. Phillips Hospital yesterday after an automobile he was driving swerved across Natural Bridge avenue at Norwood avenue and collided with another automobile.

Deane, who operated a confectionery at 4545 Union boulevard, was driving west when his machine collided with an eastbound automobile driven by Jonathan Kludt, 8314 Delcrest drive, University City. Kludt's machine then was struck from the rear by a tractor-trailer driven by Robert Smith of Kenosha, Wis.

EAST GERMAN PREMIER IS REPORTED BANISHED

BERLIN, Feb. 13 (UP)—The West Berlin newspaper Nacht Depesche said today that East Germany's Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht had arrested his nominal chief, Premier Otto Grotewohl, last week and held him prisoner until he agreed to leave the country.

The newspaper said Ulbricht, the Moscow-trained "strong man" of the Soviet-zone regime, suspected Grotewohl of complicity in an attempt to overthrow him. Three alleged leaders of the plot were purged from high Communist party posts last week.

The newspaper gave no source for its story, and Western officials were inclined to discount it. The only support for the story that could be obtained immediately was a Communist announcement that Grotewohl had left East Germany Tuesday for a long vacation.

ARMED MAN ROBS OWNER OF LIQUOR STORE OF $750

Abe Grossman, operator of a liquor store at 731 North Sarah street, was robbed of $750 last night by an armed man, he reported to police. The robber threatened to kill Grossman unless he handed over the contents of the cash register.

Grossman told police the man ordered a bottle of whisky, then drew a revolver and held him up. After stuffing the money into his pockets, the robber grabbed the bottle of liquor and fled on foot.

Mrs. Lovie Jackson was robbed of $35 last night by a masked robber armed with a pistol who held her up in her confectionery, 2200 Carr street, she reported.

POTTER WON'T ADDRESS UNION, PRESSURE CHARGED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Invitation to Senator Charles E. Potter (Rep.), Michigan, to speak before the giant Ford local 600 of the United Automobile Workers was withdrawn as a result of what Potter's aids said today was "pressure from higher up."

The invitation, aids said, was issued by the board of directors of the federal credit union of Ford Rouge River plant employes. All of the credit union members are also members of local 600—the world's biggest UAW local with 65,000 members.

The aid said that just before the meeting scheduled for Jan. 26, Potter received a telephone call from Detroit telling him that some members of the union were displeased with the invitation and advising him not to appear. They said he agreed not to make the appearance because of the disagreement between the union and the credit union board.

ROYAL OAK, Mich., Feb. 13 (AP)—The picket line at Sherman Products, Inc., which included stockholders, was withdrawn yesterday. W. A. Romain, president of the manufacturing firm and onetime union man, announced the company and the teamsters union had agreed on a bargaining election. The union went on strike Feb. 5. Its picket line included two stockholder-union members.

CYPRUS GOVERNOR AND MAKARIOS CONFER IN ATHENS

ATHENS, Feb. 13 (AP)—Sir Hugh Foot, the British governor of Cyprus, and Archbishop Makarios, the exiled leader of the Greek majority on the island, held a surprise 30-minute conference today.

Their meeting here apparently did nothing to break the impasse between Britain and Greece over the troubled British crown colony.

The foreign ministers of the two nations also have been meeting here. They finished their conference today and reported no substantial progress.

The meeting of Foot and Makarios was the Archbishop's first with a top British official since he was exiled two years ago. Makarios said he told the governor the future of Cyprus is purely a matter between Britain and the Cypriots.

"The conservative government of Britain complicated the question in its attempt to make it appear as a difference between Greece and Turkey with Britain taking the position of arbitrator," the Archbishop declared. Greece and Turkey both have intervened on behalf of their respective national groupings on the island.

5-MINUTE MAIL DELIVERY

LONDON, Feb. 13 (UP) — Teh suburban Highbury post office claimed a speed record for mail delivery today.

Jean McInnes said she mailed a birthday card to her hairdresser boss while a customer was under a drier and it was delivered five minutes later. The Post Office explained that the mailbox was cleared by a postman on a bicycle. He took a minute to get the card to the Post Office. It took three minutes for canceling and one minute for delivery.

M.I.T. SETS UP DIVISION OF NUCLEAR ENGINEERING

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 13 (AP)—Massachusetts Institute of Technology yesterday announced the establishment of a department of nuclear engineering, headed by Prof. Manson Benedict.

M.I.T. said the department is the first in any New England college and one of the first in the United States. A $2,640,000 nuclear reactor to be completed this spring will serve as a laboratory. The teaching program will be dove-tailed with a research program.

Caution Advised in Laying Down Rules for Controlling Space

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) — A State Department witness has told Congressmen more should be learned about outer space before important rules on control of space can be laid down.

Loftus Becker, the department's legal adviser, raised a question as to whether a satellite still belongs to the country that launched it once the satellite shoots out of control into space.

"Usually ownership relates to capability to grab hold of it, and I don't know what they (the Russians) could do about Sputnik or what their remedy would be if we were to pick up this . . . piece they said fell on the West Coast," he testified.

The Russians originally claimed that a part of the rocket of Sputnik I, which itself went into orbit, later fell on United States territory. They asked for its return. United States officials said the rocket fell in the south Pacific.

Becker said, however, that the United States would be at a disadvantage in staking out territorial claims on the moon if others get there and this country doesn't.

Becker, whose position makes him the top policymaker on these questions under Secretary of State Dulles and President Eisenhower, spoke out against various space control proposals Tuesday during a closed session of a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on national security. A slightly censored version of his testimony was made available today.

Among others, Becker opposed any immediate action on proposals for a special conference on space regulation, establishment of a United Nations convention for the purpose, and giving the task to the International Civil Aviation Organization.

Chairman Omar Burleson (Dem.), Texas, said the House group intends to advise on foreign policy as it relates to space.

Wrestling With Problem.

United States officials have been wrestling with the space control problem for months without coming up with a solution. Mr. Eisenhower has proposed to Soviet Premier Bulganin that military use of space be barred. Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker called this week for space jurisdiction by a U.N. agency and said all nations should have equal territorial rights in space, with freedom for all aircraft above 300 miles.

Becker said that really to prevent conflict in space, a view of space in international rather than national terms may have to be developed.

He said rules must be drawn up to protect people underneath space vehicles, to channel radio frequencies for space vehicle use, to govern space navigation and eventually probably to cover marriages and other legal relationships when people move into space.

He cautioned against "too precipitate" action to set up detailed rules without more word from scientists on "what are the possibilities of controlling or doing anything in the area."

TEAMSTER OFFICIAL HERE NAMED HOFFA ORGANIZER

Richard Kavner, veteran Teamsters union organizer here, was named a personal general organizer for James R. Hoffa, international president of the union, by Hoffa yesterday. The announcement was made at Miami Beach, Fla., where the international union executive board is meeting.

Kavner has been an organizer for Local 688, the Teamsters warehouse local here headed by Harold J. Gibbons, now first international union vice president. He also was business representative for the taxicab drivers' local. Kavner lives at 466 Julian place, Kirkwood.

ROCKET WEAPON CRASHES ON DESTROYER, MAN KILLED

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 13 (AP) —A rocket-propelled anti-submarine weapon crashed on the destroyer Eaton in a launching failure last Thursday and killed a crewman, the Navy confirmed yesterday.

The 600 - pound weapon plunged through the boat deck into the ship's log room on the main deck. The weapon was loaded with plaster, not explosives. The accident occurred off Charleston, S.C.

Seaman Roy Martin Moore of Fort Wayne, Ind., was killed. Another enlisted man, Charles Curry, of Portsmouth, was injured slightly. They were in the log room.

5 PRESIDENTS TO GOVERN COLOMBIA UNTIL AUGUST

BOGOTA, Colombia, Feb. 13 (UP) — Colombia is the sole country in the world governed by five Presidents simultaneously.

Each of the five members of the military government junta was sworn into office yesterday. They were fully accredited as constitutional president in a national plebiscite Dec. 1, and will rule the country until Aug. 7 when a single president, nominated and elected by the two major political parties, will be installed.

The junta tok power last May 10 when dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla was ousted.

AUSTRALIAN SEEKS AIRMEN WHO HELPED HIM IN WAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13 (UP)—An Australian began a search today for five American airmen who dropped food to him and his half-starved fellow prisoners in a Japanese prisoner of war camp in World War II.

Eric Scanlan said the only clue in his search is an envelope which the Americans dropped with their names and addresses.

At the time of the food drop, near the end of the war, they were: Sgt. Francis McMahon, Pasadena, Calif.; Sgt. Jim Wheeleck, Tulsa, Okla.; Lt. Edmond P. Gumphreys, South Pittsburgh, Tenn.; Sgt. George Glass, Alvin, Ill., and First Lt. H. K. Salmons, Wilmington, Del.

BELIN WON'T TELL ABOUT HIS DEGREES

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13 — Clyde Belin, B.B.A., Th. B., Th. M., Th. D., Ph. D., president of bankrupt Belin Memorial University, Chillicothe, Mo., invoked the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination when he was asked to explain those initials yesterday.

Belin told a federal bankruptcy referee here that if he answered any questions about himself before the time he attended a school of theology at Clarksville, Tenn., it might incriminate him.

Creditors who brought about the hearing are seeking to collect about $200,000 in allegedly unpaid bills. The school attracted close to 200 students last fall with a glowing catalogue which described a liberal arts college, a Bible college, a college of engineering subsequently disclosed to have only one teacher, and a journalism school, where the faculty was one printer.

Some of the students found themselves on short rations when financial difficulties became apparent last November, particularly 17 foreign students who were left stranded.

Belin testified at the bankruptcy hearing that his financial troubles stemmed from a plan drawn up by two Dallas attorneys for transplanting his Belin Pentecostal University from St. Louis to the campus of the defunct Chillicothe Business College in February 1956.

He said the attorneys arranged for a $1,650,000 bond issue, and that he was to get about $300,000 to move the school. The bonds were held by two Texas insurance companies. Belin said the trouble started when the bonds began turning up in the open market.

Approximately $735,000 worth of the bonds are tied up now in the receivership of the Insurance Company of Texas, part of the financial empire that collapsed under BenJack Cage. Cage has an appeal pending from a 10-year prison sentence for embezzlement.

The bankruptcy hearing was recessed until March 12 after Belin told about the bond issue and invoked the Fifth Amendment. An earlier investigation by the Post-Dispatch failed to show any evidence Belin had attended the schools listed in his catalogue as having conferred on him the academic titles appended to his name.

CAST FOR EACH OTHER

STOCKPORT, England, Feb. 13 (AP)—John and Bridgit McLeod, married 40 years, say they have always done everything together. Yesterday they both broke their right legs.

U.S. MILITARY AID TO YUGOSLAVIA PUT AT $22,500,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday made public a report by President Eisenhower disclosing that United States military assistance to Communist Yugoslavia totaled $22,500,000 between March 1 and Sept. 30, 1957.

The report said economic assistance totaled $15,100,000 in the same period.

The United States ordered a halt to military aid to Yugoslavia last Dec. 9 after Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz declined further shipments. He was angered by frequent United States policy reviews of the program.

The Eisenhower report, in a Jan. 30 letter to the committee's chairman, Senator Theodore Green (Dem.), Rhode Island, was declassified and made public with White House consent at the request of the committee.

In a statement releasing it, Green said the committee was withholding a supplemental report "showing types and quantities of military items delivered" to the Yugoslav government under the mutual security program.

THE WISDOM OF CHILDHOOD

READING, England, Feb. 13 (AP)—Pranksters from Reading University dumped a metal cylinder with the phony inscription "U.S. Air Force—danger" in a public park yesterday and hid in the bushes waiting for laughs.

Along came a little girl too young to be able to read. She picked up the cylinder, trotted 50 feet to a river and threw the cylinder in.

Trailer Mileage Bill Signed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower signed a bill today providing that civilian Government workers who live in trailers can collect mileage allowances for them on official moves.

U.S. Crews Instead of British Likely to Man Missile Bases

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

LONDON, Feb. 13—American technicians instead of British, as originally planned, are to make up the main force manning intermediate range ballistic missiles that the United States is to start delivering to Britain by the end of this year, it was learned authoritatively last night.

A Pentagon decision to speed up the delivery date from the 18-month to two year delay at first envisaged is said here to be responsible not only for changing the rocket crews but for delay in the Anglo-American missile agreement.

Conclusion of the agreement had been expected by officials on both sides of the Atlantic as early as the first half of January. That was before the United States Defense Department embarked on an accelerated delivery program giving insufficient time to train British crews.

Authorities here say the training of British crews would have made the agreement easier to write because it would have been much easier to persuade public opinion here that British sovereignty thus was being sufficiently preserved.

At the outset, the project to equip United Kingdom bases with I.R.B.M's envisioned rockets as becoming the complete responsibility of the British armed forces while the nuclear warheads would be in custody of small American forces.

This situation of divided sovereignty was not distasteful to the British because American warheads could never leave the ground unless Britain consented. As long as the MacMahon act restricting the sharing of American atomic weapons and information was unchanged, this division had to be in force.

After change in the MacMahon act, Britian could assume full control of the warheads as well as the missiles. Otherwise the British could continue promising preliminary work on their own I.R.B.M's and nuclear warheads.

Now the Anglo-American agreement which is expected to be made public next week, must satisfy a popular demand for maintenance of British sovereignty even though the weapons and their nuclear warheads are both in American hands.

While British crews can be trained to take over eventually, authorities here say I.R.B.M's are too complicated to be mastered before the delivery date American Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy has promised Congress to meet.

© New York Times News Service

Labor Party members of the House of Commons questioned Duncan Sandys, Defense Minister, closely yesterday about the impending agreement.

Some made it clear they oppose having any bases, while others were insistent that Brtiain have complete control of the missiles.

Sandys told the Laborites that he could give reassuring answers to many of the questions but that it would be thoroughly improper when negotiations were not completed.

Leslie Hale, one of the Laborites, asked what steps could be taken to terminate the present agreements permitting the stationing of United States forces here.

"There was no formal agreement and no precise conditions were laid down for the termination of this agreement," Sandys said.

"American forces will remain here so long as both governments feel that it is in the common interests, for purposes of common defense, that they should do so.

"We certainly have no intention of asking them to leave and I am convinced they are making an important contribution to peace."

CASTRO'S SISTER IN CUBA; ENJOYING FULL FREEDOM

HAVANA, Feb. 13 (AP) — Juanita Castro, sister of rebel leader Fidel Castro, is enjoying full freedom in Havana. She arrived here Feb. 4 after being deported from Miami, Fla.

Police have made no attempt to interfere with her activities here but have protected her against curious crowds or any attempt to touch off disorders because of her presence.

The United States ordered her to leave the country because she had entered illegally. She allegedly crossed the border from Mexico in the trunk of an automobile. In Havana she is staying with her mother and sister at the home of her grandmother.

U.S. STUDYING ENTRY OF DUTCH REFUGEES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) — State Department officials said yesterday that they were sympathetically considering a Netherlands government plea that the United States admit up to 20,000 Dutch refugees from Indonesia on the same emergency basis as it did Hungarians.

Dutch citizens have been leaving the former Netherlands colony because of local hostility and action to expropriate some Dutch-owned properties.

Representative Francis Walter (Dem.), Pennsylvania, co-author of the Walter-McCarran imigration bill, said he did not know whether there would be enough sponsors for such refugees "in view of our unemployment."

Walter said he had discussed the plight of the refugees with Dutch government representatives as well as with Administration officials.

Some authorities expressed belief that it would be difficult to apply the same emergency standards to Dutch refugees that were invoked for the Hungarians. Special legislation may be the answer, they said.

Indonesia to Avoid Violence in Dealing With Rebels

JAKARTA, Feb. 13 (UP)—Premier Djuanda said today his government will do its best to avoid violence in dealing with the rebels who have threatened to set up a rival government on Sumatra.

Indonesian warplanes showered rebel-held central Sumatra today with leaflets announcing the dishonorable discharge of four rebel colonels, who were held guilty of "endangering state security."

Commercial air and telephone service to rebel-held centers has been suspended.

There was no immediate reaction from the rebels, whose radio stations announced earlier this week that they have given President Sukarno five days to get rid of the present government and call on former Vice President Mohammed Hatta to form a new regime. The ultimatum expires Sunday.

TREASON CHARGES DROPPED AGAINST 3 IN SOUTH AFRICA

PRETORIA, South Africa, Feb. 13 (AP)—The government said yesterday, it will release three of 95 South Africans held for trial on charges of high treason.

The three are L. B. Lee Warden, a member of Parliament; Ismaili C. Meer, attorney and former secretary of the Transvaal Indian Congress; and Kesval Moonsamy, organizer for the Indian Congress. The government gave no reason for its decision not to prosecute them.

The time and place for trial of the remaining 92 defendants have not been set. They have been accused of attempting to set up a Communist state. Critics of the government contend the defendants face trial because they opposed the government's rigid segregation policies.

MIAMI BREWERY SOLD TO ANHEUSER-BUSCH

Anheuser-Busch Inc. has acquired the assets and inventory of American Brewing Co. brewery at Miami, Fla., it was announced yesterday. Price was not disclosed.

American Brewing is a subsidiary of City Products Corp., which also operates a brewery at New Orleans. The Miami brewery produced 234,000 barrels of beer last year, it was reported. It will continue producing beer under the same brand name.

In announcing the acquisition, August A. Busch Jr., president of Anheuser-Busch, said it was part of an expansion program. He said Anheuser-Busch is constructing a new brewery at Tampa and has acquired 160 acres of land in New Orleans as a site for another brewery.

EX-GOV. BATTLE IS NO. 1 CONTENDER FOR BYRD SEAT

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 13 (UP)—Former Gov. John Battle, who helped to rally Southern opposition to the Democratic party loyalty oath in 1952, emerged today as a leading contender for the Senate seat Harry F. Byrd will vacate after more than 25 years.

Battle, 68 years old, now a member of the federal Civil Rights Commission, was mentioned prominently here as a likely candidate to succeed Byrd, who announced yesterday he would not seek a new term in November.

High ranking members of the Virginia Democratic machine controlled by Byrd conceded it was "too early for things to crystallize." However, Battle and two others appeared to be the party favorites. The others are Representative William Tuck and Byrd's son, State Senator Harry F. Byrd Jr.

Three other Congressmen, Watkins Abbitt of Appomattox, Porter Hardy of Norfolk and B. P. Harrison of Winchester also were mentioned.

$5,572,355 IN SAVINGS BONDS SOLD IN JANUARY

Sale of United States savings bonds in the St. Louis area totaled $5,572,355 in January, 9 per cent of the 1958 goal, Arthur K. Atkinson, Missouri Savings Bonds state chairman, announced today.

For the state, $14,877,751 in bonds were sold in January, Atkinson reported. The figure represents 10 per cent of the state's 1958 quota. Dallas county leads the state, having already reached 49 per cent of its goal with sales of $49,837.

BLACKWELL-WIELANDY CO. TO REDUCE WHOLESALING

A plan to curtail gradually wholesale operations of the Blackwell-Wielandy Co., 1605 Locust street, was announced today by Clyde K. Murphy, president. The company has 350 employes.

He said the board of directors had approved the plan after eight years of "unprofitable" operations in that division. About 20 0of the firm's total work force are in the wholesale departments and an undeterminde number of them will be dismissed. Murphy said the company would increase its printing operations and add more distributorships.

Established in 1901, the company sells toys, gifts and related lines, serves as a disttributtor of school supplies and operates a printing department that prints catalogues and various forms of direct mail advertising.

Experts to Prod Auto Makers To Develop Anti-Smog Device

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13 (AP)—Thirteen experts, convinced that smog has become a nationwide menace to health and happiness, are to meet in Washington tomorrow to put the heat on the auto industry.

The group is the advisory council to the United State surgeon general on air pollution problems, made up of scientists, medical men and air pollution specialists. Its contention are:

1. The automobile is the last, and so far uncontrollable, major source of the noxious fumes that regularly besmirch the atmosphere of American cities, bringing discomfort to millions.

2. Unless cut off, the fumes will certainly worsen smog in cities already affected and will ultimately create smog problems where air is now pure.

The experts intend to ask executives of the auto industry to develop a device to reduce or eliminate the automobile's contribution to air pollution.

Dragging Their Feet.

The experts privately express the belief that auto makers have dragged their feet on working up an anti-smog device, apparently under the impression that the smog-car problem is peculiar to the Los Angeles region, where the loudest outcries have been heard.

Experts say that half a dozen major cities — including Detroit—already consider auto exhaust a serious smog problem, and more than 200 cities deem it a factor in their air pollution picture.

The group's goal: A cheap—$25 to $50—device to be built into all new cars that will effectively filter, or burn, unconsumed gasoline vapors. It is these vapors, belched from auto exhausts, that change chemically in the air to form smog's irritants.

Other Sources Squelched.

Griswold, 49 years old, is boss of the Los Angeles county air pollution control district. Since taking over in 1955 he has guided completion of a program he says has brought under control 90 per cent of the non-automotive sources of smog. But, he warns, the battle could easily be lost unless auto exhaust is cleansed.

"We have tested literally hundreds of devices," says Griswould, "but haven't seen one yet that will do the job. I don't think we are close at all."

Griswold and his staff have been visited by delegations from New York, Washington, Chicago, Cincinnati, Chattanooga, St. Louis, Louisville, Houston, Honolulu, London, Berlin, Stockholm, Ankara and other cities.

In essence, the delegations are told: Your city may choke on its own air, if industry expands without control and the number of automobiles skyrockets.

ORIGINAL INNER BELT PLAN OK'D BY GROUP

The original route proposed for the Inner Belt Expressway in St. Louis county, with one modification, was indorsed last night by officials of 10 municipalities between Clayon and Natural Bridge roads, Chairman Frank L. Martini of the county council reported.

Communities represented at a meeting called by the council were Clayton, Ladue, Olivette, University City, Overland, Vinita Park, St. John, Charlack, Sycamore Hills and Margona.

Martini said he hoped to call a meeting within the next wee kfor officials of municipalities north of Natural Bridge to get their views on the route in that area.

Expressing satisfaction at results of last night's meeting, Martini said he thought a final route could be fixed within the next two months.

He said he personally favored the so-called modified fact book route, and that in his opinion the council would adopt it. Engineers are working on modifications in certain "trouble spots," he added.

Among these are the proposed location on the County Hospital grounds, which Dr. Curtis H. Lohr, hospital commissioner, has said would encroach on a planned new hospital building.

Meanwhile the Webster Groves Property Owners Association reported it had received more than 3000 postcards with about 6000 signatures opposing a proposed route for the expressway paralleling Elm and Kirkham avenues in Webster Groves.

This route, a sharp deviation from the "fact book" route, was recommended in a study by the engineering firm of Sverdrup & Parcel. The county council is on record against the engineers' proposal in this area and in favor of the fact book location, which would carry the highway eastward to the St. Louis city limits near Lansdowne avenue.

MOVE REPORTED TO STOP NUCLEAR TEST PACIFISTS

HONOLULU, Feb. 13 (AP)—Air Force Maj. Gen. Alvin R. Luedecke, nuclear test task force commander, plans to prevent four pacifists from sailing their small ketch into the Eniwetok testing area, the Star-Bulletin reported yesterday.

"There are plans to stop them," the general was quoted by an unnamed source. He declined to amplify.

Albert S. Bigelow, of Cos Cob, Conn., sailed Monday from Los Angeles with three companions. They plan to sail into the area where nuclear tests are scheduled for April. The Defense Department said it was relying on the task force commander's judgment to prevent injury to the four men aboard the ketch.

ICC APPROVES 2 PCT. RAIL FREIGHT RISE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —The railroad industry had permission today to boost its interstate freight rates again—the fifteenth such advance since World War II.

The new hike, averaging about 2 per cent on most freight items, may be put into effect Saturday.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, which granted two general increases in the past year, yesterday authorized the new boost which will add about $182,000,000 a year to freight revenue. The rail industry recently described its financial situation as "critical and precarious."

The railrorads sought an average 3 per cent increase, coupled with numerous proposed changes in operating regulations, designed to boost revenues by $210,000,000 a year. The industry said its operating costs jumped $300,000,000 a year as a result of wage hikes last November.

The revenue estimates were based on the assumption that state regulatory commissions will sanction intrastate increases similar to those approved by ICC.

In making downward adjustments on what the industry asked for, the ICC rejected a large portion of proposed operating changes.

Among the vetoed items were two major proposals affecting port traffic. One such proposal was to establish, for the first time, a special charge of $1.20 a ton for loading and unloading freight at shipside. This had been protested against by port interests all over the country.

Blocked also was a companion proposal to reduce to four days the "free time" allowed for loading and unloading shipside freight before starting to collect demurrage, or car rental, from the shipper. The commission directed that the current "free time" allowance be continued at 7 to 10 days.

Flashes of Life

Progress.

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Youth and adult really did get closer together at the Governor's Youth Conference.

The director of the California Youth Authority, Heman G. Stark, said his son, Charles, 19 years old, a college student, told him: "Dad, somehow you don't seem as square as you usually do."

Delayed Action.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) —A few hours after farmer W. A. Moon reported a two-month-old theft of a dinner bell and anvil, two men were arrested and charged with grand larceny. Moon got back his dinner bell and anvil.

Now he remembers a couple of other thefts: Four buggy wheels taken in 1915 and seven pigs which disappeared in 1922.

On Her Own.

WARREN, O. (AP) — When Edith Camodeca, 6 years old, failed to return on time from grade school, a two-hour search was conducted involving Ohio highway patrolmen, firemen, sheriff's deputies, high school boys and men from nearby Mineral Ridge and Niles police.

Edith was found in a beauty shop getting a permanent wave. She had changed the day of her appointment without telling her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Camodeca.

MILITARY PAY HEARINGS TO START SOON IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —Senator John Stennis (Dem.), Mississippi, announced yesterday that hearings on Administration requests for a boost in pay for military personnel will begin Feb. 25.

"There is general agreement, which I share, that some increases should be authorized," said Stennis, chairman of a Senate military pay subcommittee.

The pay plan was developed by a special commission headed by Ralph J. Cordiner Jr., president of General Electric. In an effort to keep skilled technicians and younger officers in uniform, the Cordiner plan would drop automatic pay boosts based on length of service and set up a merit system.

NEW BABY WINS A RACE

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 13 (AP) —A baby born last night beat his mother to the hospital.

Gerald Lowe and his wife, Margaret, were speeding from suburban Franklin to a hospital when they realized they would not be in time. They stopped at a filling station where three policemen assisted at the delivery and put the mother and baby into separate ambulances. The baby, riding in the faster vehicle, arrived at County General Hospital two minutes ahead of his mother.

SHELL IN SCRAP SHIPMENT EXPLODES, TWO MEN KILLED

YAWATA, Japan, Feb. 13 (AP)—An American shell imported as scrap iron exploded and killed two steel mill workers yesterday.

A spokesman for the Yawata Iron & Steel Co., said the shell was part of a 120-ton shipment of scrap obtained from the Luria Brothers Co. in New York.

A Luria spokesman said it could not confirm that the shell was in a shipment from the company. All shipments, he said, carry a government demilitarization slip.

Ocean Spray Salmon Loaf

½ Cup Pet Evaporated Milk
2 Cups (1-lb. can) flaked salmon, cooked or canned
3 Tablespoons liquid off salmon
1 unbeaten egg
1½ cups soft bread crumbs (2 days old)
2 teaspoons grated onions (can omit)
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Mix the salmon with the rest of the ingredients until well blended. Pack into a greased and floured loaf pan holding about 4 cups. Bake on center rack of moderate oven (350°) until firm and light brown on top or about 35 minutes. Loosen sides of loaf with knife, then let stand in pan 5 minutes before turning out. If desired, garnish with hard cooked egg slices and serve with creamed peas.

Note: Left-over cold salmon loaf is delicious to use as a sandwich filling or it can be broken up and heated in a white sauce to serve on toast, boiled rice or noodles.

Creamed Salmon and Mushrooms
with Kraft Macaroni Dinner

1½ cups hot medium cream sauce
1 cup (1 small can) coarsely flaked salmon
1 pkg. Kraft Macaroni Dinner
Broiled Mushroom caps

To the hot cream sauce add the salmon which has been left in large pieces. Mix lightly.

Prepare the Kraft Dinner as directed on the package, and pack it into a well-greased 6½ inch ring mold. Unmold on a round chop plate and fill the center with the creamed salmon. Garnish the plate with broiled mushroom caps.

URGES LOCAL FIRMS PLACE ORDERS IN ST. LOUIS AREAS

A program to encourage trading in the St. Louis area was announced yesterday in an address before the 500-Plus Club by A. Jack Becker, chairman of the small business committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The group met at the Missouri Athletic Club.

The program is designed to urge purchasing officers of local firms to give consideration to area manufacturers, distributors and suppliers when raw materials, products or services are being sought.

Becker pointed out that of 468 manufacturing classifications listed by the Federal Census Bureau, firms engaged in 347 of these activities are located in this area.

RUSSIAN EX-SPY TELLS OF TRYING TO CONTACT G.I.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —A turncoat Russian spy faced cross-examination today on his story that Moscow master-minded efforts to contact a United States Army sergeant accused of betraying his country.

Reino Hayhanen has been the major witness so far in the court-martial trial of Master Sgt. Roy A. Rhodes on charges of conspiring to commit espionage.

The prosecution contends that "a pretty large and dangerous conspiracy" has been established. The defense complains the trial has "compounded hearsay on top of hearsay."

The prosecution argues that the 40-year-old Rhodes was part of an espionage conspiracy that originated in Moscow while he was stationed at the United States Embassy there and continued after he returned to America in 1953. The maximum sentence on conviction could be life imprisonment.

Rhodes's chief counsel, Lt. Col. John F. Hummel, told the court yesterday the prosecution has produced no actual proof there was a conspiracy or that Rhodes was part of one. He called Hayhanen's testimony all hearsay. However, his motion to throw it out on grounds of irrelevancy was denied.

Hayhanen told yesterday of working closely with Col. Rudolph Abel of the Soviet secret police, whom he described as "resident agent" in New York for an espionage ring. He later broke with Abel and the Russians.

Last October, Hayhanen was a key witness at a trial in Brooklyn, N.Y., which resulted in Abel's conviction on espionage charges.

He testified yesterday he never had met or even seen Rhodes until a pretrial conference in November, but said he had tried without success to find Rhodes after the sergeant's return to this country.

He identified what he said was a copy of a message from Moscow naming Rhodes as "Agent Quebec" and providing information to help locate him.

JAPANESE WON'T ABANDON 18 SLED DOGS IN ANTARCTIC

TOKYO, Feb. 13 (UP) — Headquarters of the Japanese Antarctic expedition said today the 24 Saghalien sled dogs transported to the Antarctic by a Japanese scientific team will not be abandoned.

After representatives called at the headquarters Tuesday with petitions demanding the dogs be taken out with members of the team at the Showa base on Ongul island, eight puppies—born at Showa in the past year—were flown out of the base to the Japanese ice-breaker Soya Maru, together with the 11-man Showa team.

At the same time, three men of a winter replacement team were flown into Showa with food and additional supplies for the remaining 18 full-grown dogs.

CRICKETS TO AID IN FOOD TESTS AT MISSOURI U.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 13— The solution to the problem of what is missing in synthetic food containing all known vitamins, minerals and amino acids will be sought by Dr. Thomas D. Luckey, professor of biochemistry at the University of Missouri, in experiments with crickets.

He has been provided $6900 for research by the United States Public Health Service. Crickets are used because they grow rapidly, and effects of a specific diet can be determined in a short time.

Dr. Luckey knows that crickets eating grass, yeast, liver and other natural foods show improved growth in comparison with those fed a synthetic diet. Some unknown factor is responsible.

He plans to feed crickets as many as 100 different diet combinations under controlled conditions in hopes of getting an idea of the amount of growth factor present in each.

REP. BURDICK MUST STAY IN HOSPITAL FOR SOME TIME

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —Representative Usher L. Burdick (Rep.), North Dakota, said today doctors at Bethesda Naval Hospital told him he has absorption of the bone and he would have to remain in the hospital "for quite a spell."

Burdick, 78 years old, now serving his twentieth year in the House, said that if he is told in the next few weeks he is not in condition to run for re-election he will say so prior to the Republican state convention March 28 and 29.

A a result of a consultation of doctors today, Burdick said, his plans to marry Miss Jean Rodgers, 30-year-old divorcee, who works part-time in his office, are pushed far into the future. "I'll think no more of romance until I get over this," he said.

TWO SENTENCED IN THEFT OF PRINCESS'S SUITCASES

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP) — Two men weer sentenced today to six months for stealing Princess Alexandra's suitcases containing a Bible, jewelry, a Russian ikon and other articles.

Philip J. Moloney, a tailor, and Aubrey Robins, a laborer, both pleaded guilty. The theft took place early on the morning of Feb. 3 from an automobile parked in front of the home of socialite David Vailey; with whom the 21-year-old cousin of Queen Elizabeth was having coffee.

Prosecutor A. G. Flavell told the court everything had been recovered except a radio, one pair of earrings and a bracelet.

Said Moloney: "If I'd known who owned the cases I'd never have touched them. Every policeman in England was looking for me."

OHIO COINS IN FOUNTAIN

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — The Great Western Shopping Center here has a model of the Trevi fountain in Rome into which world travelers toss coins to guarantee returning to Rome. Lately, people have taken to tossing coins into the shopping center's replica fountain.

Caretakers say between $50 and $75 is recovered each month. The money is contributed to charity.

RACIAL DISCRIMINATION MADE A CRIME IN LIBERIA

MONROVIA, Feb. 13 (AP)— Liberia's National Legislature gave speedy approval yesterday to a law making racial discrimination a crime in this Negro republic. It is punishable by fines up to $30,000 and jail terms in some cases.

Foreign businesses will be closed for a third offense. Individual foreigners will be deported. Liberians may be jailed for one year.

The Legislature passed the law within three hours of receiving the draft from President William V. Tubman. The preamble to the act said certain foreign concessions are practticing segregation and discrimination. Newspapers for the last two weeks have been accusing Americans of the practices, naming particularly the Firestone Plantations Co.

Airman Farrell 'Doing Fine' In Fifth Day of Mock Moon Trip

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 13 (AP)—Airman Donald Farrell was doing "just fine" as he started his fifth day on his simulated moon flight, Air Force scientists said today.

They said he was just as alert and cheerful today as when he entered his compact space cabin last Sunday at 9:35 a.m.

Lt. Col. George R. Steinkamp, head of the department of space medicine at the School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph Air Force Base, refused to predict when fatigue might beset Farrell.

Steinkamp said Farrell is sleeping a little more now than he did at the start of the test flight to the moon and back, but said this was due to the fact ha is more relaxed. Farrell is permitted to doze during his recreation periods if he wishes.

Discussing Farrell's medical reactions on the fifth day of the test, Steinkamp said the airman's temperature, respiration and heartbeat are all normal.

For breakfast today Farrell had soup and toast, which he prepared himself. Last night's dinner included lobster.

Steinkamp announced that additional tests are planned. "We plan to keep this space chamber busy," he said. "There will be tests of varying situations and lengths of time and tests of similar conditions on other men."

It was announced at Austin, Tex., that the Air Force had contracted with the University of Texas to set up biochemical tests for pre-selecting space pilots.

Farrell, living in air pressure usually encountered at 18,000 feet, was subjected to three emergency summons yesterday. He has no way of knowing whether or not there is a real emergency.

He made extra quick time in responding to all of them, Steinkamp said. Once Farrell had his emergency gas mask in place in 19.5 seconds.

Air Force scientists said the many instruments attached to electrodes taped over Farrell's body show no significant changes whatever. They measure respiration, heart action, blood pressure and other physical conditions.

Only once has he shown signs of irritation. He can have either radio or taped music channeled into his space cabin. Yesterday he signaled for radio music.

Taped music was turned on. Farrell snapped his signal switch but was ignored. Displaying aggravation he snapped it on and off several times. Finally, said Steinkamp, hillbilly music was turned on. Farrell flipped it off and shrugged his shoulders.

The colonel guessed that Farrell was trying to sneak in a news broadcast, barred in his space experiment. "But he couldn't get away with it," Steinkamp smiled.

He amazes his watchers with his lack of boredom. Cozy and warm, he ate a turkey dinner yesterday with evident relish. He takes copious notes on his feelings and thoughts as part of the experiment.

GERMAN SAYS RED I.C.B.M. CAN HIT U.S.

CAMP FRIEDLAND, Germany, Feb. 13 (UP)—The Soviet Union has a missile capable of striking directly at the United States, a repatriated German scientist said today.

Albert Joswig, one of 10 scientists who arrived in West Germany with their families from 12 years in Russian research institutes, said Russia's intercontinental ballistic missiles were based on Germany's wartime V-2 rocket.

"The Russians now definitely have a rocket capable of striking the United States from bases in the U.S.S.R.," Joswig said. Other members of the group, which included physicists, mathematicians, and electronic technicians, agreed with Joswig.

They were unable to give any up-to-date details on Russia's scientific advances of the last two years.

After the Russians picked the brains of German rocket technicians captured at the end of World War II, they went their own way in developing missiles, the Germans said.

Only Russians worked in the intercontinental ballistics missile and the Sputnik-launching rockets, they said.

The Germans who arrived here yesterday said they were taken to Suchumi on the Black sea from Moscow and Leningrad research institutes late in 1955, and since then had been given almost no tasks by the Russians.

Dr. Peter Lehrtes, 66 years old, said "We worked on certain sections in the development of secret projects before 1955. But after that we did little work at all. In the last two years the Russians have advanced and any knowledge we have now is outdated."

The second and final group of returning scientists, including scientists and their families, was expected to reach the Helmstedt border crossing station tomorrow. They will be brought here after their arrival.

GIRL, 8, SEVERELY BURNED WHEN CLOTHES CATCH FIRE

Alline Ware, 8 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Ware, 3023 New Ashland place, suffered burns on the face, neck and abdomen when her clothing was ignited by flames from a stove at her home yesterday. She was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital.

Police said a sister, Gloriastine Ware, 13, told them she put kindling wood on a fire in an oil stove and closed the door. A few minutes later, Alline was standing near the stove when the door blew open and the flames shot out. Gloriastine said. The older girl suffered minor burns on both hands in helping extinguish Alline's burning clothing.

Gen. Pearson Menoher Dies.

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., Feb. 13 (AP)—Retired Brig. Gen. Pearson Menoher, a West Point classmate of President Eisenhower and a temporary commander of the Twenty-fourth Division in the Korean conflict, died at his home here last night. He was 66 years old.

SOFA MOVED INTO NEW HOME, THEN HOUSE BURNS DOWN

Lloyd Moss of Pevely lost a sofa by trying to get an early start on yesterday's scheduled task of moving his furnishings to a newly rented home two miles east of Festus. The house burned down early yesterday, 12 hours after Moss and his wife had installed the sofa, and 12 hours before he was to move in the remainder of his furniture.

Origin of the fire was not learned. Members of the Festus and Herculaneum volunteer fire departments responded to the alarm. Moss said the five-room frame house, recently renovated, was valued at about $7000 and owned by Stanley Palmer, Braidwood, Ill.

GOV. BLAIR'S NEPHEW FILES

NEVADA, Mo. (AP)—Lynn M. Ewing Jr., Nevada attorney and nephew of Gov. James T. Blair, has filed as Democratic candidate for State Representative from Vernon county.

Ewing seeks the seat now held by Robert W. Crawford of Nevada, also a Democrat. He attended Princeton and the University of Missouri, graduating from the Missouri Law School in 1954. He has been practicing law with Ewing, Ewing and Ewing, a Nevada firm.

NURSE FOR CHARITON COUNTY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KEYTESVILLE, Mo. — Mrs. James H. Stevenson, Keytesville has been appointed public health nurse in Chariton county by the County Court, effective March 1.

Chariton county has not had a public health nurse since 1944 when Mrs. John Syewart, Brunswick, held the position.

$6500 WARNING UNHEEDED

MESA, Ariz., Feb. 13 (AP)—Forrest Cox, a ranch hand, insisted on receiving cash "in big bills" for a $6500 check he presented at a Mesa bank yesterday, despite warnings by tellers.

He put the money in a paper bag and walked out. A few minutes later, a man walked up behind Cox, grabbed the bag and fled. Cox told police the money represented all but $100 of his savings, withdrawn from a savings and loan association.

RETIRED FARM EQUIPMENT PRESERVED IN CALIFORNIA

DAVIS, Calif. (UP) — The farm horse in California may be nearly obsolete, but the University of California's farm division is planning to see that tomorrow's children will know what great-grandfather's horse-drawn equipment looked like.

Antiquated equipment is preserved on the "Little Farm" in the Tilden Nature area of the East Bay regionalPark District in Contra Costa county.

Nine pieces of retired university farm equipment dating back as far as 1917, represent California farm mechanization before gasoline and diesel engines took over.

The university used several pieces of horse-drawn equipment on experimental farm land until the close of World War II. One team of Percherons and a manure-spreader still till the fields at Davis. Horses are used for instruction, too.

LACK OF ARCTIC DATA VIEWED AS SECURITY THREAT

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—The United States and Canadian Government have been warned by their joint Arctic Research Advisory Committee that scientific information available on the strategic north polar basin is so "seriously inadequate" as to endanger North American security.

The committee, composed of 20 outstanding scientists and military men of the two nations specializing in Arctic research and tactics, says that operation of atomic-powered submarines and atomic ice-breakers in the ice-covered waters at the top of the world soon will be no novelty. In a report, the committee members state that "expanded Arctic research is essential" in the face of "large-scale, intensive and competent Arctic research and development being pursued by the Soviets without fanfare." The report almost certainly will have reverberations in Congress and the Canadian Parliament.

After recalling that America's atomic-powered submarine Nautilus recently penetrated under the Arctic ice pack to within a few miles of the North Pole, the report notes that defenses must be planned now against Soviet submarines that could make similar trips.

The committee members believe that an immediate study should be made of the feasibility of establishing intermediate range ballistic missiles bases on the Arctic ocean ice pack. They also recommend the establishment of a policy-making "office of assistant for Arctic research" in the United States Defense Department and a "completely integrated" program of American and Canadian Arctic research pushed with all possible speed. Their report further says:

"Science will permit our use of Greenland as an Arctic sword and shield—a mighty bastion of deterrent power essential to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization concept. Its 850,000 square miles of polar Sahara constitute a giant platform for weapons and weapon-delivery systems, including mobile long-range artillery and for a far-flung detection, tracking and interception complex."

Britain Starts Move for World Control of Antarctica.

© New York Times News Service

LONDON, Feb. 13—Britain has begun a new move toward international control of Antarctica. Official sources reported yesterday that the first tentative steps have included exchanges with New Zealand and Australia. The United States has been kept informed of developments.

The basis of British thinking on the subject was given in Canberra by Prime Minister Macmillan at the conclusion of his visit to Australia. He said that Antarctica should not be allowed to develop into an area of military bases and that it should be a free zone of scientific collaboration.

Present thinking in Whitehall is that Antarctica should come under the jurisdiction of an international commission. Its membership would consist of nations with a direct interest in the area.

At the present time, sectors of Antarctica are claimed by Britain, Australia, New Zealand, France and Norway. Argentina and Chile both claim the sector that also is claimed by Britain. Neither the United States nor the Soviet Union recognizes any of the claims.

ENGLISH SCHOLARSHIP PLAN ANNOUNCED AT ILLINOIS U.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UP) — Details of a program to select the top 435 high school English students in the nation each year for scholarships have been announced at the University of Illinois.

The National Council of Teachers of English and 142 affiliated organizations are backing the plan, Prof. J. N. Hook of the university's English Department reported. Hook is executive secretary of the council.

Each high school in the nation will nominate its best juniors before May 1, 1958, and final selection will be made in January 1959, when the nominees are seniors. Each state will have as many award winners as it has Representatives in Congress.

BIG TRACKS FOUND IN S. ILLINOIS TURN OUT TO BE DOG'S

CAMPBELL HILL, Ill., Feb. 13 (AP)—Those large cat-like tracks in snow and ice in northern Jackson county apparently were made by a dog.

John Sherman, who lives near here, said he saw the animal Tuesday night—a 300-pound St. Bernard dog running loose and appeared "not too tame." He said the dog ran away when it saw him.

Some residents of Ava had reported earlier that inch-deep tracks left in the area appeared to be those of a large mountain lion. The tracks measured 5 by 7 inches.

A Southern Illinois University professor who examined the tracks late yesterday said they were made by a large dog.

DR. ELLIS BACKS BLAIR'S COLLEGE CO-ORDINATION IDEA

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Dr. Elmer Ellis, president of the University of Missouri, has indorsed recommendations of Gov. James T. Blair for better co-ordination in higher education.

"I'm sure the Governor's recommendations for a study of better co-ordination of higher education is definitely needed and can be a great help and provide better facilities for higher education in Missouri," Dr. Ellis said.

"With all the real needs we have, there is no place for waste or duplication. We discussed the problem several times with the interim committee of the Sixty-eighth General Assembly, and the need for better co-ordination in state planning was apparent to nearly everybody."

STRESSES CITY NEED FOR HOSPITAL CHIEF

A matter of "immediate concern" to St. Louis is that the position of hospital commissioner has remained vacant more than a year and "will never be filled until the $10,000 salary ceiling is lifted," Clarence Pearson, executive secretary of the health and hospital division of the Social Planning Council, said last night.

He spoke at a meeting of the Public Health Section of the Third District of the Missouri State Nurses Association at 3664 Olive street.

In discussing the recent health and hospital survey of Greater St. Louis, Pearson said: "The hospital division will find it difficult if not impossible to move forward toward the goals set in the survey unless a competent hospital commissioner is obtained."

The position has remained unfilled since the death of Dr. Walter E. Hennerich Dec. 3, 1956. Dr. Hennerich had been hospital commissioner since 1949.

"The city needs the services of a qualified and professionally trained hospital commissioner," Pearson declared. "In addition, the community leadership—perhaps the same leaders who acted in an advisory capacity to the Health and Hospital Survey—needs to take a new look at the survey and perhaps suggest areas of responsibility. This would assist in alleviating the rapid trend we are now seeing toward a piecemeal approach without over-all direction."

Currently the Social Planning Council, and the department of health and physical education at Washington University are laying the groundwork for a health survey of both public and parochial schools throughout the city and county, he said. Completion date is set for June 1.

INTEREST IN ARTS RISING IN U.S., EDUCATOR SAYS

KINGSTON, R. I. (UP)—"There has been a great movement forward in the arts in the United States since World War II, and this is reflected in the growth of art education in our colleges and universities".

That's the opinion of Prof. Joseph L. Cain, head of the art department at the University of Rhode Island.

Cain believes that the growing interest in art may be in part the result of "added leisure time," the mass media which bring art to the people, "plus the need of people in our highly developed technological culture to do something with their own hands."

"Immediately after World War II," Cain added, "many students were primarily interested in technical, job education, but the pendulum has now swung in the direction of the humanities and arts, toward the development of the whole student, not just the specialist".

FARM EXPORTS AT RECORD $4,500,000,000 FOR YEAR

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Agriculture Department says farm exports reached a record $4,500,000,000 in 1957, despite a decline in the second half of the year. The total was 8 per cent above the 1956 exports of $4,200,000,000, the previous record. The record prior to 1956 was $4,100,000,000 in 1919.

Farm exports in the last half of 1957 were $2,100,000,000, 10 per cent less than the $2,300,000,000 in the comparable period of 1956. The largest increase was in exports of cotton, up more than $30,000,000 and accounting for practically the whole year's gain.

The gain in value for wheat was just about enough to offset reductions in exports of other grains including milled rice and feed grains. Tobacco shipments were larger in value, but the volume was down. Value of soybean exports rose, more than offsetting declines in edible vegetable oils and flaxseed.

DONALD W. HILL FILES AS BANKRUPT

Donald W. Hill of the Greystone Apartments, 410 North Newstead avenue, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in United States District Court today, listing debts of $36,442 and assets of $300 in household goods.

His petition, which was assigned to the court of Judge George H. Moore, stated he received $32,800 in pay from the Crown Cork & Seal Co. in 1956 and $16,770 in 1957. He said he had been employed as sales director for the Essex Manufacturing Co., 8213 Gravois road, Gardenville, since last May 1.

He listed a total of 50 creditors, including the Internal Revenue Service, which he said he owed $810 on 1955 income taxes and $2045 on 1956 income taxes.

As head of a household he asked that his only listed asset, the $300 in household goods, be exempted from creditors' claims.

Creditors include the following: Lammert Furniture Co., $5534 owed on furnture; Greystone Realty & Investment Co., $5400 owed on his lease; G. A. Frank, attorney, $5000 owed for representing him in a suit on a note; National Bank of Decatur, Ill., $4800 owed on a note; Busch's Grove, Clayton and Price roads, Ladue, $1431; and Taylor School, Clayton, $800.

Other creditors include physicians and department and food stores.

Hill's petition said that in the last six years he had lived on Clarkson road, Ferguson; Clayton road, Ladue; Middlebrook drive, Creve Coeur, and in Baltimore, Md.

COURSE FOR LAWYERS ON ATOM AND THE LAW

CHICAGO (UP)—The University of Chicago Downtown Center has set up a new course to show how claims and defense attorneys will meet courtroom challenges in the atomic age.

The new course, "Atomic Energy and the Law: Six Lecture-Discussions for Lawyers," is the first of its type to be offered in this area.

Particular emphasis is placed on professional opportunities for the lawyer, as interest in atomic energy grows. The course is designed for both private practitioners and corporate lawyers. It explores legal ground rules and procedures applicable to atomic energy activities in business at home and abroad. Consideration is given to effects on labor law and international law and to jurisprudence as a whole.

The lectures will analize the legal problems incident to Atomic Energy Commission liscensing and regulatory requirements in contracting, patents, security, radiation hazards, public liability, foreign trade and administration generally.

Soil Research.

DAVIS, Calif. (UP) — Agriculture scientists are planning to add radioactive gypsum to soil in California ranch lands to determine where the fertilizer goes. By tracing the radioactivity they hope to find out how much of the gypsum goes up into the plants and how much is washed out of the soil by rain.

UNIVERSITY TO INSIST ON WRITING PROFICIENCY

DELAWARE, Ohio (UP)—Ohio Wesleyan University students will have two grades to strive for instead of just one under a program beginning next September.

The faculty voted unanimously to grade students on their ability to write as well as the subject matter to insure that no student graduates without the ability to write the English language properly.

HAWKS START FAST, BREEZE TO VICTORY AT DETROIT

122 TO 105 SCORE AFTER 54-35 LEAD AT THE HALF

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Feb. 13 — Coach Alex Hannum's St. Louis Hawks found a perfect place to continue an apparent late-season revival in the National Basketball Association last night.

They picked on a weary Detroit Piston team to stride to an easy 122-105 victory before 3261 at Olympia Stadium and record their second victory in two nights.

The Hawks have not had an easier time with the Pistons this season than they had in this ninth meeting.

With a lightning-quick attack and alert defensive play, the Hawks were in command from start to finish, never trailed and, once into the second period, never had cause for worry.

They pushed along from that point with leads that never dipped under eight points, leads which reached 19 points at the half and held in that comfortable area the rest of the game.

Pettit Has Nose Bleed.

It was a ragged game, made so by errant Piston passes and sloppy shooting, but the Hawks prospered with it.

Bob Pettit, though sitting out much of the first half with a nose bleed and part of the second—because there was really no need for his services—nonetheless collected 25 points to top the Hawk scorers.

Cliff Hagan, whose barrelling drives and bullish defensive work unnerved the Pistons, picked up 21 points for secondary honors.

So weak was the Piston resistance that Detroit Coach Red Rocha pulled his starting lineup from the floor after only four minutes of play.

The Hawks had jumped to an 11-2 lead and seemed bent on chasing the Pistons right out into the corridors when Rocha made his move.

Seven Points at Period.

A complete new unit of Pistons came into play, and they held the line for a while, Phil Jordon's long hook shots and a pair of neat drives by sub guard Bill Kenville helping to limit the Hawks to a 25-18 edge by the end of the first period.

Midway in the second period, the St. Louis lead was 35-27. At that point, Pettit came through with two brilliant shots which cracked the last of Detroit's resistance. The two goals, accompanied by a free throw, lifted the Hawks to a 40-27 edge. Detroit was never closer than 13 points the rest of the game.

Rocha brought back his first-stringers and they could do nothing to combat the St. Louis surges. At the half, the score was 54 to 35.

Detroit actually outscored the Hawks in the second half, matching St. Louis' 35 points in the third period and gaining a 35-33 edge in the fourth. But it hardly mattered then.

The Pistons' last hope was a full-court press in the fourth period. It worked occasionally, but just as often the Hawks beat the scheme by leaving a goal-tender up court. They counted five goals on this maneuver alone.

Among the embarrassed Pistons, the most embarrassed was George Yardley, leading scorer in the National Basketball Association. Yardley was held to six points—a free throw in the second period, and a goal and three free throws in the final minutes of the game.

Detroit's top scorers were subs Chuck Noble, Kenville and Jordon with 19, 16 and 15 points.

The hot shooting of the Hawks is reflected in the box score which shows they hit 47 of 90 field goal attempts for a .522 average and tallied 28 free throws in 32 tries (.875), their best "charity work" of the year.

Boxer Suspended.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13 (UP)—The Louisiana State Athletic Commission has suspended Welterweight Andrew Brown for conduct detrimental to the best boxing interests. The suspension came after a hearing on charges by Brown that he was doped before his Jan. 27 bout with tenth-ranked Billy Lynch of Hartford, Conn. The suspension was for an indefinite period. Tests revealed no traces of drugs, the Orleans Parish Coroner's office reported earlier.

Redbird Training in Sunny Florida---Inside Version

—United Press Telephoto.

Here's something you wouldn't expect to see—big league training indoors in the Sunshine State of Florida. Sullen skies and cold weather forced the Cardinals into the Y.M.C.A. gym this morning and Manager FRED HUTCHINSON watches from the rail above as the young Redbirds throw the ball around. That's LEON CARMEL (92), highly regarded outfielder, in the foreground.

Outfielder Carmel Is Quick Standout In Cardinal Camp

By J. Roy Stockton
Post-Dispatch Sports Editor.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 13—There's a tremendous distance between a batting cage in a February training camp and major league stardom, but it's easy to understand why major league scouts generally have considered Leon (Duke) Carmel one of the brightest prospects in the minors.

The young "Duke," who reminds observers very much of Ted Williams when the Boston slugger was a gangling youth, went through his first workout at the Cardinals' instructional camp yesterday and quickly was the outstanding youngster in the squad.

It may be different next month and young Carmel may falter and fall by the wayside as so many fine-looking athletes have done, because it's tough to make the major leagues. But he seems to have most of the requisites—sharp eyes, lithe muscles, a cocky, happy disposition and a sparkling desire to bash a baseball to distant places.

Carmel, a 200-pounder and yet slender, with a six-foot, two-inch frame, rifled several drives over the right field fence at Al Lang Field, hit the distant center field wall with several others, and did it all seemingly without any effort.

Room at the Top.

The young man had the advantage of having played winter baseball, but even so, he made a fine impression on observers. The Cardinals hope that he can play center field well enough before long to make the Redbird varsity. He's young — he'll be only 21 in April—but he's played three seasons of professional baseball and last season he drove home 121 runs for Billings, Mont., while batting .324 and hitting 29 homers. He's currently assigned to Omaha for the 1958 season, but the Redbird brass would be happy to transfer him to the parent roster if he shows during the next two weeks or months that he's ready for the majors.

This, of course, is the time of the year when sluggers hit fences rather easily. The pitchers merely fire the ball through the strike zone, without trying to fool anybody. There were others who showed they could hit the long ball. That's the nice part of this spring training baseball. So many ballplayers look so good.

Catchers Gene Oliver and Al Davis displayed batting power, too, as did Walter Matthews, a first baseman, and Bob Burda, the young St. Louisan from Ritenour high school, with pro baseball brand-new to him.

Manager Fred Hutchinson was pleased with the two workouts, and with the turn in the weather. The sun was out for a change and natives said it was the best day in Florida since Christmas.

"There's a lot of talent in this camp," Hutch said. "And what pleases me is the size of these boys. They're big and strong. It's a pleasure to work with a squad like this."

Each workout started with some running and throwing, after which the players broke into squads of pitchers, catchers, outfielders and infielders, for lectures from the various coaches on fundamentals. Mike Ryba and Joe Schultz tutored the catchers, Al Hollingsworth and Ellis Deal worked with the pitchers. Stan Hack handled the infielders and in the absence of Terry Moore, Johnny Keane gave the outfielders pointers.

A rookie exhibition game with the Phillie youngsters at Clearwater has been booked and the Cards are trying to arrange one with the young Tigers at Lakeland. The Yankees also will be asked for a game, but the New York Yankees usually look down their noses with scorn at such invitations from just plain folks.

At the end of the six compulsory figures, which count for 60 per cent of the total toward the title, Brown had an unofficial total of 993 scoring points to 976.1 for Jenkins. Brown, a consistent runner-up to Jenkins last season, took second place in the 1957 world championships.

Alain Giletti, French youngster who has won three European championships, was in third place after the compulsory figures and Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia, who recently took the European title from Giletti, was fourth.

Jenkins, who has been troubled by a pulled groin muscle, took the lead on the first three figures this morning. But when the more difficult compulsory figures were skated this afternoon, Brown moved ahead.

Robert Brewer of Alhambra, Calif., was tenth with 882.1 scoring points and Tom Moore of Seattle was fourteenth with 835.2.

The scoring points are the totals of the points which the judges award to each skater after each figure. They give a good indication of how the competition is going, but the final decision is based on placing points—the rankings each judge gives the competitors on each figure.

The free skating part of the men's competition will take place tomorrow night. Jenkins, a superb free skater, may gain enough points in this to retain his title.

Two Garden Matches Announced for March

Featherweights Ike Chestnut of New York and Harold Gomes of Providence, R.I., were signed for March 7.

Mickey Crawford, rising young Saginaw (Mich.) welterweight, was signed for his first Garden main event. He will meet veteran Gil Turner of Philadelphia on March 28.

I.B.C. Chief James D. Norris said he was keeping the March 21 date at the Garden open for the welterweight elimination bout between Cuba's Isaac Logart and Virgil Akins of St. Louis. The match hasn't been closed yet but Norris said he hoped to sign both soon.

Celtics Rebound With Russell, Who Grabs 41

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—If there is any race left in the National Basketball Association regular season, it is in the battle for second place in both divisions.

The Boston Celtics, Eastern Division leaders, need only a combination of nine victories or Syracuse losses to win its section again, after beating the Nats last night, 119-101.

In the west, St. Louis needs the same combination of its triumphs and defeats with Cincinnati the helper, after the Hawks beat the Detroit Pistons, 122-105. The New York Knicks made it eight of nine for the season over the Minneapolis Lakers, 106-97 in the other NBA game.

Frank Ramsey, one of the Celts' "walking wounded" went on an 11-point scoring spree that brought the winners from an 80-78 deficit to a 91-84 lead which they never lost against Ramsey paced Boston with 28 points, while Ed Conlin led Syracuse with 25. Amazingly Bill Russell corraled 41 rebounds while scoring 18 points for Boston.

Syracuse lost a half game to idle third-place Philadelphia and now leads the Warriors by two games.

McCracken-Moore Bout Completes Pro Card

Irish Jack McCracken, hard-punching young South Broadway A.C. boxer, has signed to meet middleweight Johnny Moore of Chicago in a four-round preliminary on Promoter Lou Wallach's fight card Monday night at the St. Louis House, 2345 Lafayette avenue.

The McCracken-Moore match completes Wallach's five-bout card which has St. Louis' Jesse Bowdry meeting Pero Bradley of New Orleans in the main event.

Golden Glover Dies Following KO by Granite City Fighter

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 13 (AP)—A 17-year-old Chicago amateur boxer was fatally injured last night when he was knocked out in the first round of a Golden Gloves bout here.

Melvin Young, 126 pounds and fighting in the open class competition of the boxing show, was pronounced dead upon arrival at a hospital.

The Coroner's Office said an autopsy showed death was caused by a severed artery in the back of the head, bringing on a hemorrhage.

Referee Joe Medora said Young was hit a solid right to the chin and that when he went down, his head struck the lower ring rope. The autopsy report indicated the artery was severed when Young's head struck the bottom rope. An inquest will be held Monday.

Young's opponent was Joe Becerra, 16, of Granite City, Ill. They met in the next to last fight on a 32-bout program sponsored by the Springfield Jaycees and the Illinois State Register.

Young was one of 16 inmates from the Sheridan (Ill.) school for boys entered in the tournament, said Melvin Bryant, assistant superintendent of the school. He said the school's policy permitted inmates to take part in high school level athletics. He said the boxing team at Springfield was under supervision of school officials.

Becerra represented the Peoples Athletic League of Greater St. Louis, whose boxers scored a clean sweep last night.

The St. Louis winners who advanced to the finals or semi-finals tomorrow night included: Open Division — 135 pounds, Doug Nance; 147 pounds, Ben Stevens; Nick Carter, 126 pounds; Novice Division—135 pounds, Dave Jones and Charley Williams. Nance scored two kayoes, Stevens and Carter one each, all in the first round.

SAN MATEO, Calif., Feb. 13 (AP).

LINCOLN couldn't quite make it in the Lincoln free-for-all trot on Lincoln's birthday.

Lincoln the Great finished second, beaten a length by Better Hoot in the $2500 feature. The winner paid $11.50 to win. Lincoln the Great, a 12-1 shot, paid $9.40 for placing.

Cuba to Play Puerto Rico in Baseball Final

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 13 (AP) — Marianao of Cuba and Caguas of Puerto Rico meet tonight for the Caribean baseball championship after eliminating Panama and Venezuela.

Cuba and Puerto Rico both enter the championship game with 3-2 records. They made sure their game tonight would be for the title by winning last night.

The Cubans turned back Panama, 15-1, as the Washington Senators' Pete Ramos fanned 10, walked none and gave up only eight scattered hits.

Puerto Rico pushed across the deciding run in the ninth for a 7-6 victory over Venezuela. With Puerto Rico runners on first and third and one out, Venezuela Pitcher Carrao Bracho attempted to walk Vic Power. But the Kansas City Athletics' first baseman hit a grounder toward second which Venezuela failed to convert into a double play as Luis Marquez crossed the plate with the winning tally. Marquez had singled.

Juan Pizarro, the Puerto Rico starter, struck out 12 batters before he was chased in the eighth when Venezuela tallied three runs to tie the score.

Solly Drake whacked a triple and two doubles for the Cubans and teammate Casey Wise delivered a double and three singles.

New Women's City Pin Mark

Mrs. Betty Rothermich, member of the Coincraft team in the Arcadettes Bowling League, rolled a 276 game to establish a new women's city high single record for the 1957-58 season last night at the Arcade Lanes.

Mrs. Rothermich, who carries a 149 average, started off with a 276 game on alleys Nos. 1 and 2 and then registered 144 and 150 games for a 570 total.

The previous high single mark of 269 was held by two bowlers, Mrs. Arline Derus at Palace Bowl on Dec. 30, and Mrs. Elsie Rodgers on Jan. 16 at Wellston Lanes.

Star Hikes Average in Key Valley Conquest

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (UP)—High-scoring Oscar Robertson and his Cincinnati teammates had a "lock" on an N.C.A.A. basketball tournament berth today while Bradley's beaten Braves eyed a National Invitation Tournament bid as a consolation prize.

With Robertson scoring 40 points, Cincinnati virtually clinched the Missouri Valley Conference title and the N.C.A.A. bid that goes with it, last night via a "revenge" 94-77 victory over Bradley. Bradley beat Cincinnati, 79-73, on Dec. 30 and kept it close last night until the Bearcats went off on a 20-point second-half spurt that opened their lead to 82-61.

Connie Dierking, 6-9½ center who missed Cincinnati's Dec. 30 game with Bradley, shared honors with Robertson last night by tallying 12 points and proving a key man off both backboards. A capacity crowd of 7291 saw the game at the Cincinnati Field House and another 1200 watched on a closed circuit TV showing on the campus.

Robertson was held to nine points in the first half, but then broke loose with 31 in the second and his game-total was the most ever tallied against a Bradley team. The 40 points raised Oscar's season total to 633 in 19 games for a 33.32 average, compared with Elgin Baylor's 33.72 average and Wilt Chamberlain's 31.07 mark.

Fifth Defeat for Bradley.

The loss was the second in the conference and the fifth over-all of the season for Bradley, which is expected to be invited to New York to defend its National Invitation Tournament title. The Braves' over-all record is 13-5 against uniformly strong competition.

West Virginia, the nation's second-ranked team, clinched first place in the Southern Conference when it clobbered Virginia Military Institute, 104-58. Unlike Cincinnati, however, the Mountaineers must win a post-season conference tournament before clinching an N.C.A.A. berth.

Coach Fred Schaus used his regulars for only about 20 minutes in the romp as West Virginia posted its eleventh straight conference victory and its nineteenth win in 29 games overall. The Mountaineers led, 41-25, at halftime.

Sixth-ranked Oklahoma State, sought by both the N.C.A.A. and the National Invitation Tournaments while playing as an independent this year, walloped twentieth-ranked Oklahoma 70-50 for a 16-2 record. The Cowboys scored on 22 of 41 field goal attempts. And Temple, No. 7, reeled off its sixteenth straight and its seventeenth in 19 games with a 71-61 decision over LaSalle as versatile Guy Rodgers scored 25 points for a school career record of 1545.

None of the other top 10 saw action but twelfth-ranked Dayton defeated DePaul, 62-53, and fifteenth-ranked Notre Dame whipped Butler, 90-81, in other important games.

Dayton scored its nineteenth victory in 21 games by pulling away from a 42-41 count in the second half. Dayton's Arlen Bockhorn and DePaul's Paul Ruddy shared scoring honors with 16 points each.

Tom Hawkins scored 33 points for Notre Dame, which trailed Butler, 46-41, at halftime and led by only a point with a minute to go in the game. Kieth Greve scored 25 points and Ted Guzek 24 for Butler.

Rugby Season Opens Sunday

The Missouri Rugby Football Union will open its season Sunday with a tripleheader in Forest Park just east of the handball courts.

In the 1 o'clock opener, the defending champion Thurmers will oppose the Sports, winners in ~~1954~~ 55-56. At 2:15 the Santoros, a newly-formed team from St. Louis University, will face the Saints, who finished fourth last season. Then at 3:30, the Washington U. Hawks will meet the Ramblers. Last year the Hawks finished second, the Ramblers fifth.

The first-half champion will play the Saracens of Toronto, Canada, here April 5 and the season champion will meet the same club at Toronto May 18.

Big Man for Principia

Schoendienst, 35, Looks To Batting Title, Five More Years in Baseball

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 13 (AP)—Red Schoendienst, the Milwaukee Braves' stylish second baseman, said today he had his heart set on winning the National League batting title.

"That's the one thing I'd really like to win before I go out of baseball," Schoendienst said. "I came close once, but not close enough."

Red was referring to 1953 when Carl Furillo of the Dodgers shaded him, .344 to .342. Furillo missed the last few weeks of the season because of a wrist injury.

"I had a good shot at it," Schoendienst said. "I came along fast in the last month of the season, but after I reached 500 at bats I'd have to have a 5-for-5 day to pick up a point on him. He just stayed the same and won the title."

Schoendienst, who was 35 on Feb. 2, admitted that the lead-off position and the fact that he seldom draws a base on balls works against him as far as the batting title is concerned.

"Sure, it's tougher," he said, "but I've got as good a chance as anybody else. That's the one goal I've set for myself that I've never achieved."

Schoendienst predicted that the batting race would be wide open with Hank Aaron, Stan Musial, Willie Mays and Eddie Mathews in the running.

"It'll probably take an average of at least .345 to win it," he said. "Of course, somebody could sneak in and beat us all out."

Schoendienst said the groin injury that put him out of the World Series last fall had healed.

Red said he figured he had at least five years left in baseball.

"You don't start to reach your peak in this game until you're 27," he said. "Maybe you get smarter. Or maybe it's pride, but the best ball players are the so-called old men of 35."

Tigers Lose In Overtime To Nebraska

LINCOLN, Nebr., Feb. 13 (AP)—Nebraska broke a four-game losing streak in Big Eight Conference basketball by beating the Missouri Tigers, 67 to 62, in overtime last night. The win boosted the Huskers out of last place in the conference with a 2-6 record. Missouri is 2-4.

Nebraska tied the game at 58-all with six seconds left on a drive-in basket by Jim Kubacki. He had entered the game five minutes earlier as a sub for Gary Reimers, Nebraska captain who fouled out.

Missouri took the lead in the overtime on a basket by Roger Engelhoff. But Nebraska got it back on two fielders by Herschell Turner, the game's leading scorer, and sewed it up midway through the overtime period on a basket and a free throw by Jim Arwood.

Second Semester

—United Press Telephoto.

VON McDANIEL, schoolboy sensation with the Cardinals last summer, leads the way as the Redbird rookies head onto the field from the clubhouse at Al Lang Field, their spring-training base at St. Petersburg, Fla. The runway is between the grandstand and bleachers along the third-base line. The younger McDaniel, who won't be 19 until April, attended Abilene Christian College last fall. He's one of only five regular-roster Redbirds in camp with the club's more promising minor leaguers.

Remember? 5...15...25 YEARS AGO

1953—Manager Marty Marion named five starting pitchers for the Browns as they opened spring training at San Bernardino, Calif., and said he hoped to open the season at shortstop. Marion's probable starters were listed as Virgil Trucks, Duane Pillette, Dick Littlefield, Bob Cain and Bobo Holloman.

1943 — Mike Todorovich led with 12 points as Bob Kinnan's Washington U. Bears, gaining their fifth Missouri Valley Conference basketball victory in six starts, drubbed the Oklahoma Aggies at the Field House here, 42-24.

1933—Werner Nilsen, center forward, pumped in four goals as Stix thumped the Chicago Yugo-Slav Americans, 10-1, in a western semifinal soccer cup match before 2300 at Sportsman's Park. . . . Ray Holmes was high in the afternoon with a 726 series and at night with 686 as the Hermanns, winning a two-weekend match, defeated the Detroit Coca-Colas in an inter-city bowling event. The 18-game scores were St. Louis 18,844, Detroit 18,821.

Ohio State Meeting.

The St. Louis Alumni Club of Ohio State University will meet tomorrow at Schneithorst's Restaurant, Lindbergh and Clayton roads, at 7:30 p.m. J. Ed Weaver, assistant Buckeye athletic director, will speak and show a movie of the Ohio State-Iowa game of last season.

15th Victory For Cleveland; Principia Wins

By Harold Tuthill

Cleveland High is ready for the remainder of the basketball season. Earl Jansen's Dutchmen last night turned on a potent offense as it won from Southwest, 73-53, in a non-league game on the Cleveland floor.

The victory was the fifteenth for the Dutchmen, who have only Soldan, Hadley Tech and Roosevelt to meet on their way to the Public High championship. Cleveland has been beaten twice.

Don Ashley's Southwest Longhorns gave Cleveland trouble all through the first half when the score was tied seven times, the last at 26-26, until Cleveland forged ahead, 36-29, at half-time. The second half was no contest as the Dutchmen piled up 37 points to 24 for Southwest.

Bruce Mills with 23 points and Ron Yanker with 19 paced the Cleveland attack. Gary Grunewald with 14 was high for Southwest, the runner-up to Cleveland in the Public High race.

In other non-league games Principia Academy nosed out Mehlville, 56-52, and Coyle won over Country Day, 44-42.

In a North County League game, Hazelwood shaded Fairview, 57-53, as Larry Plitt scored 24 points for the winners.

Coach Mitchell Launius's Mehlville Panthers fought back to within one point of a tie, 52-51, in the fourth quarter. Then one free throw by John Baer and two by Tom Parker eased the tension for Principia.

Jack Logsdon gave the host Mehlville fans a late thrill when he scored in the last 40 seconds, then intercepted a Principia pass, only to lose the ball on a rules infraction. Dave Gibbs then hit for Principia to account for the last two points scored by Phil Edwards's team.

Record 15,237 See Gonzales Defeat Hoad

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Pancho Gonzales's new tennis strategy—blast, blast, blast—continues to pay dividends and today he is just two victories away from his young professional rival, Lew Hoad.

"I hit the ball with everything I had," said the tall Californian of his 7-9, 6-0, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Hoad last night at Madison Square Garden, which reduced the Australian's lead in their 100-match pro series to 9-7.

Gonzales, who dropped seven matches in a row to his freshman adversary, has a chance to pull even before the weekend.

The largest crowd ever to watch a professional tennis match in the United States, 15,237, saw the king of the pros come from behind and pull out a second straight victory over Hoad.

Lane Shrugs Off Woodling 'Feud'; About 25 Per Cent Of Big Leaguers Unsigned

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13 (AP)—"The only trouble between me and Gene Woodling," Frank Lane said today, "is that Gene is a left fielder and not the second baseman I'm looking for."

No feud? No blasts from Woodling about Lane's contract edict?

"We 'feuded' all the way home from a father-and-son dinner we attended last night," said Lane, fast-talking general manager of the Cleveland Indians. "Gene drove me home in his car."

"I'll tell you something else," added Lane, who generally will. "Vic Wertz called me up and we agreed to terms for his contract. What's more, Vic said he wanted to report to spring training three or four days early." (Wertz reportedly got an increase to $30,000.)

The "feud" business started when Lane announced the other day that he told the Indians who hadn't accepted 1958 contract terms he'd trim $100 off his offer each day they remained unsigned after the official opening of spring training March 1.

Frick Believed It Unfair.

That was followed by a report that Woodling blasted the edict as unfair. Commissioner Ford Frick was drawn into it unofficially, saying he didn't want to pre-judge the matter, but that it sounded unfair to penalize a player while he was negotiating for a contract.

Lane said Woodling told him "that somebody called him up at 6:30 in the morning and that at that hour he understood I was going to start trimming $100 off my offer right away.

"Gene had a good year last season and we're offering him a substantial raise. We haven't arranged for a contract meeting, but I don't expect any trouble."

As for Frick's remarks, Lane said, "We offer a certain amount of money to a player based on his reporting with the rest of the players. Ten days before the start of the first exhibition game is little enough time for a player, particularly a veteran player, to get in shape.

"And Bobby (Bragan) is a new manager for us and he needs a chance to see his players. Coming from the National League, he only knows most of our players by reputation."

18 Braves Still Out.

While Lane's "troubles" seemed a bit pre-mature, there was no denying that such clubs as the Milwaukee Braves and New York Yankees might have their hands full (or empty) trying to corral unsigned players.

An Associated Press survey today showed that about 25 per cent of the players on major league rosters still are unsigned. That number includes Hank Aaron, Ed Mathews, Lew Burdette, Red Schoendienst, Johnny Logan, Del Crandall and Bob Buhl of the Braves and the Yankees' Mickey Mantle, Whitey Ford and Bill Skowron.

The Braves, finding it's always difficult for a club to get its contracts filed after winning the world championship, have 18 unsigned players in all. That total is second only to the Boston Red Sox' 19.

Some of the other major league stars still unsigned are Roy Seivers of Washington, the American League 1957 home run and RBI leader; Harvey Kuenn of Detroit, Ed Bailey and Brooks Lawrence of Cincinnati, and Johnny Antonelli of San Francisco.

The Chicago White Sox got past two hurdles yesterday. Second baseman Nellie Fox, their mighty mite, signed for a reported $40,000-plus — tops in White Sox history. And Southpaw Billy Pierce, who has won 20 games the last two seasons, agreed to an estimated $35,000.

Only the St. Louis Cardinals have all their players under contract. The rest, following the Red Sox and Braves in players to be signed, line up like this: Detroit 15, New York 14, Philadelphia and Baltimore 12 each, Washington 11, Pittsburgh and Kansas City 10 each, Cincinnati 8, White Sox 7, San Francisco 5, Los Angeles 4, Chicago Cubs 2.

Farmington's St. Joe Wins 24th Straight

Undefeated St. Joseph High School of Farmington recorded its twenty-fourth straight victory of the season last night by crushing Oak Ridge, 99-32, in an Old Settlement Conference game.

St. Joseph, only unbeaten Class M school team in its area and Hillsboro tournament champion, leads the Old Settlement race with an 8-0 mark.

Falstaffs Quit Masters Loop After It Votes Against Traveling

They Will Bowl Rest Of Season Schedule

By John J. Archibald

The national champion Falstaff team has announced it will withdraw from the Masters Bowling League at the end of the season as a result of a league decision against traveling.

After a discussion of whether to bowl in a different establishment each week, the Masters teams last night voted 5 to 3 to remain for a fourth successive season at high-scoring Floriss Lanes. The Falstaffs were strongly in favor of forming a traveling league and team Manager Elon (Gus) Gustafson disclosed before the voting his company's intention to withdraw unless this was agreed on.

"We feel that in the interest of promoting bowling and obtaining the maximum benefit from our team, the Falstaffs can accomplish far more under some type of traveling arrangement next season," Gustafson explained to the assembled captains.

Gustafson said that he hopes that a traveling league can be formed that will bowl on a different night than the Masters League and which will include many of the same bowlers. There was a mixed reaction to this suggestion, with most teams unprepared to make a decision on such a move.

Buds' Vote a Surprise.

Although the vote was by secret ballot, the early discussion indicated those who favored traveling next season were the Falstaff, Lindenbusch and Pulaski teams. Those apparently opposed were Plaza, H. & B., Fix-Mix and Budweiser.

The Buds' decision to remain at Floriss was a surprise, as it was generally believed that Whitey Harris's team would favor a traveling league because of the greater number of spectators that would have the opportunity to see the team if it rolled in different communities each week.

It is possible that the Budweisers may join with the Falstaffs in forming a traveling league. Harris revealed that his club already had notified the All-Star League it would not compete in that circuit next season because the team's many exhibition commitments made it difficult to bowl in more than one league. The Buds' captain said that the idea of a traveling loop in addition to the Masters League had taken him by surprise, however, and that he would not say that his team would oppose such a plan.

If there isn't sufficient interest by other St. Louis bowlers in forming a traveling league, the Falstaffs may find themselves without competition next season.

Falstaff has been represented in the Masters for two seasons. During the 1956-57 campaign a team captained by Buddy Bomar flew in from Chicago every Wednesday to bowl at Floriss. The Chicagoans finished third, two games behind Chuck O'Donnell's Pulaskis and three and one-half behind the Budweisers.

A new team, composed of some of the nation's outstanding stars, was brought in by Falstaff for the current season. The St. Louis-based group replaced the Budweisers as national match-game champions in November, but in Masters competition the Falstaffs are buried in second place, 12 games back of the Buds, although their average is 23 pins higher than the final mark for the 1956-57 club, 1076 to 1753.

Falstaffs Lose Two.

While the Falstaffs' decision was obviously made well in advance, last night's results didn't soothe the team's feelings about shooting at Floriss. With Captain Buzz Fazio out of town, the Falstaffs shot 3372 but dropped two games out of three to seventh-place Lindenbusch, which totaled 3404. With the Budweisers winning two out of three from Slattery-Switzer, the Buds' margin was increased from 11 to 12 games.

Wes Wesling with 752, Bill Tucker with 725 and Jim Vrcnick with 709 were the Lindenbusch pace-setters. Falstaffs' Harry Smith continued to move in on the individual average shooters with a 737, raising him to a fifth-best mark of 220, three pins behind the leader, Tom Hennessey of the Budweisers, who has 223. The Falstaffs' Steve Nagy shot 705 and Billy Welu 692.

Plaza won three close games from Fix-Mix, 1031-1028, 1074-1065 and 1034-1031, a difference of just 15 pins for the series. Glen Campbell with 672 and Augie Nischwitz's 671 were high for Plaza, while John Coleman totaled 724 for Fix-Mix.

In the other match, Pulaski swept its series with H. & B. Leading Pulaski were Dick Volling, 673, and Chuck O'Donnell, 664.

The Road Back.

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 13 (UP)—Paul Pettit, a Pittsburgh Pirate baseball find who was signed in 1950 as a $100,000 pitcher, will be a member of the Salt Lake Bees in the Pacific Coast League this season.

Pettit was signed as a pitcher out of high school but never gained stature because of a bad arm. He made another try as an infielder-outfielder and has worked his way up through the minors to his present assignment.

Pulaskis and Buds Resume Battle for Lead in All-Star

The Budweisers and Pulaskis will tangle for a second staight week in the All-Star Bowling League tonight at Arcade Lanes, resuming their battle for first place. A 2-1 victory by Chuck O'Donnell's five last week put the Pulaskis two points ahead of the Buds.

The bowlers' favorite pair of lanes, 1 and 2, will provide the battleground for the leaders. It was on this pair that the Pulaskis rolled the nation's second highest series of 3671 earlier in the season, while the Buds had a 3571.

Authorized, nine points behind the Buds in third place, will meet Emge. Roncaro will oppose B. & B., and Bender will meet Ace. The All-Star's scoring system allows two points for a victory and one point for the team with the higher three-game total.

ALL-STAR STANDINGS

| | Pts. | W. | L. | Avg. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Pulaski | 115 | 48 | 24 | 1081 |
| Budweiser | 113 | 49 | 23 | 1088 |

| Ace | 71½ | 32 | 40 | 1036 |
| Bender | 65 | 29 | 43 | 1013 |
| Roncaro's | 35 | 15 | 57 | 960 |

North Side Y Handball.

CLASS A — FIRST ROUND

County Baseball.

The St. Louis County Baseball League has increased its membership from 11 to 12 teams for the coming season. Chesterfield and a second Florissant team are new. The Carter team has dropped out. Earl Wagner has been elected president for the third straight year.

Giardello Looks Ahead To Summer Title Bout After Defeating Szuzina

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13 (UP)—It may be April in Paris for Joey Giardello or a Philadelphia fight with Neal Rivers, but the fourth-ranking middleweight took a long-range view today to a summer bout for the championship.

Giardello, who now has a run of 15 straight bouts without a loss in his comeback following his bad-boy reformation, left-handed his way past tough but unranked Franz Szuzina, the transplanted German now living on Long Island, N.Y.

Giardello won the unanimous decision over Szuzina in the nationally televised bout before 2160 of his one-time hometown fans. He now lives in Rosedale, also on Long Island.

Joey has been offered, and may take, an April fight with Charles Humez in Paris, while his manager, Tony Ferrante, said he is in line for a summer bout with the winner of the Carmen Basilio-Ray Robinson title fight.

The victory for Giardello was his seventy-fifth in a 94-fight career and was won in the early rounds before the crowding Szuzina loosened enough to do any effective punching.

"I was in terrific shape and could have gone 15 rounds," Giardello said as he made the most of the three official nods which attoned for his split decision victory over Szuzina in July, 1956.

"I was hit on the back of the neck and slowed down for two or three rounds. Up until that time I was winning easily. When the stiffness cleared away from my neck, I was able to go again," Joey continued.

"That fellow hit harder than most people think. I was afraid to miss in the late rounds for fear anything might happen."

Szuzina's crowding was marked by missed punches. Then at the halfway point, he powered his way past the left while Giardello slowed. The German fighter dug at the body and looped to the head, but the fast finish went to Giardello.

"I couldn't get started until the fifth," Franz explained about his seventh loss in 16 bouts since coming to America two years ago. "I felt I was winning the middle rounds, but I guess I got started too late. He's a good boy and a tough fighter."

Szuzina had one distinction. He fought two rounds in the most daring costume ever seen on television when his trunks split in the back in the second round. He hid behind his robe and changed pants before starting the fourth round.

Valley Runner-Up Designated One of 21 N.I.T. Candidates

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (UP)—The National Invitation Basketball Tournament is currently considering a list of 21 teams as candidates for its 12-team carnival, March 13-22.

Nineteen of these schools, including such high-ranked cage powers as Oklahoma State, Notre Dame, and Seattle, already have been sent "feeler" bids, according to Walter T. McLaughlin of St. John's, chairman of the tournament's selection committee, and a few teams may be added.

The other feelers went to: Dayton, Evansville, St. Peter's, St. John's, Xavier of Ohio, Boston College, Bowling Green, La Salle, Marshall, Niagara, Pittsburgh, St. Bonaventure, Manhattan, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, Fordham, and Villanova.

The other two teams under consideration are the runner-up schools in the Missouri Valley conference and the Skyline Conference. The first-place teams in these loops are committed to go into the N.C.A.A. tournament, but unlike most other major conferences, the non-winners are free to accept an N.I.T. bid.

The tournament will be set up along the lines of previous years, with four of the teams seeded and drawing byes into the quarterfinals with the other unseeded teams meeting in a first round to earn quarterfinal berths.

The final round is being played in the day for the second straight year so that it may be nationally-televised.

Cochran and Partner Face Tourney Test

Their opponents were the talented Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Ia., and Bob Cochran of St. Louis.

Cochran and Mrs. Johnston advanced with an 8 and 7 victory over Paulette Lee, Coral Gables, Fla., and Wayne Daly, Pompano Beach, Fla., 8 and 7. Miss Berry and Watts upset Barbara McIntire, Lake Park, Fla., and Dick Chapman, Pinehurst, N.C., 3 and 2.

The McIntire-Chapman team had tied for medalist honors.

Doris Phillips, Belleville, Ill., and Truman Connell, Tequesta, Fla., opposed Anne Richardson, Columbus, O., and Jack Penrose, Miami, Fla., after Miss Phillips and Connell defeated Ann White, Uniontown, Pa., and Larry Dana Jr., Bradford, Pa., 3 and 2.

Path of Death

Automobile in which two women were killed lies flattened after being run over near Tucson, Ariz., yesterday by piece of construction equipment loaded with 40 tons of earth. The women, Mrs. Frances M. Gastelum and Mrs. Irene Aranda, were returning to their homes at Mammoth, Ariz., after attending a funeral at Tucson when they entered a road construction area. Authorities said they either didn't see or ignored the frantic signals of a flagman trying to warn them of the earth mover's approach.

'Hail Mary' From St. Louis for Reds

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (INS).

WHAT BETTER TIME than to remind ourselves that Abe Lincoln once said:

"I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go. My own wisdom and that of all about me seemed insufficient for the day."

MRS. MARIE AUBUCHON . . . SHE PICKED A TOUGH ONE.

Speaking of prayer, consider that engaged in by Marie Aubuchon, editorial assistant of "Hospital Progress," which is published in St. Louis. In asking for some material, on Nikita Khrushchev, Mrs. Aubuchon writes:

"Perhaps one reason I am especially interested in Khrushchev may be of interest to you. My daughter, Carol, a sophomore in the Arts College, St. Louis University, and several of her friends each day say one Hail Mary in honor of the guardian angels of certain Russian officials. The request to the angel is that he work overtime and persuade his charge to turn back to the philosophy of the gentle Man of Nazareth.

"Carol insisted that since I sold them on the idea I should pick a tough one for myself. I picked our friend Khrushchev. You know, I actually feel friendly to the man since I have started praying for him. And every time I pick up a magazine or hear a broadcast about him I'm trying to see if this guardian angel is doing a softening-up job on him.

"Of course, Khrushchev's poor angel is probably worn to a frazzle, trying. But someday I'm sure if I bother him enough he'll make Nikita see the light.

"I'm not even particular how he does it. If it takes strong arm tactics, who am I to quibble about an angel's M.O.?

"Since you say Khrushchev is a little nervous about God, he'd probably have a seizure if he heard someone is bombarding his guardian angel with the request to make him a Christian. And he'd be still more nervous if he knew that five cute little sophomores from S.L.U. are on their knees every day praying to five more guardian angels for five more conversions."

Then there was the frank announcement in the program at the opening of San Juan's Intercontinental Hotel. It read:

1:00 A.M. Dancing—Continuous until down.

And a breezy quote from Khrushchev, with an assist from a romantic linotyper. One of the papers that carried our interview with him stumbled during the terrible quote about how he proposed, in the event of a United States attack on the Soviet Union, to destroy our "cities and bases."

"We will destroy your cities and your babes!" Khrushchev thundered—in that particular paper.

He's gone too far!

AM FASCINATED by the relationship between Pancho Gonzales, the professional tennis champion of the world, and the man who promotes him, Jack Kramer. They have just returned from an extensive tour through Australia and South America and opened a 75-night United States tour in San Francisco the other night. Over the years, Kramer has paid Gonzales a fortune. On long trips they play gin rummy all but perpetually. On the court, they are doubles partners.

The curious thing about the whole thing is that they don't speak. Haven't spoken to each other since Gonzales decided months ago that Kramer had no clear-cut contractual hold on him, and attempted to strike out on his own. Kramer beat him in court, and the great silence descended.

Come to think of it, though, I once knew a divorced couple who lived together for a couple of years without speaking. Couldn't afford separate apartments.

"Goodby!" she finally said, the day she left to marry another guy.

"Yap . . . yap . . . yap, night and day," he stormed.

Lighting the Fire

WHEN FRIENDS drop in, if the house is equipped with an open fireplace, it is a hospitable gesture to offer to light the fire.

That even though the logs look nice as they are, and if they are burned up, the fire will have to be laid again.

The offer will be made even though the firewood is running low and it is late in the season to be buying more. No doubt the family budget was made in expectation that the present supply would last.

The offer will be made even though there are only a couple of visitors and it seems a shame to burn up wood for so few and perhaps have none left when a large number of friends are assembled.

The impression will have to be given that there is really nothing to lighting the fire, even though the wood is not well seasoned and it will be hard to get the fire going and it will probably smoke.

Discerning friends, if they have ever had a fireplace themselves, will realize the difficulties involved. So they will insist they do not want the fire lit. They will protest that they are too warm as it is and are not going to stay long.

They will try to give the impression that an open fire would not be a pleasure, but would subject them to physical suffering. So it will look as though there is nothing to do but give in to them.

However, at this point a wife will be heard. She will say she does not care what the friends want, but that she herself wants the fire. So her husband will light the fire.

That, in spite of the fact that the friends have insisted they do not want it. And the wife did not want it but felt it incumbent upon her to say she did. And certainly the husband did not want it since it is he who has to do the work.

Mona Freeman's 'Education' on Stage

She Finds Role in Play Here Is Like a College Course in Acting

By Mary Kimbrough
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

HONEY-HAIRED Mona Freeman, who could win any red-blooded undergrad's vote for "Miss Co-ed of 1958" even if she is a matron with a 10-year-old daughter, says she is at last getting the college education she missed when she left a modeling career for the movies.

But for Mona, the campus is a stage and her homework consists of lines and cues. Instead of a dormitory or sorority house, she lives in a hotel suite, and her favorite team is the Los Angeles Dodgers. In fact, leaving her beloved Bums back in Brooklyn was the hardest part of Mona's transplantation from east to west coast some 15 years ago.

At the American Theater this week in her first legitimate stage role, opposite Edward G. Robinson in "Middle of the Night," Mona is right where she wishes she had started.

"My advice to any young person who wants to be an actor is to begin on stage, not in the movies or on television," she said. "This is basic. I feel this is a college education for me in acting."

MONA HERSELF had never even taken an expression lesson when she was grabbed off a magazine cover for her first screen test and film contract. Baltimore-born, she was then living in Pelham, N.Y., a suburb of New York City, and had established herself as a top-flight Manhattan model when Howard Hughes saw her picture and signed her.

Sent to school on the movie lot, she was immediately cast in small roles until she was ready to graduate to major ones, leaping then from the movie camera to live television.

"I think that's why I dared to do this play, and, frankly, I was a little scared," she said. "But, you know, if you can do live television, you can do anything.

"In a movie, if you fluff a line, you can always do it over again. But before that television camera, it has to be perfect."

Not that it always is. Once, in a major production, she was scheduled for a quick costume change, but the ties of her apron had worked themselves into a knot, and she couldn't get it off in time.

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

MONA FREEMAN, WHO IS PLAYING OPPOSITE EDWARD G. ROBINSON IN "MIDDLE OF THE NIGHT" AT THE AMERICAN THEATER THIS WEEK. HER ADVICE TO ANY YOUNG PERSON WHO WANTS TO BE AN ACTOR IS TO BEGIN ON STAGE, NOT IN MOVIES OR TELEVISION.

"So, I had to motion the camera man in closer so the audience couldn't see below my waist, and all the time I was playing the scene, the wardrobe woman was down on her knees, out of camera range, getting the apron off," she recalled.

It happens on the legitimate stage, too—and that makes it worse.

"Once, the zipper broke on my dress, fortunately in a scene in which I was wearing a coat, but then I was supposed to go off stage and come back without the coat. In those few seconds, they pinned me up somehow and I managed to hold it together. We just restaged the scene as we went along and I was careful not to turn my back to the audience.

"But just the other night it was even more embarrassing. There's one scene where I'm supposed to dress on stage, and I forgot my girdle. I put my stockings on and suddenly realized I didn't have anything to fasten them to. So I just grabbed and held on and took little steps and prayed they wouldn't fall down."

But for all the embarrassing incidents, Mona is happy in this new chapter in her acting career. She has only one regret, that she had to leave her newly acquired small home in Westwood, in Los Angeles, in order to go on tour. Her widowed mother, who lives in Baltimore, and Mona's daughter and namesake, "Monie," have been with her but both have now left and Mona is sharing her Forest Park Hotel suite with her 10-month-old Maltese dog Spooky.

"This is the first time on tour that I have had a kitchen and I'm going to make the most of it," she said. "There's a supermarket just up the street, so as soon as I can I'm going shopping and invite the cast over for a spaghetti dinner. It's not only easy to fix, it's filling."

DIVORCED FROM Pat Nerney, and at one time Bing Crosby's favorite date, blue-eyed Mona tries to lead as normal a life as is possible for a star. She seldom goes night clubbing, unless she wants to catch a certain act. She has no close friends among other movie stars.

When she is making a picture, she goes to work early in the morning, comes home just in time for a late dinner, a leisurely bath and then to bed. When she does have time to relax, she frequently paints or takes off to see a ball game.

On the road, she sleeps until nearly noon, and interrupts a quiet day only for an occasional trip to a museum.

As a former model, Mona keeps a sharp weather eye on fashions, and this year she isn't happy with what she sees. With a simple wardrobe of her own, preferring suits, sweaters and skirts for daytime wear, she is no convert to the extreme chemise.

"Perhaps the modified version would be all right, but I don't think we should go all out for those styles of the '20s," she said. "The main objection is that men don't like it.

"Women dress for other women and that's wrong. They ought to be dressing for the men."

Colorful Combination

By Eleanor Roosevelt

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Feb. 13.

I TOLD YOU that whenever I visit my daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, I get some new ideas on house decoration. On my last visit, it was her linen closet that made me envious and a kind man has since given me a perfectly wonderful linen closet at Hyde Park which I enjoy every day when I am there.

This time Minnewa and Elliott have built a guest house on the other side of their patio. It looks out on the little swimming pool in the patio. On the other side, it looks out on the croquet court and the orange grove.

At this season all the oranges are ripe and it was simply lovely, but what fascinated me was the daring colors that my daughter-in-law used and which, to my complete surprise, harmonized beautifully. As draperies in the bodroom, she has a most beautiful cotton print of Persian design in which orange and pink are blended with many other colors, and she has carried out the colors throughout in orange and pink. It sounds impossible as a combination, but it is really very beautiful.

The one thing that troubled my daughter-in-law was that the bathtub might be a little small. I found I could fold into it quite comfortably, so I think no one else will have any trouble.

My daughter-in-law and Elliott flew me in their plane from Scottsdale, Ariz., to Tucson right after lunch on Sunday and I had an hour's pleasant meeting in the afternoon at the Arizona Inn with some

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

Democratic women who are anxious to start an active movement to create an interest in the policies suggested by our leadership in the Democratic party.

I wish such groups would be meeting all over the country, for I think they perhaps would give us more active leadership than we have at present.

I want to repeat here, however, that the speech made in Congress by Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas after the launching of the American satellite was a most constructive one. He said something that I think all of us should support, namely, "I would hope that our leaders would give urgent consideration to a proposal for joint exploration of outer space by the United Nations."

The evening meeting in the University Auditorium was packed. They told me the auditorium holds 2700 persons and that 1000 waited on the outside, unable to get in. This was really sad, and I went out to greet them and express my regrets.

Here's How on Flat Dumplings

By Hoyt Alden

THE TROUBLE WITH ME, says one of my feminine readers in reference to recent remarks on the subject of dumplings, is that I just don't know what I'm talking about. Oh, she admits, I'm on safe ground where the drop dumplings are concerned, but it's plain to anyone that I'm in over my head when I get on the subject of flat dumplings.

Well, I said all along I was a drop dumpling man, and that any resemblance my remarks about flat dumplings had to the real thing was purely coincidental. This reaction to the flat dumpling was brought about as a result of many encounters with flat dumplings, none of them happy.

Well, says our reader, that's just because we never got the right recipe or the right method. There's more to making a flat dumpling, she said, than meets the eye, and here's the way it's done, according to her grandmother's recipe which is a family treasure:

First, you mix together two cups of flour and a half cup of vegetable shortening, and work them together with your fingers until they're as well mixed as you can get them. Then you add one beaten egg, a half cup of milk and a teaspoon of salt, and make a dough which you turn out on a board.

Then you start working more flour into it, and kneading it, and working in more flour until it simply won't hold any more flour. Then you roll it out as thin as though you were going to make noodles. Then you cut it in strips.

And here, she says, is where I'm off base again. You may put drop dumplings on top of the stewed chicken, but not flat dumplings. No indeedy. After you have cooked a good-sized, very fat, stewing hen, you take the hen out of the pot. But bear in mind that it has to be a fat hen so your pot liquor is very greasy.

Okay, take the bird out of the pot, have the liquor just bubbling and put the strips of dough in gently, until the whole batch is in. Put the lid on tight and cook them for 12 to 15 minutes.

In all fairness, I'm going to give this recipe a try, and if they're as good as our reader says they are, we'll take back everything we ever said about flat dumplings.

AND HERE'S another reader who wants to know if we can give her a recipe for rum cake like she used to buy many years ago at an old-fashioned bakery which is now out of business.

There are a lot of recipes for rum cake, the proper name of which is baba au rhum, but a true baba is very hard to bake, and probably the smartest thing is to get or make a good sponge cake and proceed from there.

YOU MAY PUT DROP DUMPLINGS ON TOP OF THE STEWED CHICKEN, BUT NOT FLAT DUMPLINGS. NO INDEEDY.

The original baba, which originated in Poland several centuries ago, was made from a dough raised with yeast and heavily flavored with rum, or brandy, or both, and baked in a tall, special tube pan. Rum syrup had to be heated to exactly the right temperature and poured on a little at a time as the cake absorbed it and swelled to about twice its size. Something which only the experts could do.

Now if you want to make a quick and simple baba au rhum, get a thirsty sponge cake and make a rum sauce. Cook a cup of sugar with three fourths of a cup of water until it reaches the soft ball stage. Take it off the fire and add a fourth of a cup of rum. When it cools, soak the cake with it. Then you can decorate it with candied fruit, blanched almonds, candied cherries and so forth, and fill the center opening with rum flavored whipped cream.

IF YOU WANT something not quite so ready-made, but not as difficult as the original baba mentioned above, try this:

Combine a half cup of vegetable shortening and a teaspoon of grated lemon peel in a large bowl. Stir it to blend and soften the shortening. Put two cups of sifted cake flour, two teaspoons of double action baking powder, three fourths of a tablespoon of salt and one and a fourth cups of sugar in a sifter and sift it over the shortening. Mix a teaspoon of vanilla with three fourths of a cup of milk and pour in into the bowl and mix everything until the flour is dampened. Then mix it for two minutes at medium speed with your electric beater. Add two eggs and beat for another minute.

Pour the batter into a well greased eight-inch tube pan or ring mold. Sprinkle it with currants and bake it in a 350 degree oven for 55 minutes. Cool it in the pan for 10 minutes, finish cooling on a rack.

Now make the rum sauce. Combine in a saucepan a half cup of sugar, three fourths of a cup of apricot nectar, a teaspoon of lemon juice and a half cup of rum. Stir it over low heat until the sugar is dissolved and it begins to boil. Take it off the heat.

Pour half the boiling sauce in the cake pan, put the cake back in, and pour the rest over the cake. When it has cooled, cover it, put it in the icebox to soak overnight. You can serve it with lightly sweetened whipped cream in the center, or, if you don't use a tube pan, you can cover it all over with whipped cream. If you want you can flavor the whipped cream with rum.

FINALLY, for the richest (and strongest) of all, try this: Cut a porous sponge cake into three layers. Put the first layer on a deep cake dish and soak it with half cup of rum. On that, a layer of zabalione, a rich Italian custard made with Marsala, sherry or cognac. Then the next layer of cake, treated the same way. Then the third layer of cake, soaked with rum. Chill it all in the refrigerator, then spread it with a stiff meringue flavored with Curacao, or whipped cream flavored with brandy, decorate it with candied fruits, sprinkle it with pounded almonds and eat it with a soup spoon.

Today's Brain Game

1. Can you name the Englishman who was the first to use vaccinations for smallpox?
2. Was the first free public library in the United States in Boston, New York or Charleston?
3. Can you name the first lawmaking body in America?
4. Can you name the hall in which the First Continental Congress convened?
5. The first battle of the American Revolution took place in what community?
6. Did the first inauguration of a United States President take place on March 4 or April 30, 1789?
7. Who became the first Chief Justice of the United States?
8. Who was the first Attorney General?

Answers.

1. Edward Jenner. 2. Charleston. 3. House of Burgesses. 4. Carpenters' Hall. 5. Lexington. 6. April 30. 7. John Jay. 8. Edmund Randolph.

NEW YORKERS ARE TALKING ABOUT . . . Ralph Bellamy collecting happy notices for his portrayal of FDR in "Sunrise at Campobello." Another landslide for FDR. . . . Abbe Lane, the oh-boy in "Oh, Captain!" . . . Redbook quoting Arthur Miller's opinion of Marilyn's low-cut gowns: "Among men and women there is a genuine fear of accepting such beauty. Why should someone like Marilyn pretend to be dressing like somebody's old aunt?" . . . How many Broadway stars retain their vitality: They receive twice-weekly shots of vitamins. . . . "The Threepenny Opera," which has just passed its 1000th performance. A remarkable record. . . . Mario Lanza vibrating lustily in "The Seven Hills of Rome." Even whams across a rocknrolla. . . . William Holden's passion for cleanliness. Takes four showers a day. . . . Kiplinger's book, "Boom and Inflation Ahead." He has a high batting average in the crystal-ball league. . . . Cary Grant's curious philosophy: "The best way to solve any problem is to lie down on the floor and forget it."

Maria Callas, who owns only 25 fur coats. . . . Eddie Hodges, the 10-year-old carrot-top in "The Music Man." The youngster Has It Made. He recently won $12,500 on a quiz show. . . . The effort that goes into the Music Hall stage spectaculars. While one show is being performed, another is being rehearsed and a third is being planned. . . . Inflation in the litree realm: A new novel costs $7.50. . . . Jean Paul Getty, the richest American, declaring war against dolls: "A woman resents a man dedicated to his business. She, in fact, resents anything dedicated to anything but herself." Which recalls John Barrymore's classic: "The only way to fight women is with a hat. Grab it and run."

THE GLOMOUR OF STARDOM: "Ava Gardner," a reporter recently reported, "agreed to an interview because she is lonely, bored and glad to have an escort." . . . If you take the work away from him, what have you got? It's fine if you have security and money, but that's not enough." Such is the irony of life. You work until you can afford not to work—then you discover that working is more important than money.

Angelo Patri

Chronic Complainer

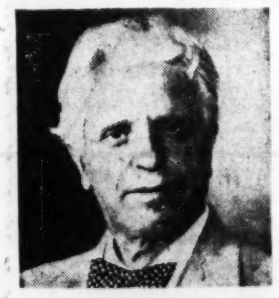
EVERYBODY KNOWS the child who complains as easily and almost as regularly as he breathes. "Sister pinched me! Toby won't let my play! Buster's dog knocked me down! I can't do it. It's too hard for me. I won't play with Billy any more. He doesn't play fair. That teacher has a down on me and always gives me the bad marks. She never looks at what Jake is doing." On and on and on from dawn to dark the compaints pour in.



ANGELO PATRI

A look about the neighborhood soon discloses that the great group of youngsters are doing all right. No complaints. Then, why is it that this one is forever hurting somewhere, forever begging someone to come to his rescue? "Aw, he's always griping," say his playmates. "Don't bother with him. He can't play anyway."

That's it. He can't play whether it is at home or abroad. For some reason he cannot rise to the standard set by his fellows. That reason is what must be found if the attitude of mind that is expressed by the complaints is to be changed. This is an unhappy child, unhappy because he is failing and he complains and blames to cover his deficiencies.

Many times we find this child is underweight for his height and age. When that seems true, he needs the attention of the family doctor. Usually he can remedy that condition. Sometimes he has a physical defect such as poor vision, defective hearing or infected tonsils. The doctor will discover that too and prescribe for them. Diet has a great deal to do with dispositions so the doctor should be consulted about that.

Most people think that the standard diet of meat, eggs, cheese, milk, green and yellow vegetables and a dessert of fruit or a sweet, is all anybody, child or adult, requires. Not always. Some people cannot take that standard diet but need one modified to his needs. Again this is the physician's task and he usually can perform it successfully.

But when the body is mended there is still the mind, and if that is unhealthy because of wrong thinking somebody who understands that condition must handle it. Today doctors are trained to treat the mind along with the body and if this is true of the family doctor things will work out. If it is not true and if the physician is one who shrugs off the need for mental healing better look for someone who knows the need and can meet it.

The complaining child does not want to be a nuisance. He wants to be liked and wanted. He needs help from the physicians, from the teacher and from his parents. Help—not punishment. Training and teaching, not scolding.

Gadgets Galore at Bildors' Home Show

Mere Man Finds Enough Push Buttons and Dials to Keep the Little Woman Busy Full Time

By Dickson Terry

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

WE DROPPED IN on the Bildors' Home Show at the Arena the other afternoon where, among other things, we ate some Ohio cheese (Swiss), some Rocky Mountain fudge and some smoked sausage; watched a man demonstrate a food chopper which he swore he would eat, blade and all, if it didn't work just as well when you got it home as it did there, watched another man demonstrate a mechanical needle threader which he assured us was just what the world has been needing, saw some bricklayers lay some brick, looked at more aluminum awnings and windows than we really cared to see, saw the kitchen of tomorrow demonstrated by a mechanical man from the world of yesterday and came to the conclusion that the chief reason we're behind the Russians is simply that all the best brains have been working on the American kitchen.

This year's model kitchen is a sort of composite, using the most advanced gadgets of the various manufacturers, and any woman will find it a joy to operate—as soon as she has four years at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and 60 hours flying time.

It all fits into one wall of a kitchen. It measures 18 feet in length, and starting at the right are a couple of ovens built into the wall, each with separate functions, and each with more dials and controls than you'll find on the instrument panel of a medium bomber. You can set dials which will make the ovens do everything to a rib roast but carve it and serve it up.

The good old stove has been replaced by what they call a "surface cooking unit," which unfolds out of the wall like the wash basin in a Pullman roomette. Next to that is a box-like unit called an appliance center which has three plugs on pulleys, which you can pull out to plug into your various cooking gadgets, with a set of dials which control time and temperature for each unit.

Under the sink is a deep freeze unit, a new fangled dishwasher, some stainless steel drawers called hot food servers where you can keep the dinner while the guests have another six rounds of drinks, and an under-sink ice box which has an ice cube maker which will make ice cubes and drop them out automatically at the rate of 38 pounds of ice cubes every day, unless you do something about it. It has an automatic regulator.

The water heating system, a compact square unit, is also under the sink and it turns out 300 gallons of hot water a day. At the left end of the panel is the washing machine and the clothes dryer, both built into the wall, one on top of the other, all of which leaves the Little Woman nothing to do but push buttons and set dials from morning to night. Woman's work is never done.

ONE THING about it, though, she can do it in beautiful surroundings. Never has the American kitchen bloomed as it blooms this year. Cabinets and sinks and utilities come in pale and somewhat antiseptic shades of blue, green, yellow, pink and lavender. Or there is a choice of a half dozen different kinds of wood, if you happen to be the woody type.

This passion for color extends even to the telephone. Southwestern Bell has a large and fanciful exhibit designed to create an urge to get rid of that old black thing and get one of nine new and lovely shades to harmonize with your surroundings.

We sat in one of several different kind of chairs that vibrate and were struck with the unnerving thought that the day may come when all chairs vibrate as a matter of course. We watched a man demonstrate dollar gyroscopes. Displayed on his booth was a newspaper clipping which said that the cause of the Vanguard's failure was thought to be a faulty connection between two gyroscopes, and we felt vaguely guilty for not buying one.

We stopped at a machine called the Home Intelligence Quiz. It was a sort of pin-ball game, except that it flashed a group of questions and we were supposed to press a button corresponding to the right answer. After five tries we finally got one right, and a man pinned a silk ribbon badge on us that said "GENIUS." We wore it with pride.

WE VISITED briefly with an old friend of previous Home Shows, the man who sells "the biggest little plane in the world," which utilizes old razor blades and will cut around corners.

Paint, we discovered, need no longer be flat, or of one color. There is a paint that will stipple your walls like the inside of Meramec Caverns, and paint that you can spray on and which comes out in a combination of two or three colors.

Attracted by a solid gold sewing machine, said to be worth $10,000, we stopped and watched a man show what can be done on one that cost a mere $369. "Just put this other gadget in," he explained, "and you have another decorate stitch. The combinations of arrangements of the various cams," he continued, "are almost endless. We've made some 200,000 different kinds of stitches."

But then, for the same money, one can get a General Chef, which no executive should be without. It looks like a mahogany cabinet, but open the top and you have a stove and a small wash basin. Open the bottom and you have a freezer unit and a refrigerator.

As the afternoon waned we gazed with awe and fascination at cuckoo clocks, odorless and smokeless incinerators, various kinds of building tile, electric can openers, furnaces in modern colors to harmonize with the rumpus room, a gas range with burner with a brain, only to be reminded that no matter how technical we get, the enemy is always at work in the form of the termite and the roach, and we have to maintain constant vigilance, at a nominal charge for monthly service.

The sun was sinking low when we shook hands with Mel Doernhoefer, the show director, who reminded us that the doors would be open from 2 until 10:30 p.m. every day through Sunday. We went home tired but happy with a pound of Ohio cheese, a pound of fudge, a pound of smoked sausage, about 143 pounds of assorted literature, and the realization that a Bildors' Show is a strange but fascinating way to spend an afternoon.

. . . EACH WITH MORE CONTROLS THAN YOU'LL FIND ON THE INSTRUMENT PANEL OF A MEDIUM BOMBER.

Tracks in the Snow at Possum Trot

By Leonard Hall

ON ANY STILL DAY after a fall of snow we enjoy walking out across the farm to see how the wild creatures are faring. Sometimes a bad storm will keep the birds and small fur bearers hidden in their cover for an extra day. Yet most of them must "fire their boilers" with food at frequent intervals, since energy created in this way is their safeguard against cold. Thus they are out and abroad as soon as the weather moderates—and then the story of their numbers and travels can be read from their tracks in the mantle of white that covers the land.

Often we have pointed out that wildlife numbers depend ultimately on the carrying capacity of the territory they occupy—which is to say, upon the amount and suitability of food and cover—with weather as an important secondary factor. Nothing could prove this more clearly than our walks through the fields and woods during recent snows.

One jaunt took us down along Saline creek as it flows through Possum Trot farm. Here is a strip of "wild land" which has not been grazed for several seasons and would normally make fine wildlife cover. It was plain from the record in the snow, however, that the floods of last season which brought torrents sweeping down the valley had wiped out most of the small mammals living there. In this area we found countless fox tracks; neat, round impressions in the snow that run in a straight line and are about 10 inches apart. But the dearth of other tracks convinced us Reynard was having a hard time with his hunting.

Normally we would find here regular paths beaten through the tall grass by the cottontails. Along the creek and around the ponds we might see the hand-like imprint of raccoon and smaller paw-prints of the striped skunk. Both these stay in their dens in severe weather but come out to reconnoiter for food when it is mild. Squirrels are also inactive now; and soon their young will be born in snug dens in hollow limbs, high in the larger trees. These young develop slowly, remaining blind for a month, but make rapid progress thereafter. Most numerous of all, however, should be tracks of the small rodents; white-footed and deer mice and meadow voles—and the shrews which belong to a different family.

In spite of good food and cover for the small seed-eaters, we found almost no tracks along the creek or in the flanking fields which had been covered by high water. But we decided this was natural, since the creek had spread to a width of a quarter-mile; a greater distance than any of the smaller animals could swim. Moreover, last summer's floods came when these species were raising their young, so that most of the year's population was drowned.

It would be easy to conclude, from the large number of fox tracks and the scarcity of tracks of other species which normally form Reynard's prey, that he was responsible for this scarcity. Yet this is almost certainly not the case. I doubt that the fox population is up; indeed, it is more apt to have declined as the foxes move into areas where food is plentiful. Moreover, those that remain are unusually active, since they must cover more territory in their hunting. As for the scarcity of the other creatures that normally live in the good cover along Saline creek, we at least know these empty "environmental niches" will fill up rapidly in a normal season.

On the high ground atop the limestone bluff, far above the reach of high water, the tracks in the snow tell a different story. Here are regular boulevards through the briar patches where the cottontails have gone about their affairs on the bright moonlit nights. At the foot of a big red oak we discover the tracks of a squirrel—and on a limestone ledge nearby, we see where he has enjoyed a meal of acorns. Tiny tracks of the shrew appear from a hole no bigger than my thumb beside a dry ragweed stalk, travel across the open for six feet, then disappear beside another weed stalk. We distinguish three different kinds of mouse tracks among the countless trails but haven't the knowledge to attach these to their proper owners.

On this high ground we also find many tracks of the seed-eating birds; of bob-white and smaller species such as junco and field sparrow. Our hedges of multiflora rose have greatly increased the winter habitat for many birds, providing food and shelter and enabling them to stay with us during cold weather, just as the mechanical corn-picker has made it unnecessary for many wild waterfowl to migrate farther south. It would be no exaggeration to say that our hedges shelter and feed more than 50 mocking-birds, not to mention white-throats and white-crowns, cardinals and other species.

One thing more we noted as we came hiking back to the house and the fireside. On our cedar trees—and even on other species such as the locusts and the rose hedges—hang many tough cases spun by the bag-worm larvae. Interestingly, these are always covered with bits of the leaf or tiny twigs of the particular tree on which the bag hangs, as though for camouflage. But we find that a very large percentage of the bags are empty, having been parasitized by various small wasps and flies. Thus we can subscribe to the old saw which runs:

"Big fleas have small fleas upon their backs to bite 'em. And small fleas have smaller fleas—and so, ad infinitum."

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

Bridge Deck

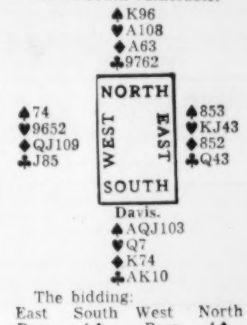
By Florence Osborn

"THIS SLAM contract in spades resulted from optimistic bidding and was brought home only with the help of unexpectedly favorable distribution," writes Alvan L. Davis of Waterbury, in presenting today's hand which he met in a duplicate match at the Elton Bridge Club.

By leading a heart toward the queen, declarer after losing to the king was able to discard a club on dummy's third heart. Then with a club ruff he set up dummy's fourth club, which took care of his diamond loser.

North-South vulnerable.



The bidding:

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1♠ | Pass | 4♠ |
| Pass | 4N.T. | Pass | 5♥ |
| Pass | 6♠ | Pass | Pass |
| Pass | | | |

"When West opened the diamond queen, I took as much time as permissible for study," writes Davis. "Finally, holding my breath, I won with the diamond ace and led a small heart toward my queen and East's play of the king eased my tension.

"Now I had a chance, and I decided to play for the 3-3 club split. I cashed my spade ace and heart queen, then unblocked by cashing the two top clubs. Next I led the ten of spades to dummy's king, holding my little spade for a later entry to dummy.

"The ace of hearts gave me a club discard, followed by a club ruffed by the jack of spades, and I was happy to see the suit split evenly. Now I led the three of spades to dummy's nine, drawing the last adverse trump, and led the long club for the sluff of my losing diamond. I lost only to the king of hearts.

"Of course, I realize I was fortunate beyond normal expectancy."

Winter Vacations For St. Louisans

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

A VARIETY OF TRIPS with a variety of destinations is being planned by St. Louisans who will depart within the next week. Pheasant shooting at the famous Rolling Rock Club in Ligonier, Pa., is in store for Miss Peggy Wightman, whose uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anderson Standish of Sewickley, Pa., will give the party.

Miss Wightman will be accompanied east for the weekend of Feb. 15 by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin S. Wightman Jr., and her close friend, Miss Carol Culver, Veiled Prophet Queen, who will also be the Standishes' guests.

Sunday night, after their return to Sewickley, Mr. and Mrs. Standish will have a small cocktail party at their home for the visitors.

Sarasota, Fla., is attracting several families. Today Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Stanard, 8 Kingsbury place, will depart for Sarasota to stay at the Lido Biltmore Club at Lido Beach where Mrs. Howard V. Stephens will join them in about a week. Later Mrs. Stephens will move down to the Sea Ranch at Fort Lauderdale for another two-week stay.

Venice, Fla., is the destination of Mrs. Festus J. Wade, 4900 Pershing avenue, who will fly south Tuesday to visit her sister, Mrs. Nelson C. Hodgin of Louisville, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. Hodgin spend three months of each year in Florida. After a few days Mrs. Wade and Mrs. Hodgin will motor to Hobe Sound, Fla., for a 10-day stay at the Jupiter Island Club.

Other St. Louisans at Hobe Sound include Mr. and Mrs. George D. Scott, who are visiting his sister, Mrs. Thomas Bloomer of Boston at her winter home.

Returning soon from Venice, Fla., will be three St. Louis girls, Miss Hadley Lammert, Miss Adelaide Cherbonnier and Miss Julia Terry, who have had an apartment there.

The Alcoa Cavalier, sailing Saturday from New Orleans, will carry several St. Louisans to the Caribbean, among them Mr. and Mrs. William C. D'Arcy Jr., 7815 Davis drive, Clayton. Their ports of call will include Jamaica, the Dutch Island of Curaco, Trinidad and several points in Venezuela. They will be home about March 1.

A cruise among the islands of the West Indies with stops at about nine or 10 ports will be taken by Mrs. John George Cella, 8 Upper Ladue road, and Mrs. Francis H. Disbrow, 7 Ciermont lane, Ladue. Mrs. Cella and Mrs. Disbrow will depart next Wednesday and will sail from New York aboard the Empress of England for a three-week trip in southern waters.

Mrs. Newell S. Knight, 112 North Bemiston avenue, Clayton, has returned from Wellesley, Mass., where she attended the thirty-fifth annual session of the Wellesley College Alumnae Council last week. The current major business of the Council is the effort to raise $15,000,000 for faculty salaries, and lesser amounts for other educational needs. Mrs. Knight is president of the St. Louis Wellesley Alumnae Association.

Pre-Wedding Parties for Miss Carter

MISS JUANITA CARTER and James Black Guth, who will be married tomorrow at his home, 1 Allen place, Ferguson, have been honored at a series of parties. On New Year's Eve his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Guth Jr., 2106 South Warson road, Ladue, gave a buffet supper for them. Other parties include showers given by Mrs. R. F. Giesler Jr. and Mrs. Charles E. Martin; Miss Sara Edmonds and her mother, Mrs. John H. Edmonds; Mrs. L. P. Engelhardt and Mrs. William A. Crume, and Mrs. Fred E. Guth and Mrs. Edwin F. Guth Jr., sisters-in-law of the prospective bridegroom.

Two parties were canceled because of the recent bad weather, a party planned by Mrs. Julian M. Lattimore and her daughter, Mrs. Fred D. Weber, and a buffet supper scheduled by Mr. Guth's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Costigan.

The wedding will take place at 11 o'clock in the morning with the Rev. Joseph H. Jones of Ferguson Methodist Church officiating. Attending the ceremony will be Miss Carter's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Baker of Warrenton, Mo., and Mr. Guth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Guth of Charbonnier road, Florissant.

Miss Bohnenkamp Sets Wedding Date

MISS PATRICIA ELLEN BOHNENKAMP and David Lee Smillie, whose engagement was announced early this year, have been selected June 7 as the date for their wedding. The ceremony will be performed at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon by the Rev. Dr. C. Oscar Johnson at Third Baptist Church. Later there will be a reception at the home of the prospective bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Bohnenkamp, 7 Country Aire, Town and Country.

Miss Bohnenkamp has asked Miss Marilyn Harrington to serve as maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Mr. Smillie's sisters-in-law, Mrs. Winston B. Smillie, Kentfield, Calif., and Mrs. Ronald P. Smillie, and Mrs. Robert K. Erickson of Gary, Ind., a former classmate of the bride-elect at Stephens college.

Mr. Smillie's mother, Mrs. Folmer Hagelund, and Mr. Hagelund will be here for the wedding, from their home in Oak Park, Ill. Roland Smillie will act as his brother's best man and Winston Smillie, L. Mitchell Bohnenkamp, brother of the bride-to-be, and Burns Davidson will be ushers.

A list of pre-wedding parties will be announced later.

THE POLONAISE DANCE CLUB will hold its second dance of the year at Countryside Inn, Highway 40 and Woods Mill road Saturday evening. A cocktail party will be given preceding the dance at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald J. Oetter, 850 Duke drive, University City. Co-hosts and hostesses will be Dr. and Mrs. Theodore J. Kneip, Mr. and Mrs. Jack T. Wooten and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Keaveny. The theme of the February dance will be Mardi Gras.

Martha Carr's ® OPINION

Dear Martha:

WHAT does one do when someone you love breaks your heart? Our son and his wife live in our neighborhood and the daughter-in-law bums all over the neighborhood, stays hours on end at first one home then another. But when she drops in on mama-in-law she is always in a hurry, has ironing to do, or sewing, just breezes in, then out. Why can't she stay at least a half-hour? We are on good terms but she doesn't have time for her in-laws. I know that I have treated her with utmost respect, better than her own mother. When is she going to realize that her mother-in-law is human? Why are neighbors so much more important?

Readers are requested to keep their letters short when writing to Martha Carr. For a personal reply inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope with the letter you send to Martha Carr, in care of the Post-Dispatch. Letters of a medical or legal nature cannot be answered.

MRS. J.

That idea may be furthest from her thoughts and you may be taking offense where none is meant. If the neighbors are her own age, she may feel a little more comfortable with them, even though she is now a member of your family. It's hard to be grateful for the "crumbs" of someone's company, if you feel she prefers to visit others, but on the other hand, you can be glad that she drops in often, even if only for a breezy few minutes. Don't let yourself resent her visits with her neighbors. Instead, try to enjoy her brief calls, let her go on her way, and plan more leisurely visits in the evening when your son can come too and it can be something of an occasion.

Dear Martha:

ABOUT THREE MONTHS AGO a good friend died. I have been extremely fond of his widow for a long time. In fact, before she married him 14 years ago we used to date occasionally. I have never married. Now I am wondering how long I should wait before asking her to go out with me. Is this too soon?

WONDERING.

I think much depends on her and the kind of life she is leading now. If she is seeing only a few friends and still appears to be in deep grief, then she might be offended if you tried to resume an old friendship. On the other hand, if she is going out socially to some extent, or if she is working and is out in the business world, I think you can assume that she might enjoy your company. That would be true especially if you have been with her and her husband a great deal and she looks on you as a dear friend. You certainly can take her to quiet restaurants to dinner or for a ride in your car, but to start to rush her and to invite her to elaborate or gay parties would be in poor taste. Don't try to rush her into marriage, either. A year after her husband's death is surely not too long to wait.

Are you planning a party for the youngest members of the family? Martha Carr's free leaflet, "Let's Have a Party," will help you with plans for party games, invitations, refreshments and favors for the kindergarten and primary set. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Those Blue Mondays

I'VE BEEN KEEPING HOUSE for a good many years and I haven't yet been able to figure out why it's so much harder to get a family off on Monday morning than on any other day of the week.

RUTH MILLETT

Why is it that it's always on Monday that a car won't start, that a school book is lost, that the bacon burns, that the first shirt the man of the family puts on has a button missing, and so on?

Are our lives run at so fast a pace that the little bit of slowdown afforded by our weekends gets us completely out of step, and we find ourselves each Monday morning not quite ready for a brand-new workday week?

I don't know the answer. Maybe some of you other homemakers do.

All I know is that on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings everything moves like clockwork. On those days cooking breakfast and getting a family off to work and school is a breeze.

But Mondays are a different story. On Monday you can expect anything to happen—and something always does. Faces that look bright and cheery the rest of the week look glum on Mondays. Routine that moves without a hitch on other days breaks down and hurry and confusion reign on Mondays.

For the average family, I suspect, getting back into the swing of things on Monday morning is almost as difficult and depressing as getting back to work after a two weeks' vacation.

Not that I want to give up the weekends, understand. It's just that it seems a shame that weekends have to be followed by Monday morning.

Emily Post

An Unused Gift

DEAR MRS. POST: Not long ago I was given a stork shower and received many lovely baby presents—many more than I could possibly use. My daughter has worn several of them but there are a few that she has never used and now has outgrown. A friend of mine who gave one of these lovely dresses just had a daughter of her own. My daughter has never worn this particular dress and I would like to know if it would be proper to give it back to her for her daughter, or might this hurt her feelings?

Answer: I advise you not to give her the dress because, if her feelings are easily hurt, the knowledge that the dress not used by your daughter was the one she had given to you might make her unhappy.

DEAR MRS. POST: While having dinner with a friend the other evening, I seemed to have embarrassed her by pushing my dinner plate aside after I had finished eating, and putting my coffee cup in front of me. Was this incorrect? We were not having dessert and the coffee was served before we had quite finished eating our dinner. I thought this much simpler than reaching across the dinner plate to drink my coffee.

Answer: To call undue attention to the maneuver would be bad manners. If the plate was really in the way or unappetizing to look at, it would have been nicer to ask the waiter to take it away.

Vain Search for a 'Middle-Aged' Star

By Charles Mercer

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP).

PRODUCERS OF "Wide Wide World" (NBC-TV) have undertaken some dangerous assignments in their time, but none has quite equalled that of Ted Rogers in preparing "The House in Webster Groves" for next Sunday (3 p.m. St. Louis time on KSD-TV.)

His hazardous mission: To get a Hollywood movie star in her 40s to discuss the problems and rewards of middle age—the theme of "The House in Webster Groves."

"I never saw so many slammed doors in my life," says Rogers. "I thought one former movie queen was going to crown me with her Oscar."

"Wide Wide World," which seeks to illustrate its themes largely in terms of people, felt that a former star — whose career had been built on youth and beauty—could tell dramatically of problems and adjustments that come with the passage of years.

With some trepidation Rogers set out to broach the subject of appearing on the program to several stars.

"I thought it was better to discuss it in person than on the phone," he said ruefully. "I'd tell them I was from NBC and be received graciously. Then I'd tell them I was a producer of 'Wide Wide World' and they'd be positively enthralled. Finally I'd explain that the subject of this particular show was the middle years.

"That did it! There would be a deafening silence. And I'd start looking for the door. One actress was a former Academy Award winner. She still looked lovely. But when I told her the show was about middle age she said, 'I think you're a nice guy, but I've got a date to go sailing. Goodby!'"

Rogers said that the only Hollywood star willing to cooperate in the project was Maureen O'Sullivan, the attractive Irish actress who played Tarzan's mate and who now is married to director John Farrow and the mother of seven children.

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN . . . WILLING BUT UNAVAILABLE.

"Maureen has the most wonderful philosophy about the middle years," Rogers said. "She told us:

"'It's hard, perhaps, for a woman to grow up. But you're helped by a new kind of wisdom. You get on better terms with yourself. Even about your looks you reach an accommodation with yourself—they could be better, they could be worse, and on the whole you're grateful.

"'After 30 a woman either gains or loses. What she is comes out. She can't hide behind youth anymore. The bright golden shield is down. But it's exciting to find what is there.'"

Rogers said that Miss O'Sullivan expressed so well what the program was trying to say that she would have been ideal.

"She was willing to do it, too," he said with a sigh. "But unfortunately she was sailing for Spain. And no other Hollywood actress would do it. So we're just doing the show without one."

(Central figures of the program will be the Carl G. Bewig family, 428 Tuxedo avenue, Webster Groves.)

Famous Fable

EFFECTIVE: A young poet reading his latest poem to Norwegian dramatist Henrik Ibsen. It was mediocre verse, but Ibsen listened to the bitter end. Then he asked:

"Do you really earn a living from that?"

"Well," answered the other modestly, "it keeps the wolf from the door."

"Ah," said Isben, "you read it to him?"

E. E. EDGAR.

Today's Patterns

Send 35 cents in coin for a pattern—add 5 cents for each pattern for first-class mailing. Send to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Needlecraft Dept., P.O. Box 136, Old Chelsea Sta., New York 11, N.Y. Print pattern number, name, address, zone.

As a bonus, two complete patterns are printed right in our Laura Wheeler Needlecraft Book. Dozens of other designs you'll want to order—easy fascinating handwork for yourself, your home, gifts, bazaar items. Send 25 cents for your copy of this book today.

Button on the bib—you have a full apron. Button off the bib—presto a half apron.

Printed Pattern 4585: Misses' sizes small (10, 12); medium (14, 16); large (18, 20). Full apron, medium size requires 1⅜ yards 35-inch fabric; 1⅜ yards contrast.

Send 35 cents (coins) for a pattern—add 5 cents for each pattern for first-class mailing. Send to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, care of Anne Adams, Pattern Department, P. O. Box 121, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N. Y. Print your name, address with zone; size and style number.

Breaded Veal With Fresh Tomatoes

Ingredients: eight thin slices (one pound) boneless tender veal, one large egg, five tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs, five tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, salt, pepper, three tablespoons peanut oil, two medium-sized tomatoes (peeled and diced), two tablespoons minced parsley, sugar, minced basil (fresh or dried).

Method: Beat egg enough to combine yolk and white. Mix bread crumbs, cheese and a dash of salt and pepper on a large flat plate or waxed paper. Heat oil in large skillet (10 to 12 inches) until very hot; dip a slice of veal in beaten egg, then in bread and cheese crumbs, so both sides of meat are coated. Cook three or four slices at a time in hot oil until browned on both sides and cooked through; this will take only a few minutes for each side. Keep first slices warm while others are being fried. Remove any very dark particles from drippings in skillet; add diced tomato with parsley, salt, pepper, sugar and basil to taste. Stir well and cook until tomatoes soften. Top each veal slice with a little of the tomato mixture. Makes four servings.

TV Notes and Gossip

PAT WEAVER, former president of NBC who invented "spectaculars," has sold his first network show of his own, an audience participation program called "Make Me Laugh." Contestants will make a dollar for every second they are able to keep from laughing. The program will have its debut on the ABC-TV network March 20.

Wayde Preston, star of "Colt .45," presented on KTVI at 7:30 p.m. Fridays, will be in St. Louis tomorrow. He will make an appearance on KTVI's "Coffee Break" program at 2:30.

The producing staff of "Wide Wide World" screened more than 3000 families before selecting the Carl G. Bewig family of Webster Groves as central figures in its program on KSD-TV Sunday. The program will deal with the privileges and problems of Americans in their middle years.

Tina Sinatra, 9-year-old daughter of Frank Sinatra, will be a guest on her father's program on KTVI tomorrow night.

Bud Collyer will take next week off as a vacation from his television shows. Sonny Fox, formerly of KETC, St. Louis, will substitute for him on "Beat the Clock" and John Cameron Swayze will take over "To Tell the Truth."

CLARABELL, the clown of the "Howdy Doody" show, will visit St. Louis next Thursday with the winner of the program's "Smile Contest" and will appear on KSD and KSD-TV programs.

Paul Muni will make one of his rare television appearances on "Playhouse 90" on March 6, playing the lead in "The Last Clear Chance." Muni will star as a defense lawyer.

By Ramon Coffman

CAREFUL measurements have been made to determine the diameter of the sun. This became possible after the distance of the sun from the earth was established.

Q. What is the diameter of the sun?

A. In round figures, the sun's diameter is 865,000 miles. The earth's diameter is a bit less than 8000 miles. The sun has almost exactly 109 times the earth's diameter.

Q. Does that mean the sun is only 109 times as large as the earth?

A. Not by any means.

Let a ping-pong ball represent the earth, and let a hollow ball 14 and a half feet in diameter represent the sun. How many ping-pong balls could you put inside the big hollow ball? I think that your free money (and mine!) would be used up long before enough ping-pong balls could be bought for the purpose.

If 1,300,000 balls of clay, each the size of the earth, could be pressed together, they would make a single gigantic ball the size of the sun.

Q. Does the material in the sun have the same weight as that of the earth?

A. The material in the sun is less dense than the earth's material. An average cubic mile of the earth would weigh about the same as three and a half cubic miles of the sun.

Q. What about the gravity on the sun?

A. It is figured that the sun's surface gravity is 28 times as great as that of the earth. Let us suppose that a 90-pound boy could go to the sun—and that the sun was kind enough to cool down for an hour or so. If the boy stepped on spring scales, he would weigh one and one fourth tons!
